COMMONS REJECTS VOTE OF CENSURE

Balfour's Attempt to Discredit Asquith Government Defeated by 119 Majority.

KING MISLED, SAID UNIONIST

Pictured Prospective New Peers as Supers in a Sordid Drama and Rang Changes on Home Rule.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—A vote of censure of the Government for having obtained from the King a pledge to create, if necessary, enough peers to pass the Lords veto bill, was rejected by the House of Commons to-night by a majority of 119, the vote standing 365 to 246. The motion was introduced by Arthur J. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, and was based on the charge that Mr. Asquith, the Prime Minister, had taken advantage of the King's inexperience to bring about an abuse of the royal prerogative by securing the guarantees before the last general election. Mr. Asquith in reply to this charge asserted that the Ministers had pursued an entirely properly constitutional course. The result was that after the Premier's speech the debate on the Unionist side virtually collapsed.

The chamber was filled to its capacity. Peers and distinguished strangers were present in large numbers. The diplomatic and ladies' galleries were filled, the occupants including American Ambassador Reid and other diplomats. Mr. Balfour's motion, of which he gave notice on Aug. 2, was as follows:

> That the advice given his Majesty by his Majesty's Ministers whereby they obtained from his Majesty a pledge that a sufficient number of peers would be created to pass the Parliament bill in the shape in which it left this House is a gross violation of constitutional liberty by which, among other ill-consequences, the people will be precluded from again pronouncing upon the policy of home rule.

The rival leaders were loudly cheered as they entered the room, and Mr. Balfour was heartily applauded as he rose to present his motion rebuking the Government. The former Unionist Prime Minister said that he was conscious of the gravity of the situation and the seriousness of the step which he asked the House to take. He said he thought that it would be admitted that never in all history had there been a more serious case or one which more urgently deserved, or indeed required, the consideration of Parliament and the emphatic condemnation of the Ministers.

"The Ministers," said Mr. Balfour, "have grossly abused their rights of advising the Crown, and by abusing those rights put themselves above the constitution. They have acted wholly without precedent." They have done this not, as Mr. Balfour conceived, in order to meet any great question of state, but "in order to further a party arrangement between different sections who support them and in order to prevent the people of the country from pronouncing their opinion on home rule."

The Unionist leader asserted that the Ministry had placed the sovereign who had just come to the throne in a cruel position. The King was a fount of honor, but the Government, by their advice, had poisoned and corrupted the stream at its source. He dubbed the proposed new peers "supers in this sordid drama."

Mr. Balfour further declared that it would be difficult to conceive of any politician playing a meaner or more contemptible part. He contended that the question of Home Rule had never been before the country throughout the controversy. There was not the slightest justification for the creation of peers to enable the Government to carry it through both houses without a reference to the people. It was contrary, he declared, to all opinions of constitutional legislative chambers to put both chambers in the hands of the executive to manipulate it as it liked, and it was a wholly unconstitutional method of dealing with deadlocks for the Prime Minister to advise the King to pack the upper house with hired voters.

Mr. Balfour concluded with the prophecy that the country would soon let the Radicals know that it would not allow a repetition of "the crime of 1911."

Prime Minister Asquith appeared in his best form when he stood up to reply. Jeeringly he thanked Mr. Balfour for "this opportune though unexpected motion. It was the very thing that the Government wanted."

"It was my strong hope and belief," said Mr. Asquith, "that the Lords would accept the bill, and only when that hope was frustrated, as it was last month, was his Majesty asked and consented, if it was necessary, to exercise his prerogative. We took the only course consistent with honor and a true regard for the dignity of the Crown. The course was correct, considerate, and constitutional, and in my own name and in those of my colleagues I am perfectly content to accept the decision of the House and of my fellow-countrymen in regard thereto."

Mr. Asquith further told the House that it was at the King's express desire that he disclosed the communications which had passed between them, so there should be no mystery and no misunderstanding of a perfectly simple and correct transaction. He stated that his intention to ask for guarantees in certain eventualities had been communicated to King Edward, first on April 14, 1910. Mr. Asquith concluded by maintaining that the only method of dealing with the situation was through the use of the royal prerogative.

"I hold my office," he added, "not only by the favor of the Crown, but on behalf of the people, and I should be guilty indeed, of treason if at the supreme moment of a great struggle I were to betray their trust."

Frederick E. Smith and others made brave attempts to fan the flames against the Government, but were compelled to fall back on the well worn argument that the members of the Government were being driven by their taskmaster, John Redmond, and that their whole object was to secure the easy passage of Irish home rule.

Walter Hume Long, ex-Chief Secretary for Ireland, challenged Mr. Asquith to reveal his conversations with King George, but Winston Churchill, the Home Secretary, who wound up the debate, declined to consider such an unusual request. An incident of the session was the strong disapproval shown by the main body of the Unionists with the reflections made against the leaderships of Mr. Balfour and Lord Lansdowne by Mr. Smith and other representatives of the Halsbury revolt.

The debate was characterized by numerous interruptions, but there was no disorder.

PLANNED TO WRECK TRAIN.

Engine and One Car on Great Northern Thrown from Track.

FARGO, N. D., Aug. 7.—A bold attempt to wreck Great Northern passenger train No. 9 was made at Moorhead, Minn., early to-day. The engine, tender and mail car left the track. No one was injured.

Spikes and fishplates had been removed from two rails, and tools were found in the woods nearby. The motive of the alleged would-be wreckers is a mystery.

The train proceeded five hours late.

BANKER MISTAKEN FOR THIEF

Frank Martin Arrested in His Own Lodgings After Entering by Window.

Frank Martin has lately been living at the residence of Albert H. Bickmore, at 300 West Seventy-first Street, his partner in the banking firm of Albert H. Bickmore & Co., of 30 Pine Street. Mr. Martin had yesterday the remarkable experience of being mistaken for a burglar and of being taken into custody by the police in his own lodgings.

Mr. Martin entered the Bickmore residence in the afternoon by climbing through a basement window. Persons living in the neighborhood informed the police of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station. Detectives Sharpe and McCormick when they reached the scene found the basement window open. They entered the basement and ascended to the second floor, where they found Mr. Martin taking off his clothes.

"Hands up," cried the detectives, levelling their revolvers at the surprised banker, who thought for a moment that he was the victim of a hold-up. He complied with their request unhesitatingly. The detectives displayed their shields, and informed Mr. Martin that he was under arrest for having unlawfully entered the house.

"Why, I live here," gasped Mr. Martin. "Haven't I a right to enter my own house and change my clothes if I so desire?" he demanded of the skeptical detectives who were growing impatient.

"Well, if you live here and can identify yourself, we will not interfere," remarked the detectives.

Mr. Martin remembered that Mr. Bickmore had been out of the city for several weeks, and that he was only a temporary lodger in the house and was not widely known in the neighborhood. He carefully explained these facts to the sleuths, and also that he had lost his keys, and he succeeded in increasing their skepticism.

"You had better come on over to the 'station house,'" they concluded, "and explain it all to the Lieutenant."

Mr. Martin consented, and when the three arrived at the West Sixty-eighth Street Station the banker repeated his explanation and asked that his banking firm be communicated with in order that employes could come to the station and prove his identity. This was done, and Henry J. Shaw, cashier, and Edward Lanfore, bookkeeper of the banking firm, hastened to the West Sixty-eighth Street Station.

Mr. Martin was identified, and after laughing heartily over the mistake, left the station house, declaring that hereafter he would enter his home by the front door.

WOMAN MAYOR WOULD QUIT.

Politics Not Her Game, She Says—To Try to Oust Councilmen.

HUNNEWELL, Kan., Aug. 7.—"Politics is not a woman's game." This is the decision of Mrs. Ella Wilson, Mayor of this town, who since her inauguration has had a continuous fight with the City Council, composed entirely of men. They have not confirmed her appointees for City Marshal or City Clerk, and she has not signed any of the ordinances they have passed.

Mrs. Wilson to-night for the first time admitted that she would quit if she could, but at the same time she turned on the members of the City Council and forced them to listen to her. She will not quit unless forced to do so, she declares.

During the last week Mrs. Wilson has conferred with Gov. Stubbs and he told her, she says, that if to-night's meeting of the City Council was not satisfactory he would aid her in having members of the council ousted. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Wilson telegraphed Gov. Stubbs to begin ouster proceedings against the Councilmen.

"You fellows evidently are not here for business," Mrs. Wilson told the Councilmen when the meeting opened. "You must get out or help me run the town."

"I suppose you represent the will of the people of this town?" asked J. F. Richardson, when the Mayor vetoed an ordinance.

"Sit down," ordered Mrs. Wilson, "I am Mayor here."

Richardson sat down and he did not interrupt the proceedings again.

The meeting accomplished nothing except to pay for the repairs on the town pump.

In speaking of her willingness to quit, Mrs. Wilson said:

"I'd be satisfied if ousted from office, but I can't quit the battle myself under the present conditions. I am tired of the fighting. Politics is not a woman's place but the men will find that a woman will fight as long as anybody once she gets in politics."

MAYOR GIBBS WON'T RESIGN.

Defies Taxpayers' Association and Threatens Prosecutions.

Special to The New York Times.

BELMAR, N. J., Aug. 7.—The Taxpayers' Association, headed by Major Carl Lentz, ex-Chairman of the New Jersey State Republican Committee, has demanded the resignation of Mayor Coleman A. Gibbs, and the demand has been flatly refused. The association charges the administration with gross mismanagement and lavish expenditures without adequate returns.

Mayor Gibbs said to-day that not only would he not resign, but that he would be a candidate for re-election this Fall.

"I shall not deliver the borough over into the hands of the Molly Maguires," he said. "We are now making preparations to take legal action against the Board of Governors of the Taxpayers' Association. They have set up a provisional government, a sort of confederacy, and are violating the constitution of the borough by interfering with the administration of municipal affairs. As soon as Prosecutor John S. Applegate discovers where they meet in secret he will swear out warrants for their arrest."

The President of the Taxpayers' Association is Dr. J. W. Hassler of Newark, a Summer resident. The association was organized by New York, Newark, Jersey City, and Elizabeth people who own Summer places here. The association was incorporated this week. Abram Rothchild of Newark is the First Vice President, and John Hall of Jersey City Second Vice President. Members of the Board of Directors are: I. Newton Williams, A. D. Burgesser, Charles Brown, and Mr. McCabe of New York, Peter Egenoff of Elizabeth, and Major Lentz of Trenton.

The association plans to present a full ticket for borough officers this Fall, and members have pledged themselves to establish their voting residence here to help carry the election.

Directors of the association met to-night to consider plans to bring about the Mayor's removal from office.

NIGHT CARS ARE RUN DESPITE STRIKERS

Cars Reach Park Circle Up to 11 P. M. with Little Trouble, but None Gets to Coney Island.

ARBITRATION ATTEMPTS FAIL

One-third Service Maintained During the Day with Little Rioting—Men Are Tired, Says Their President.

A lull in rioting yesterday marked the third day of the trolley strike in Brooklyn. A few stones were thrown at the cars, but service on a one-third schedule continued to Coney Island on both the Smith Street and Franklin Avenue lines throughout the day. A few cars ran during the evening until 11 o'clock for the first time since the strike began, but only as far as Park Circle. A few minor riots were reported at that point late last night, and there were few passengers on the cars.

All along the lines affected by the strike crowds waited to see a continuance of the disorder which prevailed on the two previous days, but the police had the situation so well in hand that no one dared to start a riot. Only one arrest was made all day.

Officials of the company announced late last night that yesterday's schedule would be continued to-day, and that the old day schedule would go into effect on Wednesday. No statement was made as to when the through schedule to Coney Island would be resumed during the night hours.

Attempts at Peace Fail.

The entire day was given up to attempts at arbitration. These were futile, however, and were looked on as a joke in the camps of both belligerents. Deputy Commissioner W. C. Rogers of the Bureau of Mediation of the State Department of Labor was the prime mover for peace. Early in the day he went to see President S. W. Huff of the railroad company, and when they parted Commissioner Rogers told reporters there was nothing to be said. President Huff supplemented this by saying they had had a "friendly chat."

At 3 P. M. Patrick J. Shea, the strikers' leader, and Joseph Ryan, President of the union, called on Commissioner Rogers in his Manhattan office. They learned that President Huff had treated the Commissioner most cordially, but that he had waived the question of arbitration by saying there was nothing to arbitrate.

The labor delegates went next to City Hall, but Mayor Gaynor was taking a brief vacation, and his secretary begged the delegates to call again. They said they would.

When President Ryan was seen later he seemed optimistic about the outcome. He admitted that his organization had not heard from the officials of the company, but mentioned several points as indicating victory.

"We are winning the people over to our way of thinking," he said. "We have shown that we mean business, and we are being respected for it. Mayor Gaynor knew that we meant business weeks before the strike was called, and at that time he wrote to President Huff and told him as much. All this trouble could have been averted if the company had only considered our demands.

Men's Demands Are Slight.

"We asked for two primary concessions and several secondary ones which we would be only too glad to waive if the matter came to arbitration. The two cents an hour increase in wages amounts to about $70 a year for each man, and counting 375 men employed it would cost the company only about $25,000 extra a year.

"Instead they choose to run cars up and down their lines without making a cent. They are losing, on a very conservative estimate, about $5,000 a day. They won't keep this up much longer, I predict, and that is mainly why I think we will win the strike.

"Every one of our men has remained true. Not one has deserted, notwithstanding the company's assertion that many have applied to be reinstated. What is more, our ranks are growing every day. We have all the support we need. Each of the men get $5 a week from the benefit fund, and there is much more money to be had when the men need it. I wish to repeat that we are out to stay, but I feel sure the strike won't last much longer."

Asked how he explained the lull in rioting during the day, he said:

"I suppose the men are tired from the activities on Saturday and Sunday."

This was the only official verification of the charge that the strikers as well as the strike sympathisers were involved in the rioting of the two days previous. Mr. Ryan supplemented this statement, however, by saying that all of the strikers had been ordered officially to refrain from violence.

At the railroad company's headquarters it was argued that the strikers had laid down their arms and that they were yielding. The police, for the first time since the beginning of the strike, had the situation completely in hand. The sentences imposed for rowdyism, too, it was suggested, had a quieting effect.

Magistrate McGuire, in the Fifth Avenue Court, had no clemency for rioters. Policemen McNamara and Wing, of the so-called "strong arm squad," arraigned five men as participants in Sunday's riots. Three were sent to the workhouse for five days each, and two who had tested strength with the policemen, were committed for ten days each.

Day Passed Off Quietly.

Magistrate Naumer, in the same court, held Dan Murphy of 135 Seventh Street, a motorman on the Smith Street line, in $500 bail for examination on Wednesday. He was charged with throwing stones at a car at Third Avenue and Ninth Street. Anna Heckler of 815 Court Street, who was arrested on Saturday for throwing stones at a Smith Street car at Second Avenue, was discharged. Many others who had been arrested on Sunday were held for examination.

Operation of the Smith Street cars was resumed at about 9 o'clock, when a car in charge of Motorman Edward Green and Conductor J. E. Harrison, who said he had done strike-breaking service in San Francisco, Columbus, Providence, Philadelphia, and Chicago, was started for Manhattan. The first car for Coney Island did not leave until an hour later. Except for a few stones hurled at it in Prospect Park West, little trouble was reported. The Franklin Avenue cars made their runs absolutely unmolested. No traffic on the Hamilton Ferry line was attempted. Supt. Ackley of the Smith Street line said that the company was running twenty-two of its eighty cars.

By far the greatest danger yesterday was the incapacity of the motormen. Few had the slightest respect for grade crossings, and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit placed Inspectors at all points where its lines crossed those of the Coney Island & Brooklyn. Many collisions were averted thus. Even passing fire engines did not alter the speed which the strike-breaking motormen maintained. Persons waiting to board cars were passed at full speed.

RUN DOWN GAMBLING AT ARVERNE CASINO

Detectives Ordered Also to Break Up the Business in Far Rockaway and Edgemere.

WATCH SUSPECTED HOUSES

First Signs of Activity Since the Kuloff Was Raided Four Years Ago—Layouts Taken Found in Casino.

For the first time since the famous Kuloff, casino and restaurant, at Far Rockaway was raided on July 30, 1907, the police have begun another crusade in Far Rockaway and its environs, Edgemere and Arverne. This became known yesterday afternoon when three men walked into the Arverne Casino and asked for the proprietor, Edward Miller.

Miller, expecting that the strangers were prospective guests, met them in the office. There they introduced themselves as Detectives Adam McMullen, Otto Reich, and David Kuhn, all of the Central Office in Manhattan. They told Miller that he was under arrest on the charge of having gambling paraphernalia in his possession, and despite the manager's protests, they insisted on searching several rooms on the second floor of the hotel.

There they found a roulette table, a craps table, a faro box, and a lot of poker chips. There was considerable excitement in the Casino when the identity of the three strangers became known. Miller was carried off to the Rockaway Beach Police Station, and soon a patrol wagon backed up in front of the Casino. Into this the gambling paraphernalia was placed and carried to the station, to be used as evidence.

The detectives declined to state how they had learned that there was gambling in the Casino. It was learned, however, that a resident of one of the Arverne cottages complained to Police Headquarters in Manhattan that there had been a sudden resumption of gambling in Far Rockaway and its outlying sections.

McMullen, Reich, and Kuhn were sent to Far Rockaway, with instructions to get into the gambling places if possible. They did not succeed in all cases, but in several instances they obtained sufficient evidence to warrant the stationing of a uniformed policeman at the door of the suspected place and at least one resort has since closed its doors.

Miller will be arraigned in the Far Rockaway Police Court this morning. There is likely to be a large crowd of spectators, for there are many in Arverne, Edgemere, and Far Rockaway who would like to know how the detectives obtained the information.

With the raiding of the Kuloff, four years ago, gambling apparently came to an end in the Rockaways, and until yesterday there has been no interference by the police with what quiet games of poker may have been run in several places.

SUES GLASS TRUST OFFICERS.

Stockholder Alleges Fraud in Disbursing the Assets.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 7.—Charging that officials of the dissolved Imperial Window Glass Trust have been guilty of gross frauds against stockholders, Monro Lemon, a stockholder and former employe, to-day filed suit against the officers and Directors.

The officers and Directors of the Imperial Company, which controlled nearly 90 per cent. of the Nation's hand-blown window glass output, pleaded guilty last October to violations of the Sherman Anti-Trust act.

Lemon asks for an injunction restraining the company from disbursing any further assets or moneys, and asks that a receiver be appointed.

It is also alleged that the corporation was defrauded out of upward of $250,000, which was divided among officers, Directors, and other creditors. Lemon declares that J. R. Johnston, Secretary of the company, and others entered into conspiracies and fraudulent agreements with others to divide large sums of money under pretext of paying to the outside parties for pretended services to the company.

He makes the startling declaration that the Imperial Company during the year 1910 borrowed about $600,000, for which it was forced to pay interest of $240,000.

It is asserted that an illegal conspiracy was arranged between the officers and others in underwriting contracts and special rebates, which aggregated almost $250,000. Besides Secretary Johnston, the following officers are mentioned: Myron L. Case, President; Mack J. Healy, Vice President, and J. G. Sayre, Treasurer.

COAL VEIN ON MORGAN LANDS

Outcrops for a Mile and May Yield Millions for Owner.

Special to The New York Times.

TRINIDAD, Col., Aug. 7.—A big vein of coal was unearthed on the property of the Wootten Land and Fuel Company yesterday. This concern is owned almost entirely by J. Pierpont Morgan of New York.

The coal vein is reported to outcrop for a distance of a mile toward the hills, where it runs so deep under cover that further proof is impracticable.

The opening of the coal measure will be less than 200 feet from the tipple of the Turner mine, and all facilities of the modern coal mine can be brought to bear. Expert coal men say the discovery will yield millions to the owner.

SAYS INDIANS HOLD WOMAN.

Officials at Ely, Minn., Investigating Story About White Captive.

ELY, Minn., Aug. 7.—Julia Labernick, 17 years old, returning from picking blueberries in the White Iron Lake locality to-day, told of meeting a strange half-clad woman who said she was held captive by Indians. According to the Labernick girl, the woman told her that she is an Austrian and said that she had been a captive for six months and had been horribly treated.

While the Labernick girl was talking to the woman she says an Indian appeared and dragged the woman away. The authorities are investigating.

TADPOLES GENERATED BY ELECTRICITY'S AID

Prof. Betaillon, Biologist of Dijon, Announces Successful Experiments in Artificial Generation.

TWO PROCESSES, HE SAYS

First Applied Platinum Needle to Frog's Eggs, Then Electric Discharges —Fish Egg Experiments Fail.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—Success in experiments leading toward artificial generation of life is now claimed by a biologist of Dijon, Prof. Betaillon, who has just carried out a curious experiment in the artifical stimulation of living embryos.

Going a step further than Prof. Delage of Paris, who a couple of years ago asserted that he had obtained artificial fecundation of the eggs of sea urchins, a very low form of life, Prof. Betaillon has tried his hand on frogs' eggs, and now announces that he has obtained tadpoles by pricking the eggs with a very fine platinum needle.

He afterward subjected the pricked eggs, he says, to electric discharges and was much more successful. Thus he came to the conclusion that two processes were requisite for the development of a living being from the eggs. These processes, he conceives, as first, a shock that sets the segmentation process in motion, and, second, a factor which accelerates the evolution.

Prof. Betaillon has also experimented on fish eggs, but without result, owing, he believes, to difficulties connected with the heat.

In September, 1907, Prof. Delage of the Sorbonne completed a series of remarkable experiments in the chemical development of life. In his laboratory at Roscoff, Brittany, he placed the unfertilized eggs of the sea urchin and the starfish in sea water, adding a solution of sugar with a few drops of ammonia and tannin. In about an hour segmentation, the first sign of life, set in and the eggs produced larvae. The majority of these larvae soon died, but by constant care, according to his report, Prof. Delage brought four of the sea urchins and two of the starfish through the larvae stage, and they became healthy growing specimens. It was noted that one of the sea urchins had six pairs of tentacles and six pairs of spikes, whereas those which are produced by natural means have only five. The experiments of Prof Delage showed that the vital impulses began as soon as the fecundating liquid touched the ovule.

Prof. Jacques Loeb of the University of California also carried on experiments for years in artificial fertilization at the Marine Laboratory at Wood's Hole, California, where he convinced himself that it is possible to perform by chemical or mechanical means male functions in the propagation of life.

ONE FLIGHT PARIS TO MADRID

Vedrines Plans to Do Whole Distance Without a Stop.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—Pierre Vedrines, who came so near winning The London Daily Mail air race in England, has now decided, in spite of his recent bad luck, to try a new feat, which he hopes will astound the world. It is his intention to start soon upon a flight without stops from Paris to Madrid.

Whether M. Vedrines will be able to carry out his ambitious plan or not, he professes to be quite confident of remaining fifteen hours in the air, travelling all the time in a straight line. He hopes in this way to establish a claim on the Michelin Cup, which nobody else will be able to better.

ATWOOD OFF TO BEGIN FLIGHT

Expects to Leave Milwaukee Saturday on Aerial Trip to Coney Island.

Harry N. Atwood, the Boston aviator, who won THE NEW YORK TIMES trophy for the Boston to Washington flight by aeroplane, left for Chicago yesterday afternoon to make arrangements for his flight from Milwaukee to New York. Weather conditions being favorable, Atwood expects to start from Milwaukee next Saturday. Before leaving New York Atwood said that he might change his route, and instead of starting from Milwaukee start from St. Louis, which would mean a distance almost equal to the German circuit route of 1,200 miles covered last June by the German aviator, Herr Koenig. The distance from St. Louis to New York by rail is 1,168 miles.

Atwood said that he still expects to start from Milwaukee and that so far St. Louis is merely being considered. Whether he starts from Milwaukee or from St. Louis, his trip will end at Coney Island.

ARMY AIRMEN RACE.

Two Machines Fly to Fort Myer and Back to College Park.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Both flying machines in use at the Government aviation school at College Park, Md., undertook cross-country flights to-day. Capt. Paul W. Beck, flying a high power Curtiss biplane, started on a flight from College Park to Fort Myer, a distance of twelve miles one way, and made the return trip in exactly 39 minutes. Beck climbed to an altitude of 2,800 feet and maintained that throughout his entire flight.

Soon after Beck landed at Fort Myer his fellow-officers, Lieut. H. H. Arnold and Capt. C. De F. Chandler, flew the Wright biplane directly in his path and followed him over the same course. Arnold piloted the machine with Capt. Chandler as a passenger. Arnold and Chandler arrived at the fort just as Beck was leaving.

A race back to the aviation field between Beck and Arnold followed, Beck trying to establish a record for the course and Arnold endeavoring to better his record of a month ago, when he completed nearly the same trip. The result was that both machines made the distance in exactly the same time.

A race has been arranged between the same aviators for to-morrow, in which both machines will leave the ground at the same time.

METZ HURT BY HIS TRICK.

Cut by Glass in Demonstrating His Bottle Opening Method.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

ON BOARD S. S. MAURETANIA (via Crookhaven,) Aug. 7.—Ex-Controller Herman E. Metz of New York laid a wager with Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, this afternoon in the smoking room of the Mauretania, which is due at Fishguard to-night, that he could open a bottle of wine by dropping it bottom down to the floor. On the first attempt the cork flew out and Mr. Metz won the bet.

In an attempt to demonstrate the trick a second time, the bottle burst and Mr. Metz was badly cut on the right hand by the flying glass. The ex-Controller was attended by Dr. Jones, the ship's surgeon, who sewed up the cuts. Mr. Metz fainted and was unconscious for an hour after the accident, but permanent ill results are not feared.

CHICAGO ASSESSMENTS UP.

Nearly $100,000,000 Added to Real Estate Values This Year.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 7.—Complete figures showing an increase of nearly $100,000,000 in the value of Chicago real estate for the year 1911 over the assessed value of 1910 were made public to-day by the Board of Assessors. The total value this year is $575,528,517, against $480,419,826 fixed by the Board of Review last year. These figures represent the valuation of every piece of land and the buildings in the territory between Twelfth Street on the south, the river on the west and north, and Lake Michigan on the east.

Assessment figures showing the real estate values in the remainder of the city are in an incomplete state. It is known that they show great increases in value, and indications are that the total assessed value of all real estate in Cook County will be shown to be not far from $720,000,000.

TAXI UPSET BY AN AUTO.

Two Passengers and Driver Knocked Unconscious, but Not Seriously Hurt.

As a taxicab, driven by Michael Freer, in which were Oscar H. George, a retired broker of 1,304 Foster Avenue, Flatbush, and Mrs. William King of 645 Southern Boulevard crossed 148d Street in Brook Avenue, the Bronx, yesterday afternoon, an automobile belonging to the Splitdorf Magneto Company, driven by Supt. Fred Miller and containing also W. C. Lang of the Hotel Astor, crashed into it. The taxicab was upset against the curbstone and Freer and his passengers were tossed out and all rendered unconscious. Miller and Lang also were badly bruised.

The injured persons were taken to St. Francis's Hospital, a block away. There the physician found that none was badly hurt. Mrs. King and Miller were suffering from shock, while Miller had a badly strained shoulder. Lang and George were shaken up considerably. In the evening Mrs. King was able to go home, but Miller will have to stay in the hospital a day or two.

FRANK FLANDERS DROWNED.

Silk Merchant's Body Found on Beach Near His Whitestone Home.

The body of Frank Flanders, a resident of the Summer colony at Whitestone Landing, who disappeared on Sunday, was found on the beach yesterday a quarter of a mile from his home. Whether death was due to suicide or accidental drowning is not known.

Mr. Flanders was connected with a New York silk house, and recently returned from a trip to Europe. At 10 o'clock Sunday night he left the house, telling his wife he was going for a walk. He was seen by several members of the Country Club and the yacht club walking away from the water.

When his body was found it was fully clothed and there was no evidence of violence. His rings, watch, and wallet were safe.

Mr. Flanders and his wife were a loving couple. He had no business worries and was in the best of health. Mr. Flanders was 44 years old.

POWDER TRUST TO DISSOLVE.

President Du Pont Confers with Wickersham as to the Way.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Plans for the dissolution of the so-called Powder Trust were considered to-day at a long conference between Attorney General Wickersham and T. Coleman du Pont, President of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Company, which was recently adjudged by the United States Circuit Court to be in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

It seems to be settled that there will be no appeal to the Supreme Court. A method of dissolution satisfactory to the Government, as in the Tobacco and Standard Oil cases, is being agreed upon. The plans will be submitted in full to the Attorney General later.

RICHEST INDIAN CHILD DEAD.

Esther Duff, Aged 8, Daughter of Creek Chief, Succumbed to Pellagra.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Aug. 7.—Incased in the most expensive coffin ever sent out of this city, the body of Esther Duff, 8 years old, said to be the richest Indian child in the world, to-day was taken to Muskogee, Okla., for burial. She died here of pellagra. The body was accompanied by the parents, Chief Henry Duff of the Creek Nation and his wife.

The child was brought here four months ago from Tennessee in the hope that the change of climate would benefit her health. The parents promised an independent fortune to the physician who would cure the child, and scores of medical men were summoned, but all pronounced the disease in its last stages and incurable.

Chief Henry Duff is several times a millionaire as the result of rich oil strikes made on the land his family secured from the Government.

Chicago Board of Trade Will File Plans Before Sept. 1.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 7.—Members of the Board of Trade to-day signed a petition calling a special meeting for Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of considering the erection of a new building. The paper was circulated among the members shortly after the closing of trading to-day and many signatures were immediately affixed.

This action is taken with the object of outwitting the building ordinance which limits the height of skyscrapers to 260 feet, and which goes into effect Sept. 1. If the permit is obtained before that date the new building can rear its head as high as its promoters care to build.

The new building has been contemplated for some time. The plans provide for a twenty-two story skyscraper 260 feet high. The estimated cost of the proposed building is $8,000,000.

FIREBUG WHO DIED HIRED BY CASHIER

GUILTY MAN BREAKS DOWN

Makes Full Confession, Implicating a Friend, Who Admits His Share—Victim Caught in Gasoline Blaze.

Frank Walsh, the amateur New Jersey burglar and firebug, who was found with his clothes ablaze beside an open safe in the office of the Long Dock Milling Company, in Jersey City, late Sunday night, died yesterday in St. Francis's Hospital. His face, arms, and legs had been terribly burned by gasoline flames.

While the police questioned him for several hours preceding his death, and several times assured him that he was nearing his end and had better make a clean breast of the whole affair, he clung stubbornly to a story that he was a homeless peddler and had gone into the milling company's office for a night's rest, after which he remembered only lighting a cigarette and falling asleep, to be awakened with his clothing in flames about him. This was an obvious untruth.

The story, it afterward developed, was told to shield two other men, who had hired Walsh to play the rôle of burglar and had opened the safe for him, indicating at the same time which of several ledgers in it he was to remove and burn up in a fire he was to start with the books, after making sure it would spread to other parts of the office. In trying to carry out this contract he set fire to a can of gasoline and received fatal burns.

The two other men—Samuel Brown of 315 West 113th Street, Manhattan, and Patrick D. Timmons, an expert accountant, living in Clinton Avenue, Newark, were placed under arrest yesterday by Capt. Richards of the Jersey City police force. They are charged with arson and conspiracy, and it is planned, upon their arraignment before Justice Queen in the Second Criminal Court of Jersey City this morning, to add an additional charge of manslaughter.

This additional charge is made possible through the fact that the New Jersey statutes provide when a man guilty of arson thereby causes any person to lose his life the charge of manslaughter may also be made against him.

Brown Betrays Himself.

The first bit of evidence that the supposed visit of a burglar to the Long Dock Milling Company's office was a fraudulent claim, based only on the story of the supposed burglar himself, was developed after his death.

Policemen and firemen who had responded to the alarm of fire late Sunday night were still looking over the place for evidence of arson when word was carried to them yesterday morning that the "burglar had died." They repeated this news in the office where the staff of the milling company had already assembled for the day's work.

Police Captain Richards noticed that one of the employes turned pale and began to tremble. This was Brown, the cashier. A little earlier Capt. Richards had questioned Brown and had learned from him that he had not been in Jersey City since Saturday, and knew nothing of the fire until he was shocked at the discovery that it had occurred on coming to work Monday morning.

"What's the matter?" the policeman asked, stepping up close to the cashier. "You don't seem to like the idea that the burglar died."

"No," the cashier replied, and then he collapsed. "I never expected to have this on my hands," he said. "I didn't think it would come to this."

Capt. Richards went over to the safe. He noticed that it had not been blown open, but had been opened through the turning of the combination. He noticed that gasoline odors arose from the floor in front of the safe and from trimmings on the walls of the room. There were bits of charred paper on the floor underneath a gas jet, as if some one had been busy starting a fire with checks and books.

The only officer superior to Brown who was on the company's premises was George C. Brinkerhoff, who since Jan. 11 of this year has been General Manager of the concern. Brinkerhoff was asked what officers of the company had access to the safe. He replied that only Brown and himself knew the combination. He added, as a sudden flash of light beamed across his face, that Brown had been suspected for a long time of being short in his accounts, and that expert accountants were due to begin an overhauling of his accounts this morning.

"Yes," spoke up Brown, who by this time was cowering under the firm grip of Capt. Richards upon his shoulder, "I was short. I was $2,500 short, and I was afraid of the accountants."

Makes a Full Confession.

Capt. Richards at once took out a pen and obtained a piece of paper. He told Brown to go ahead and talk, and as Brown did so he made this record, which was afterward amplified and signed by Brown at the Second Precinct Police Station, where he was locked up:

"Yes, I am guilty of arson. About 1:30 P. M. Sunday I met Patrick D. Timmons in Cavanaugh's saloon, at the corner of Eighth and Provost Streets. We had been talking about destroying certain of my books for the last two months. Timmons said he could get a man who lived in Newark to do the job.

"I agreed to go out to Newark with him to see the man. We took a Turnpike car for Newark, and got off at Jacob Roach's roadhouse about 6 o'clock. Timmons went out to look for the man, as he was not in the place when we got there. In about half an hour he came back with a man. We had a few drinks and I telephoned for an automobile to take us to Jersey City.

"I held no conversation with Timmons about the case, as it was agreed between us that we should not talk in the presence of the other man.

"We came from Newark to Cavanaugh's saloon, arriving there about 9 o'clock. The three of us and the automobile chauffeur went into Cavanaugh's and had a few drinks."

"Did either of you carry any gasoline in from Newark?" Capt. Richards questioned.

"Yes, we stopped at a garage on the way, and Timmons and the man went in. They came out with a five-gallon can. I suppose it was the gasoline."

"What did you do after having the drinks?"

"The chauffeur left us, stating that he was going home. Timmons, the man, and myself then went down to the office of the Long Dock Milling Company. I opened the door and the three of us went in. I then opened the safe door and took out three check books and the cash book.

"The man—that is, not Timmons—held the books over a gas jet and set them on fire. I watched them start to burn and then started for my home in New York. I did not know about the fire until I came over here this morning."

"Did you bring any gasoline with you down to the office from the saloon?"

"Timmons and the other man may have done so, but I did not."

"Did you agree to pay anything for destroying the books?"

"No, I did not. Timmons was merely doing it for me from friendship."

To the confession, as read back to him by Capt. Richards, the cashier signed the name "Sam'l Brown." He was then led away to the police station.

In the office itself the confession created surprise. Manager Brinkerhoff immediately sent word to Addison O'Neill, who is in charge in the absence of President D. D. Allerton, and asked that the largest stockholders, including J. Ogden Mills, be notified.

The police, in a quick trip to Newark, found ample confirmation of Brown's confession.

At Roach's roadhouse in Newark, their first stop, they found that the proprietor remembered the trio well. He identified the third man in the party as the one who was burned to death. This man, he said, was known about the place as "Lightning Walsh," a generally worthless roustabout and saloon lounger who came of a good family.

Roach gave the police Walsh's home address. There it was found that his stepmother, who is a sister of Speaker Edward Kenny of the New Jersey Assembly, lost track of her stepson four years ago, and did not even know he was alive through that period. An uncle, it was learned, is a detective sergeant on the Harrison police force.

From Roach the police also learned that Timmons returned to the roadhouse Monday morning between 4 and 5 o'clock, and after waking the proprietor called out to him:

"Lightning Walsh is gone. He was burned to death in a Jersey City fire."

Timmons Pleads Intoxication.

The police found Timmons, a sparelooking young man, in a saloon two blocks from his home. On searching him they found in his pockets the combination to the safe in the Long Dock Milling Company's office, the identification of the combination being made by Manager Brinkerhoff, who accompanied the police in his own automobile to Newark.

When the police questioned Timmons he replied merely that he was so drunk on Sunday that he had no recollection whatever of the day's events. He was informed that Brown had made a full confession, but this did not change his determination not to talk. He pulled his hat down over his eyes as he stepped into the police automobile, and throughout a long ride to Jersey City remained silent and resentful to all suggestions that he discuss his part in the affair.

Manager Brinkerhoff said that he recognized Timmons, who was known as an expert bookkeeper. He said that Brown had hired him on various occasions, as he had confessed to him after talking to the police, to post his ledger, and straighten out his books generally. Brown had confessed, so Brinkerhoff declared, that on Sunday he had talked very plainly to Timmons about the condition of his books, and had told him if they did not figure out some way to destroy the books it was all up with him.

Timmons has a wife and five young children, with whom he lives in Newark. He has been employed by a number of Newark firms as bookkeeper and accountant, and for several years has been an intimate friend of Brown's.

With Timmons in the automobile the police hoped they would be able to locate the garage where the gasoline mentioned in Brown's confession was purchased, and the chauffeur who drove the three men from Roach's place to Newark.

In this, however, they were disappointed, as Timmons refused to enlighten them. At the Broad Street Hotel, Newark, the police learned that an automobile chauffeur named Eugene Rino had been standing in front of the hotel on Sunday evening, and had responded to a call received at the hotel from Roach's roadhouse. This chauffeur, when located, identified Timmons as one of the three men in the party who employed him.

Entering the police machine, he directed its course to the Stumpf automobile garage in Harrison, where Mr. Stumpf informed his visitors that he had sold a five-gallon can of gasoline to two men, one of whom he recognized as Timmons, and the other, from the description furnished, as Walsh. He said he charged the men $1 for the gasoline and $1 for the can.

Rino, the chauffeur, added to this statement that the men hid the gasoline can behind a fence near Wormann's saloon in Jersey City, which is close to the milling company's office. He said that for his services he received $4.50, and left his fares in the saloon without suspecting that anything was wrong.

Timmons Finally Talks.

Last night, after Capt. Richards had taken him out to dinner and had read to him Brown's confession, with a statement of all the corroborating circumstances, Timmons broke the silence he had previously maintained.

"I am not guilty of any wrongdoing in this business," he said. "The thing was planned by Brown. I saw Brown Sunday in Jersey City, and we went together to Newark. We met in the saloon next door to Brown's office, and both had several drinks. At Newark Brown asked me where our old friend 'Lightning' was, suggesting that he was a 'good skate,' and we had better buy him some drinks.

"Mr. Roach of the roadhouse where we were drinking said he guessed Lightning Walsh would be down the street at a cheap restaurant, because it was near feeding time, and I went down and got him.

"Brown gave Lightning some money—just change—and bought him some drinks. Then one of us telephoned for an automobile, and we came to Cavanaugh's saloon in Jersey City. Walsh got some gasoline on the way.

"I didn't have anything to do with the gasoline. We went down to the office. Brown let us in and opened the safe, and Lightning carried in the gasoline.

"Then I went out to get a drink, and when I came back Brown was gone, but Lightning was there. Lightning told me to beat it, tossing me my coat, which I had left behind on going out. He said he was the manager of the place now and I must obey orders.

"I went back to the saloon. In about fifteen minutes a woman burst in the front door, shouting that the place next door was afire. I ran to the place and kicked in a panel of the door. Then firemen came and carried out poor Lightning. He was terribly burned and somebody said he was dead.

"I ran for the Hudson Tubes and came across to Manhattan, where I hurried to Brown's home. I found him in bed. He cursed me and told me to leave the place. I took a taxicab back to Jersey City and went to Roach's on the trolley. I woke Roach up and told him poor Lightning was done for.

"I knew Brown was short in his accounts, but did not know how much he was short. Out of friendship for him I tried to help him straighten out his June balance."

Timmons said he was 40 years old.

Drinking Caused Brown's Downfall.

The story of Brown's downfall, so far as the police could put it together from various stories told, was one in which drinking in cheap saloons played the only part.

He seldom took a vacation and never intrusted his work to others. His home in Manhattan was on the sixth floor of the Georgia Court elevator apartment house at 315 West 118th Street. He has lived there with his wife for the past four years, but they kept very much to themselves. Mrs. Brown, so the Superintendent said last night, left on Saturday for the Catskills, and Brown has not been seen about the place since that time. His salary from the milling company was $40 a week.

The police learned on questioning witnesses of Sunday night's fire that the first reports of a terrific explosion preceding the appearance of flames were wrong and probably grew out of the fact that the safe doors were found to be open. They learned that the first persons who saw the flames were attracted by the red glow in the window, and that the first firemen to arrive heard the cries of Walsh inside the room even before they had forced the door.

"Here I am, over this way," Walsh called out to them as they gained an entrance. They went through the smoke in the direction indicated and found Walsh with most of his clothing burned off and his eyes blinded. A strange incident of the destruction of his clothing which was not explained until after the confessions of Brown and Timmons was that while the cloth of the arms was burned away the lining was intact, and while the legs of the trousers were gone the waist was not harmed.

The fire itself did practically no damage, and the most important book of the three partially destroyed was found with only the edges of the leaves singed. It was turned over to the expert accountants, who began work on the books yesterday at noon.

WILEY POWERLESS UNDER M'CABE RULE

Advised Not to Testify in Case Involving Legality of Benzoate of Soda.

TRADE FIGHT, SAYS SOLICITOR

Chief Chemist Supported by Some Food Manufacturers Merely for Advertising Purposes, He Declares.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—If there has ever been any doubt that Dr. Wiley has been deliberately and completely shorn of his power in connection with the enforcement of the pure food law, no uncertainty was left to-day after H. E. Davis, Dr. Wiley's counsel, had finished cross-examining Mr. McCabe, the Solicitor of the Department of Agriculture. Mr. McCabe admitted that he wrote the "joker" in the Appropriation act of May 26, 1910, and Order No. 140, issued by Secretary Wilson, which practically took away Dr. Wiley's power to prosecute violators of the pure food law on his own initiative.

He also told how the department was represented at the Denver convention in August, 1909, when the National Dairy and Food Commissioners met. The department had these representatives there as delegates, and others were in attendance—Secretary Wilson, Dr. Wiley, Dr. Melvin, the head of the Bureau of Animal Industry; Dr. Bigelow, the Assistant Chemist; Mr. McCabe, Dr. Dorsey, the members of the Remsen Board, and Dr. Leech, the head of the Denver Laboratory. They went at the Government's expense. The votes were by States, and the Department of Agriculture had one vote. The friends of benzoate of soda by the narrow majority of one vote elected the President.

Mr. Davis wanted to show that Mr. McCabe spent several weeks traveling around working up sentiment for the Secretary, but he said he went directly from Washington to Denver. He never failed, however, to talk to any man who he knew was going to the convention and try to get him to support the Secretary.

"It was a trade fight," said Mr. McCabe. "The manufacturers who used benzoate were there, and those who opposed its use, who styled themselves the Association for the Promotion of Purity in Food Products, were also on hand."

The extent to which the department officials aided in the defense of benzoate of soda as a food preservative, in the suit in Indiana two years ago when the food manufacturers who continued to use it in their products sued out a writ of injunction against the enforcement of the State law, was aired. It will be more thoroughly developed to-morrow when ex-Attorney General James Bingham and State Food Commissioner H. A. Barnard of Indiana will testify, along with F. W. Robinson of Michigan, a chemist employed in the Federal Bureau of Chemistry here. Mr. Robinson, who testified against benzoate of soda in the Indiana cases, is said to have been dismissed by the Department of Agriculture without a statement of cause.

Mr. Davis read to-day the letter from Dr. Wiley to Mr. McCabe in regard to his testifying in the Indiana case. Dr. Wiley desired to testify, but to be sure that he was not running counter to the powers higher up in the department he asked if he could be subpoenaed to appear.

He wrote to Mr. McCabe on June 6, 1910, and the solicitor replied on June 17 with a carefully worked out opinion in which he held that Dr. Wiley insisted that Mr. McCabe knew that Dr. Wiley was to testify as to the facts, and not as an expert. Mr. McCabe said that the Secretary did not want Dr. Wiley to testify as an expert. When the Indiana authorities came on to Washington and got a mandamus to secure Wiley's testimony, Judge Barnard permitted Dr. Wiley to testify only as to facts and not as an expert.

Some time was devoted to-day to the patent medicine cases with which Mr. McCabe insisted that Dr. Wiley should get busy. Mr. Davis asked the solicitor if he did not know that, according to a decision of the Supreme Court, those cases could not be prosecuted. Mr. McCabe said the decision did not come until over a year after the letter was written. Then Mr. Davis said that the court below had decided the case which the Supreme Court had confirmed. To this the witness said that made no difference; the department had assumed that the law was to be enforced until it was declared unconstitutional. And he added:

"After the Supreme Court decided the Johnson case, declaring that the pure-food law did not touch the misbranding of such medicines, I asked the Secretary to ask the President to recommend an amendment of the law, and the President has done so."

Occasionally some of the interior motives in the quarrel between Dr. Wiley and Mr. McCabe came to the surface. The solicitor, when the chance came, did not lose time in denouncing a certain food manufacturer and the combination which the solicitor said the concern had organized. He averred that the espousal of the anti-benzoate theory was purely a matter of advertising, and that this manufacturer was at first in favor of benzoate of soda but changed over for purposes of advertising.

Jimmy Durkin Wants to Prove That Seattle Beer Wears No Collar.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley has declined the invitation of one "Jimmy" Durkin of Seattle, Wash., to visit that city at his expense.

Dr. Wiley's invitation came in the form of a long telegram from "Jimmy" in which the latter said that the State of Washington would be proud to greet the enemy of benzoate of soda, and that he, personally, would guarantee all the doctor's expenses. As a special inducement, he said that all the beer in the State of Washington was pure, and that it wore no collars. The telegram was signed "Jimmy" Durkin—Washington's most distinguished and unhonored citizen."

An accompanying telegram from a National Bank in Seattle stated that $1,000 had been placed to Dr. Wiley's credit by "Jimmy." The pure food expert, being unable to spare the time to visit the coast, was forced to decline the invitation, and wired the bank to return "the unhonored citizen's money."

AWARDS $10,000 PRIZE.

New York Artists to Decorate Yonkers City Hall with Historical Scenes.

The $10,000 prize offered by the City of Yonkers for the best designs for the mural decorations of the Common Council chamber of the new City Hall were awarded last night to Richard Vincent Aderente and A. E. Foringer of this city. This is the largest amount of money ever expended by a city of the size of Yonkers for similar drawings, and is two-thirds of the amount paid by Boston to the late E. M. Abbey for his famous Holy Grail panel in the public library.

The competition was open to all artists in the United States, and more than fifty entered. The jury that awarded the prize consisted of the Yonkers Municipal Art Commission, composed of Charles H. Israels, G. Howard Chamberlain, and Rudolf Eickemeyer.

The commission was advised by two artists named by President Blashfield of the National Society of Mural Decorators. They were John W. Alexander, President of the National Academy of Design, and Francis Jones.

The prize paintings represent local and historical scenes. The successful artists who collaborated will reproduce their designs on canvas and these are to be transferred to the ten panels. The cost of decorating the Council chamber will exceed the amount paid for decorating the remainder of the building. It will take about six months to finish the work.

BUSY DAY FOR TOGO.

Admiral Visits Annapolis and Speaks at Washington Press Club.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Admiral Count Togo made a brief speech before the National Press Club of Washington to-night at the close of a crowded day. Following his visit to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, he was the guest of Secretary of State Knox at a dinner at the Pan-American Union Building. Later he attended a reception given by newspaper men.

The Admiral spoke in Japanese, and his address was interpreted by Lieut. Commander Taniguchi, his aid. The Admiral said:

"Since my arrival in this country the President of this great Republic has received me with the greatest honor and hospitality, your Government has extended to me innumerable courtesies, and your fellow-citizens have given me the most hearty welcome. All these, I dare say, are more than I am entitled to, and I take them as meant toward my august sovereign and for his subjects. Nothing pleases me more than to take home the most happy remembrances of my visit to the United States.

"Gentlemen, may I take this opportunity to convey to your countrymen, on behalf of myself, my feeling of profound gratitude and high appreciation of their hearty welcome?

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 7.—Admiral Togo to-day inspected the grounds and buildings of the United States Naval Academy here. His visit was a hurried one and his programme made possible only a casual observation of the academy. In three hours he saw the entire group of buildings and declared the place where future naval officers of the United States are trained to be a most complete and comprehensive institution.

The party lunched at the house of Superintendent Gibbons. The latter offered a toast to the Emperor of Japan and Admiral Togo responded with one to the President of the United States. Then, in broken English, the Admiral toasted the Japanese graduates of the United States Naval Academy who are now serving in the Japanese fleet and who, the Admiral hoped, "would strengthen the link of friendship between the United States and Japan."

Admiral Togo inspected the seamanship building and gymnasium where two hundred first-year men, that part of the Naval Academy's force that is not cruising abroad, were being taught calisthenics. The visitor smiled as he watched the cadets exercise, their eyes directed straight ahead, none daring to abandon discipline and gaze up at the distinguished naval officers in the gallery.

Passing from the gymnasium to Bancroft Hall, the main building of the institution, the Admiral paused at the bier of John Paul Jones and stood at salute.

The portraits of Admirals Dewey, Sampson, and Farragut next caught his eye and he lingered long before each.

The Japanese sea fighter was most interested in the Departments of Physics and Engineering, where the cadets study construction and navigation. A dozen cadets were at work there. The Admiral also saw the rooms where electricity and wireless are explained and exhibited keen interest in them.

After a brief stop at the chapel the Japanese officer and his party returned to Washington.

Negro Rescuer Held for Murder.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 7.—Lewis Johnson, the negro who felled Charles Monordino, an Italian, when the latter seized a young girl, was arraigned in Central Police Court to-day for having caused Monordino's death. He was held without bail to await a Coroner's inquest. When Monordino fell his head struck the pavement, causing concussion of the brain. He died last night in a hospital.

decided at 12:45 P. M. that there was not enough excitement for him, and deserted his car in Smith Street, south of Atlantic Avenue. The conductor thereupon took charge and attempted to run the car, but it struck a switch and the pole slid from the wire overhead. There were much fireworks before the situation was controlled.

Boys Run the Trolley Pole.

Many cars had only a single man aboard. In one case a gang of youngsters, none of them over 10 years old, had absolute charge of the trolley pole. When it slipped from the wire one of the boys climbed to the top of the car and adjusted it. As the day wore on fewer passengers were to be seen.

There was a harvest for the strikebreaking conductors in unrecorded fares. A TIMES reporter rode on a dozen cars during the day, and four fares was the maximum rung up on any one register. Nor did the conductors deny that they were enriching themselves. This condition, it was said at the Smith Street car barns, would be remedied to-day, when regular Inspectors and "spotters" would board the cars.

"This is tame business," said a conductor who had patches all over his head as a result of Saturday's riots. "What can a fellow do when people don't get on the cars? I haven't made more than $3 on fares to-day. Out in 'Frisco during 1907 I made as high as $40 a day. That's what I call making money."

Anticipating that trouble would again break out in the sparsely settled districts during the night, Capt. William Shaw of the Parkville Station announced last night that the police dogs would help in preserving order. Many of the rioters on Saturday and Sunday escaped through fields, and it was thought that the dogs could run them down. Sixteen dogs, each in charge of a patrolman, were turned out at 7 o'clock.

INJUNCTION PLEASES LABOR.

Des Moines Car Men's President Thinks Gompers Was Misinformed.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 7.—The first day of street-car traffic under a court injunction which not only reinstated nearly 500 union employes, but gave them everything they had asked for when they walked out Saturday, closed to-night with normal conditions entirely restored, and small prospects of further trouble except in the courts.

A. W. Jarris of Chicago, President of the Des Moines City Railway, arrived to-day. It was announced to-night that the company probably will endeavor to have Judge Lawrence De Graff's mandatory injunction, which terminated the strike, dissolved by the District Court to-morrow. Lack of jurisdiction will be the principal ground for the proposed motion.

President J. M. Leonard of the local carmen's union stated to-night that he believed President Gompers had not been fully informed as to the significance of the court's order when he declared that Judge De Graff's injunction was equal to a "return to slavery."

"An agreement was in force between the street car company and our union which required that disputes were to be arbitrated," said Mr. Leonard. "The company refused to arbitrate the case of Conductor B. J. Hiatt, discharged on the complaint of an Inspector, and the union struck. The court's order reinstates Hiatt and compels the company to arbitrate his case."

FEAR RIVER POLLUTION.

Protests from New Jersey Village Against Tuberculosis Hospital.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, Aug. 7.—The fact that the Bergen County Board of Freeholders have agreed to buy the Ramsey farm at Oakland for the purpose of establishing a tuberculosis hospital there, was the cause of the presence at the board meeting here this afternoon of Mayor Edward D. Page, several Councilmen, and John Brooks Leavitt, all of Oakland. These gentlemen registered a vigorous protest against the project, asserting that the Ramsey farm adjoined the Ramapo River and two dairies, and was too near the village.

Mayor Page drew attention to the fact that the people of Paterson and Newark drink the water from the river which passes near the farm, and said that there were chances that pollution might endanger many lives if consumptives were allowed to live there.

Senator James A. C. Johnson said there was just cause for alarm on the part of the residents in Oakland.

The Freeholders have already voted for the appropriation of $13,400 for the Ramsey farm, but a flaw has been found in the title.

ROBBED ON OCEAN LINER.

$400 Taken from Miss Traverse's Stateroom—Jewels Not Touched.

Miss Madeline Traverse of Boston, a passenger on the Hamburg-American liner Amerika, in yesterday from Hamburg, reported that she had been robbed on the trip of $400 in cash. The money was taken from a suit case in her room and the thieves evidently overlooked or feared to take several thousand dollars worth of jewelry which was in the suit case. On Aug. 1 Miss Traverse wore her jewels at dinner. After the meal she went to her room and took the jewelry off. The articles were put in her jewel case with other pieces. The case she then placed in her traveling bag. On top of this she put the money in an envelope. She left her cabin after closing the case and went on deck.

Later in the day she went to her room to get money to send a wireless message. The suit case was open and the money gone. The jewels had not been touched.

Miss Traverse was met on the pier by Richard Labarre, a friend of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tyrel, whom she is going to visit in the Green Mountains.

BONFIRE BURNS MORTAL.

Child's Clothing Caught Fire and Neighbor Tried in Vain to Save Him.

Six-year-old Heyman Lazarus of 512 East 142d Street was playing yesterday afternoon at a bonfire in a lot at St. Mary's Street and Powers Avenue, the Bronx, when his clothing caught fire. He ran screaming down the street past the flat house at 692 East 142d Street, on the steps of which stood Mrs. Mary Martin.

She seized the child and rolled him in the street while she tore off his burning clothing. When she had removed every garment she carried him to her home and anointed his burns with oil while a neighbor summoned an ambulance.

Dr. Freston took the boy to Lincoln Hospital, saying that Mrs. Martin had done everything possible for him, but the child died.

SEEK TO FORCE ENTRY.

Budapest Couple Ask Court to Mandamus Immigration Commissioner.

Judge Holt will consider this morning in the United States Circuit Court the application of Benjamin Levinson of 320 Broadway, counsel for Isidor Klein and his wife, Karola, to compel Immigration Commissioner Williams to show cause why he should not permit the Kleins to land. They came to this country from Budapest under assumed names, because it was easier for them to leave Budapest under separate passports as Daniel Rogea and Bertha Toth, as Klein had debts of $1,000.

In asking for a writ of habeas corpus and certiorari, they allege that at the second hearing given them on Ellis Island and on June 8, they produced their marriage license, and explained why they had used fictitious names. Their explanations were, however, disregarded. Klein describes himself as an architect, engineer, and draughtsman, and his wife says that she is an actress and prima donna, and they declare that since their arrival they have obtained employment.

The petition further states that in answer to the inquiries of the Austro-Hungarian Consul General the Budapest Police Department cabled:

"Neither in Budapest nor in Zittah is there any information reported against Isidor Klein and wife, who resided at 32 Eotvas Street. Isidor Klein was arrested by this Police Department for fraud and forgery on March 12, 1911."

On this sole evidence, the petition alleges, the Consul General wrote to Commissioner Williams, and he laid the police charges before the Special Board of Inquiry. As no further evidence of criminality has been brought forward, the petitioners urge that the sentence of exclusion is in violation of their rights. They also attack the procedure of the Ellis Island Board of Inquiry, in that they were denied counsel and on other technical grounds.

INNOCENT WOMEN ARRESTED.

Taken Off Car on Complaint of One Who Said She Was Robbed

Two well-dressed and well-appearing young women, who gave their names as Elizabeth Clancey of 1,892 Madison Street, Brooklyn, and Rose Donnelly of 1,257 Madison Street, Brooklyn, were arraigned before Magistrate Barlow in the Woman's Night Court last night on a charge of larceny made by Mrs. Nellie O'Connor of 215 Henry Street. The Magistrate sent the young women back to the Eldridge Street Station.

The two young women say they were returning from their vacation which they spent near Stony Point, N. Y., and were crossing the city in a Desbrosses Street Ferry car. They had suit cases with them. The complainant entered the car and took a seat between them. When the car was at the corner of Delancey and Essex Streets, Mrs. O'Connor jumped up and cried she had been robbed of her purse. She said it contained about $3.

Policeman Sullivan of the Eldridge Street Station was called, and upon representations of Mrs. O'Connor arrested the young women.

At the Eldridge Street Station the two women were released, as the complainant said she could not identify them. There was absolutely no evidence against the young women.

FOR GUATEMALAN LOAN.

Senor Mendez Says $30,000,000 Will Be Borrowed in United States.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 7.—The proposed loan of $30,000,000 which the Guatemalan Government has had under consideration for more than a year is to be placed with American bankers probably within the next four months. This positive announcement was made by Señor Joaquin Mendez, the newly appointed Guatemalan Minister to the United States, who arrived here to-day en route to Washington.

"Guatemala will place this loan with bankers in the United States," said Señor Mendez. "My Government has had the matter before it while considering propositions from bankers in this country and in Europe. I cannot state what bankers will place it, but am quite sure that the negotiations will be consummated within the next four or five months."

Señor Mendez declared that Guatemala is to-day experiencing the most substantial prosperity in her history. Millions of American capital, he said, have been invested there within the last two years, new railways are being constructed, and through an American syndicate the vast mineral resources of the country are assured of early development.

SAVE ALASKA PROSPECTORS.

Picked Up by Steamer Bertha When Nearly Starved on Island.

VALDEZ, Alaska, Aug. 7.—Attracted by signals of distress from Bardwell Island, a barren rock near the entrance to Resurrection Bay, the steamship Bertha on Aug. 2 sent out a small boat and took off two ragged and starving men, Charles Alexander and Alvin Anderson. The men had been on the island for two months and would have perished but for the coming of the Bertha. News of the rescue reached here to-day.

The men sailed from Kodiak May 11 in a dory on a prospecting voyage. About June 1 a storm upset their craft off Bardwell Island and their provisions and outfit were lost in the sea. They got ashore with practically nothing but their clothing.

The men lived for a month on mussels, clams, young gulls, seaweed, and wild herbs which they cooked. After their matches gave out, about July 1, they ate their food raw. Two vessels passed without noticing their signals.

NEGRO LOITERERS ARRESTED.

Then Their Friends Threaten Police—Bricks Fly, but No One Is Hurt.

Many complaints have been made recently at the East 126th Street Police Station by white women who said that they had been accosted and insulted while passing 135th Street and Lenox Avenue by a gang of negroes who congregated there nightly. Last night, Lieut. Becker, in charge of the Strong Arm Squad at Headquarters, took nine of his men to Harlem and they scattered in the neighborhood of the corner complained of. At a signal from Becker who dropped his handkerchief, they closed in on 35 negroes and arrested them.

Instantly there was a gathering of negroes from all sides, protesting that the men arrested had done no wrong and presently bottles and bricks began to fly from nearby roofs. The reserves were called from the East 126 Street and West 125th Street Police Stations, but the negroes contented themselves with threatening and no blows were struck.

Policeman Collins of the East 126th Street Station arrested two negroes whom he found on a roof of 137 West 135th Street, whence several bricks had come. The 37 prisoners were taken to the East 126th Street station in four patrol wagons.

LUCKY SLEEP-WALKER.

Clothes Lines Save Him Once, a Chance Bed Spring a Second Time.

John Zobewski, 37 years old, of [illegible] Riverdale Avenue, Yonkers, is a confirmed somnambulist, and within the past year he has tumbled twice from the third story of the house in which he lives.

The first time he fell his plunge down was broken by several clothes lines and he escaped with only a few bruises. Early yesterday morning he fell again from his bedroom window while walking in his sleep. This time he landed on an old bed spring that had been thrown away by a neighbor. The springs caused him to rebound and he sustained only a slight scalp wound.

A half hour after the accident he was again asleep.

SUGAR STRIKERS SHOT.

Encounter Between Former Employes of Refinery and Strikebreakers.

CROCKET, Cal., Aug. 7.—Four men were shot and several others injured by bricks and stones in an encounter here last night between former employes of the California-Hawaiian refinery, who went out on a strike several weeks ago, and a number of non-union workers from San Francisco.

On the arrival of their train the strikebreakers were accosted by union men. Edward Becker, one of the strikebreakers, drew his revolver and opened fire. In the mêlée that followed John Cronin, a striker, was shot through the stomach and probably will die. Eugene Crypt, a watchman at the refinery, received several wounds in the body. C. W. Pryts, a striker; Eugene La Salla, and Becker were less seriously wounded.

COLOR STANDARD NEEDED.

Uniform International System Would Be of Great Value, Says Paintmaker.

With the advance of civilization and the growing brotherhood of the nations, the need for standardization of all systems of measurement is becoming more and more imperative. Long ago an attempt was begun, and is still going on, to establish the metric system, to eliminate the confusion which resulted from each country having its own. Now the demand has been voiced for a standard of colors, which will hold good in all nations.

Eric L. Ford, who is connected with a big paint-grinding concern in Pittsburg, has just returned from Europe, where he said a campaign is to be begun to induce the Governments to establish standard hues.

"At present," said Mr. Ford, "each paint or dye maker must use his own color schedule, and all his customers must do the same. A man in France who wants to buy paint in the United States, for instance, has to have a color card of the maker from whom he is going to order. Otherwise his colors will not match when they arrive. Even the primary colors and the rainbow tints are different according to the maker.

"The suggestion has been made that an international convention be held, at which delegates shall agree as to the nomenclature and exact grades of colors, starting with the primary and running through the secondary, to compound colors of all shades. Samples of standard colors will be deposited with the proper bureau in each country, just as standard weights and measures now are.

"Objection has been made that the colors would fade. It would depend on how they were made. It has been found that the most stable form of color is in glass. While other forms fade, glass is practically permanent. Series of graded colored glasses would make a perfect tintometer, which could be kept unchanged for years. A tentative arrangement of colors and nomenclature has been arranged, and it is probable that a convention will be called before long to arrange for its adoption.

"Standardization of colors would be of the greatest value to chemists, manufacturers of dye stuffs and pigments, to glass stainers, and paintmakers, but there are many others who would be benefited. The method of producing the color, the proportion of the different pigments, should also be registered, so that, even should the tintometer fade, the standards would not be lost. If this were done, paints might be ground of any hue or shade upon order, and be duplicated without samples being submitted."

TO FORCE HOUSE BILL ON WOOL SCHEDULE

Democrats Determined to Make Progressives Accept It in Hope of Embarrassing Taft.

LA FOLLETTE IN A QUANDARY

Standing Out for Rates Which He Has Admitted Are Too High—Other Tariff Bills.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The deadlock between Mr. La Follette and Mr. Underwood over the wool measure, as outlined in these dispatches last night, remains unbroken, and for the time being no progress is making on the Free List bill.

Mr. Underwood as a Democrat would like to send the Free List bill to the President at once, but Mr. La Follette, who is playing for advantages against President Taft, wants to make him write his first veto message on the Woolen bill, which Mr. La Follette wrote professedly on protective lines.

In case of a disagreement on the Wool bill the likelihood is that the Democrats will put squarely up to Mr. La Follette and his clique the responsibility for failure. The method will be simple. When the conference committee makes its disagreeing reports to the two houses, Mr. Underwood will simply move that the House insist upon its contentions. In the Senate the Democrats will move that the Senate recede from its amendments, which means the La Follette compromise measure, and accept the House bill entire. The insurgents will either support that motion or woolen revision will be dead for this session.

The realization of this situation is probably the explanation of the despondency manifest among the progressives this afternoon. They have denounced the Democratic measure as unprotective and now they are complaining that the Democrats are trying to force them to come over and support the measure, when most of the insurgent constituents are for the protective principle. But they are so eager to put a bill of some kind up to the President that no one would be surprised if in the end they did accept the House bill in toto. Indeed the impression was general that if the Senate Democrats had shown a firmer hand at the outset the House bill would have been accepted on the first vote.

If the insurgents refuse to pass the House bill in the end, the Democrats will have a clear cut issue drawn against the insurgents for the campaign and they realize that they need this issue more against the progressives than they do against Mr. Taft. Besides the President has already let it be known that he will veto the bill if it comes to him, so that by standing out to make the insurgents yield the Democrats are not sacrificing any legislation.

Mr. La Follette is playing a strong game in his effort to gain an advantage over the President for the struggle for the Republican nomination, but the feeling now is that by holding out too hard he has put himself into an awkward angle. When he made his Wool bill public he accompanied it with a statement in which he admitted his fear that most of his rates were too high, explaining, however, that he wanted to be on the safe side and not injure business. Since then he has come down only 5 per cent. all along the line. That is a slight reduction and still leaves on his own confession many of his rates "too high." Yet it is for these rates that he is standing out so stubbornly and jeopardizing the fate of the whole measure. Exactly how he will explain this tangle is yet to be seen.

The President meanwhile is quite happy over the situation. It is said circumstantially that he is already at work on his veto messages, one for the Wool bill and one for the Free List bill. He will probably change his message if serious changes are wrought in either bill, but he will have his work so nearly completed that no time will be lost when once the bills get to him. He is as anxious as the Congressmen to get away, and will do his best to hasten things.

The hearings on the Cotton bill will begin before the Finance Committee tomorrow if the representatives of the cotton milling industry arrive, and they will probably last for two days. At any rate, the bill will be reported adversely to the Senate on Thursday, and then discussion will begin upon it and the amendments the insurgents expect to offer. But as the Cotton bill and all the amendments have already been debated and defeated when they were proposed in the reciprocity measure, it is difficult to see how the debate can be prolonged. Certainly it will be almost impossible to keep a quorum.

18 BLACK HAND MURDERS

With 100 Bomb Explosions and $500,000 Blackmail Chicago's Year's Record.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—A summary of the crimes committed by members of the so-called Black Hand in this city during the year 1911, made public to-day, gives a total of 18 murders, scores of stabbings, and more than 100 bomb explosions, $500,000 collected in blackmail, and the terrorizing of thousands by threats. With only one or two exceptions, none of the perpetrators of these numerous crimes has been convicted.

During the month of March of the present year four murders were committed near one street corner in what is known as "Little Sicily" alone. That month also was more than ordinarily prolific of bomb explosions, in all of which considerable damage to property was done.

In the course of the trial of an Italian named John Alongi on a charge of sending a threatening letter through the mails, Judge Kenesaw M. Landis of the Federal Court received a letter in which this threat was made: "Discharge John Alongi, or we will kill you as we killed the others," and a "scare" bomb was actually placed outside the door of Judge Landis's chambers.

Following one of the worst periods of Black Hand outbreaks, an organization of law-abiding Italians known as the White Hand was formed, the members thinking their familiarity with Italian conditions would aid the police in combating the assassins. This organization proved of little assistance, however.

The chief Italian newspaper commented on the condition as follows:

"An epoch of ferocious vendettas is what the Italian colony here is going through. To-day the killings are not committed to avenge honor. The crimes are committed in almost all instances in the name of the Black Hand or of organized crime. The motive is money."

KEPT BOY IN HYENAS' CAGE.

Five-Year-Old Exhibited with Wild Beasts by Foster Parents.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 7.—A 5-year-old boy named Jenree was kept in a cage with a pair of South American hyenas, which were being shown at a carnival here, according to State Attorney Denn. He caused the arrest of the child's foster-parents, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Johnston, to-day. They have been exhibiting through Minnesota and Iowa. He was badly scratched and bitten.

When the child was eighteen months old his father placed him in an orphanage in Omaha. Later the Johnstons secured possession of him, although the records do not show that the child was legally adopted by them.

While the boy was being exhibited in Spring Valley, Minn., the Minnesota Labor Commissioner was induced to bring action against the Johnstons, but they fled from the State.

The mother of the boy, who is now Mrs. Henry N. Weakley of Omaha, has started proceedings to take him from the John-

JAPAN ASKED ABOUT TREATY.

One Reason Why Taft Extended Invitation at Dinner to Togo.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—That President Taft's reference on Saturday night at his dinner in honor of Admiral Count Togo to the desirability of a general arbitration treaty between America and Japan was not spontaneous, but a carefully prepared declaration, with a distinct purpose in view, was established to-day by an inquiry into the history of the arbitration negotiations during the last year.

Long before the treaties between Great Britain and France and America had approached their final form the Japanese Ambassador here inquired of Secretary Knox the purport and scope of the new departure in international relations. He did not, however, take advantage of the offer of the Secretary to accept a copy of the American proposal in the broad terms embodied in the draft originally handed to the British and French Governments. So the information in the possession of the Japanese Government has been meagre and inadequate to a proper understanding of this important subject.

Probably a realization of that fact by President Taft led him to deliver the invitation to Japan to join in the arbitration agreement. It is now regarded as reasonably certain that the Japanese Government will be moved to make some response, especially if the United States Senate should act quickly and favorably upon the pending treaties.

BOWERS ASSAILS TOWNSEND.

Commissioner of Fisheries Calls Seal Slaughter Charges Fictitious.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A stormy scene was provoked before the House Committee on Department of Commerce and Labor Expenditures to-day by the reading of a letter from Commissioner of Fisheries Bowers assailing Representative Townsend of New Jersey in connection with charges of official sanction of unlawful seal slaughter.

Mr. Townsend's resolution brought on the inquiry into the charges.

Mr. Bowers's letter, addressed to Chairman Rothermel of the committee, charged that Mr. Townsend had endeavored "to sustain and justify" before the committee "forged, fictitious, and libelous matter"; that he offered such matter "with the deliberate purpose of concealing the real facts," and that he "permitted himself to be made the tool of an unscrupulous manipulator of records, a dangerous besmircher of character."

When Mr. Bowers read his letter, Chairman Rothermel demanded to know whether Secretary Nagel had sanctioned such charges. When direct answer was refused, the Chairman threatened to call the Sergeant at Arms as the meeting was in disorder. Mr. Townsend's colleagues have asked him to reply to the Commissioner from the floor of the House.

WATCHING PLANTS BREATHE.

Ripen According to Rate of Respiration, Says Federal Scientist.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Prof. H. C. Gore, Assistant Chief Chemist at the Bureau of Foods of the Department of Agriculture, has recently been conducting experiments into the respiratory activity of the various fruits used as food. He found that bananas give off so much heat that is is hard to determine their rate of respiration.

In cold storage or any cold place respiration of fruits is reduced. Consequently ripening is held down with the temperature. That is why fruits keep when they are put in the icebox.

Fruits and berries that develop rapidly breathe rapidly. Citrus fruits and all those that develop slowly have a low rate of respiration.

BIDS FOR EIGHT DESTROYERS.

Cramp Company Makes Lowest Offer, but No Award Made.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The Cramp Shipbuilding Company of Philadelphia was the lowest bidder to-day for four 29-knot torpedo boat destroyers of 1,000 tons each, at $760,000 each.

The Bath Iron Works of Bath, Me., offered to build two boats for $766,000 each; the New York Shipbuilding Company of Camden, N. J., one boat for $788,000; the Fore River Shipbuilding Company of Massachusetts, one boat for $778,000; the Union Iron Works of San Francisco, two boats at $803,750 each, and the Newport News Shipbuilding Company of Newport News, Va., one boat on the department design for $825,000, or on its own design for $790,000.

Eight boats in all are to be built. Some time will be required to ascertain which of the bids will be accepted.

WOMAN DEFIES HOLD-UP.

Jumps Through Window of Ticket Booth and Causes Arrest.

Mrs. Marion H. Williams, a widow of 18 years, is ticket agent of the little Ramblersville station on the Jamaica Bay trestle of the Long Island Railroad. At noon yesterday, while she was at her post behind the wire screen of her booth, a man walked up, pointed a revolver through the netting, and bade her hand over what money she had taken in, and to do it quietly if she wanted to live. She gave him one look, and leaped through the window, a few feet from her chair.

Running around to the front platform, where half a dozen persons were waiting for the train, she besought four men there to aid her in making a capture. She pointed out the man, who was still moving about the station, but they seemed indifferent or timorous. Just then the man himself walked out and down the steps. Mrs. Williams was determined he should not get away, and at a safe distance followed him for two blocks, where he paused at a saloon. Then she hurried back to her booth and the telephone.

She told the police just how the man looked. At the saloon there was no one who answered the description, but the detectives compared notes with the barkeeper, and later in the day they arrested George Hanft of Centreville Avenue, Aqueduct.

Mrs. Williams looked him over and decided that he was the one who had pointed the revolver into her booth.

"THE SEA BREEZE LADY" HAS BEEN BUSY

She finds thousands of mothers and children, living in stifling tenement districs and handicapped by penury, need rest and fresh air. To others, too sick to be sent away, relief must be given at home. It is therefore our purpose to help them.

4,000 Poor Families on Our Waiting List Now

An A. I. C. P. visitor ("Sea Breeze Lady") has investigated every application. The families know that they are on our waiting list. They expect to go to Sea Breeze. Their plans are made; they are waiting eagerly every day for the return of the visitor to arrange the date.

We Do Not Want to Disappoint Them

It will be their only outing this year. Suppose some one were to tell you not to leave the city this Summer, not even for a week-end rest. You would be greatly disappointed, possibly worried about your health. Picture the discouragement which such a disappointment would produce among our 4,000 applicants.

With Your Help We Will Take Them to Sea Breeze

Think what one of these will do to counteract the effect of heat and privation:

$2.50 will give a whole week of freedom, sweet, cool air, good food and recreation in the sand and surf to a worn-out mother, pale working girl, or a convalescent patient.

$5.00 will buy pure milk for a sick baby for a month.

$10.00 gives four run-down school children a fresh start for next season.

$25.00 sends a carload of tired people for a day's outing and brings them back with new courage.

For $125.00 a happy excursion can be given to five hundred mothers and children—for many their only outing.

BORAH AND ROOT SEE PERIL IN THE RECALL

Independence of the Judiciary Endangered, They Declare, by Arizona's Constitution.

HOUSE BILL LIKELY TO PASS

Senator Nelson's Amendment Striking Out the Recall Provision Seems Sure to be Voted Down.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The feature of to-day's debate in the Senate on the Statehood bill was the speech of Mr. Borah of Idaho condemning the provision in the Arizona Constitution for the recall of Judges. On legal matters Mr. Borah is the leader of the progressives, but on this occasion he broke completely with Senator Bourne and the other advocates of the initiative and recall and dealt what is considered a heavy blow at their platform.

The progressives showed some inclination to cross-question Mr. Borah at the beginning of his address, but as he advanced they subsided, and he was allowed to conclude uninterrupted in the presence of a constantly increasing number of Senators.

Mr. Root of New York followed Mr. Borah on the same side, as did Mr. Nelson of Minnesota. Mr. Crawford of North Dakota was beginning his attack on the recall provision when recess was taken till to-morrow, when it is hoped that a vote will be reached.

It is expected, however, that the House bill submitting the offensive provisions to a separate vote of the people of the Territory will be passed and that Mr. Nelson's amendment striking out the recall provision as it applies to Judges will not be adopted. Democratic Senators who are at heart opposed to the recall have for the most part been persuaded to support the House bill, and that makes amendment unlikely.

Mr. Borah flatly declared that the advocates of the recall of Judges were not following a progressive policy, but that in their eagerness they were seeking to set the judiciary back to the position of subservience it occupied in England before the revolution of 1688. Till then, he said, there had always been a recall of the judiciary—a recall by the Crown—and it made the greatest blot on the history of England's jurisprudence. It was to free the judiciary from the pernicious influence of this recall, he argued, that the progressives of those days fought for 300 years.

He declared it to be his "deliberate and uncompromising opinion" that without a free and independent judiciary popular government would be a delusion, "a taunting, tormenting delusion."

In emphasizing the importance of an absolutely independent judiciary, "who should consider nothing but the terms of the law as written," Senator Borah registered his disapproval of judicial legislation.

"If the law be a bad law, detrimental to the public welfare," he said, "the people may modify or repeal it. But the Judge who legislates not only violates his oath but undermines the basic principles of our institutions and opens the door to injustice and fraud.

"I am afraid that the principle of the recall as applied to Judges will tend to establish the rule of the majority in matters of judicial controversy. It will tend to make decisions bear the color and drift of majority rule or party domination rather than that of a faithful rendition of the law and the facts.

"We sometimes argue that the first principle of democratic or republican government is that the majority shall rule. That is true in making laws and determining policies, but it has no place in and will destroy republican government if applied to the courts or to controversies to be determined under the law.

"If our courts are taught to listen, trained by this subtle process of the years, to hearken to the voice of the majority, to whom will the minority appeal for relief? If the voice of the majority controls, if this principle finally comes to be recognized in the timidity of Judges, to what power in our Government will the isolated, the unfortunate, the humble, and the poor go for relief? Where will those without prestige, without wealth or social rank, go for protection?

"A feeble, a timid, an obedient judiciary has always in the end proved to be an incompetent, a cruel, or a corrupt judiciary," he said in conclusion. "When and wherever in all history you find a dependent judiciary you find that it is the man of limited means, the poor man, who suffers, the man who has not the wealth to purchase immunity or the prestige to command decrees. When the people have written the law, then let us have an independent Judge, free from any political fear, to interpret the law as written until the people rewrite it."

Senator Root spoke in favor of the Nelson substitute to the House bill. He declared that in numerous cases upon which courts were called to decide questions of a criminal, political, religious, social, and economic character great popular feeling was aroused. He held that popular recall of Judges would mean that while "the Judge would be supposed to decide the case by the evidence he himself would be judged by the newspaper reports of the case, necessarily brief and partial." Newspapers, he said, were looking for the "sensational and spectacular features" of a trial, and that the people formed their opinions largely from these accounts.

Senator Poindexter of Washington spoke in defense of the initiative, referendum, and recall features of the Arizona Constitution.

"All these arguments against this Constitution," he said, "resolve themselves into this proposition, that the people of the State are given too much power."

He contended that the people could be trusted with full power. He declared it was "a travesty on self-government to try to compel the people of Arizona to adopt a Constitution which they themselves do not want, but which the people of other States think they should have."

BLAMES POLITICAL ENEMIES.

Representative Lafferty Says They Urged Threat by Woman's Father.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—To the activity of political enemies Representative A. W. Lafferty of Oregon ascribes the threatening attitude assumed by the father of a young woman of this city. The representative admits having addressed a letter to the young woman, to whom he had never been introduced, enclosing a card to the House galleries and expressing the hope that he might some time have an introduction, if agreeable to her, but states that was all the letter contained.

Mr. Lafferty says he received a call from the young woman's father, who is Chief Clerk in one of the Government services. The father, said Mr. Lafferty, remarked that he was surprised to see that the Representative was so youthful a man. Apparently that had relieved his mind, as he had imagined, said Mr. Lafferty, that the letter had been written in bad faith.

The visitor departed in good humor, declared the Representative, who has not seen him since. A letter came, however, threatening Mr. Lafferty. It was written on paper manufactured in Oregon, according to the Representative, and for that reason he considers it was inspired by political enemies.

Woman 47 Years in Treasury Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Mrs. Willa A. Leonard, after forty-seven years in the service of the Treasury Department as chief of the counterfeit detection division, has resigned on account of ill health. She is 71 years old. Mrs. Leonard is the mother of Major Henry Leonard, United States Marine Corps, who commands the naval prison at Portsmouth, N. H.

CAMPERS SEE BOY DROWN.

Lad Tries to Save His Chum, but Exhaustion Forces Him to Let Him Go.

Many of the 500 campers at Sandy Beach, on the west bank of the Hudson, opposite 200th Street, Manhattan, were in bathing suits at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon when fourteen-year-old Albert Schwarts of 138 Engle Street, Englewood, N. J., and William Jones, the same age, of 142 Engle Street, went in to swim. Young Schwarts, somewhat uncertain in the water, carried a pair of water wings.

The youngsters went out into the river about 200 feet, where the Jones boy put back. He was sunning himself on the sand while Schwartz paddled about, when suddenly Jones saw his friend sink. Schwarts made no outcry, and no one on the beach except young Jones saw him sink.

Jones rushed into the water and struck out for his friend. He had reached him before other bathers realized that the little chap was in danger. Jones was having a hard struggle with Schwartz, who was frantic with fear, but at last he broke the drowning boy's clutch on his arms, and then, dragging him by the hair, swam back toward shore.

Other swimmers were making for the boys by this time, but before they reached them Jones became exhausted and dropped his hold on Schwartz. While some helped Jones ashore other men swam to where young Schwarts had sunk. They dived repeatedly, but failed to find him.

Capt. Richard Cox, who runs a ferry from 200th Street, Manhattan, to Sandy Beach, put out in a launch and raised the body with a grappling iron. He put back to Manhattan and summoned Dr. Meyers from the Washington Heights Hospital, but the boy was dead.

SUBWAY SUIT GOES OVER.

Adjournment Until To-morrow of Hearing on Application for Injunction.

The application for an injunction by the Admiral Realty Company to prevent the construction of the Lexington Avenue subway will be heard to-morrow by Supreme Court Justice Ford. When the case was called yesterday Louis Marshall of counsel for the realty company asked for an adjournment for a week, on the ground that he had been out of town and had not had the leisure to give the matter the study it demanded.

William H. Harkness, who appeared for the Public Service Commission, said he had no objection to a short adjournment, but that the case should be heard as soon as possible. Counsel for the Bradley Contracting Company also asked that the matter be decided as quickly as possible, on the ground that the contractors were already at work and were spending thousands of dollars.

"I will grant an adjournment till Wednesday," said Justice Ford. "This is a great public question, and people don't want to put money in such a proposition unless they know where they stand."

At Lexington Avenue and Sixty-second Street yesterday the Bradley Contracting Company had erected at each of the four corners a sturdy wooden structure to act as the pillars on which the dumping platform will be erected.

PUSHED BARROW 800 MILES.

Frank A. Orr Came from Charlotte, N. C., to Win a Bet of $500.

A travel-stained man, trundling a label-pasted wheelbarrow in which sat a cute-looking dog, arrested the attention of passers-by in front of the City Hall yesterday. He tried to see Mayor Gaynor, and was informed that the Mayor had not come in from St. James, L. I. Then he told the curious crowd that he was Frank A. Orr, and that he had pushed his barrow, accompanied by his fox terrier Prince, all the way from Charlotte, N. C., a distance by the route which he took of 800 miles.

Orr, who is six feet tall, said he left Charlotte on July 4 on a bet of $500 that he could reach the City Hall in New York by Aug. 10. He was happy in the knowledge that he had won the bet, although he was disappointed in not meeting the Mayor. The terms of the bet were that he was not to beg for food or lodging. He brought with him letters from Mayor Charles Bland of Charlotte and other officials, and Acting Secretary Matthews gave him a letter to attest that he had arrived safely at the City Hall here.

Orr said he had few adventures to relate. At Bristol, Penn., he was attacked by a crazy man, but a farmer helped him to subdue his assailant. He will return to Charlotte by rail.

"VILEST OF VILE" TO JAIL.

Court Wishes He Could Send Wife Deserter Up for Life.

After denouncing Joseph Bohrer of 528 South Fourth Street as the "vilest object" that ever came before him for sentence, Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions sentenced Bohrer yesterday to not less than one nor more than two years in Sing Sing and to pay a $1,000 fine. Bohrer abandoned his wife and 3-year-old child in this city three years ago. He abused his wife immediately after their marriage, and after two years went away leaving her no means of support. Judge Mulqueen said:

"I am only sorry that I cannot send you to prison for life, for you are the vilest of the vile. The sentence of the court is that you be imprisoned in Sing Sing for not less than one year nor more than two years, and pay a fine of $1,000. In the event that you do not pay the fine, you are to serve one day for each dollar. The jury which sat in judgment upon you denounced you as the wickedest of men, and you are the vilest object that ever came before me for sentence."

Aftr abandoning his wife, Bohrer went to Philadelphia, where he established himself in the junk business and made a large amount of money, while she was forced to take refuge with her 70-year-old father, who lived in a two-room flat at 26 Clinton Street.

HURT IN CHECKING RUNAWAY.

Fire Captain Sought to Shield Hundreds of Women and Girls.

In trying to save several hundred women and young girls last evening, from being knocked down and trampled by a runaway horse, Capt. Daniel Shea of the New York City Fire Department, who lives at 135 Seventh Avenue, Long Island City, and is in command of Hose 3, at Jamaica, received serious injuries.

The runaway, which belonged to D. Rosenberg of Sixth Street, Long Island City, came dashing down Borden Avenue about 6 o'clock, just as a ferryboat was unloading its passengers and its heavy freight of teams. The street was filled with persons who had just left the boat. Capt. Shea was standing in front of the Revere Hotel, and as the horse came along he jumped out and caught the bridle. He was thrown against a trolley car, and the front wheel of the wagon to which the horse was attached ran over his right leg just above the ankle. The horse was stopped by others, who ran to Capt. Shea's assistance.

The fireman was carried into the hotel, where he was attended by Dr. H. J. McKenna. He was taken later to St. John's Hospital. His leg was broken and he also received internal injuries.

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR BLOOM

Jewish Artilleryman Ordered to Report for Examination Sept. 1.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Carrying out President Taft's instructions, Frank Bloom, Battery C, Third Artillery, the young Jew whose futile effort to get a commission last Spring attracted so much attention, was ordered to-day to report at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for examination on Sept. 1.

Bloom is understood to be on furlough, studying at a preparatory school in this city. The examination will be mental, physical, and moral, and while the papers of the candidate will be marked by the examiners at Fort Leavenworth, the War Department will have the power of approval or disapproval of the recommendations.

BALL GAME HELPS KILL PENSION BILL

House Impatient to Get to the Diamond and Strict Calendar Rule Is Invoked.

DEMOCRATS WIN, 12 TO 9

Prophetic of Campaign Victory, They Say—Victor Berger, the Milwaukee Socialist, the Umpire.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—"Oh, well, the baseball game will get your quorum," exclaimed ex-Speaker Cannon last Friday when he asked the Democrats what they were going to do about the "motion to discharge day" which came to-day. The House roared with delight at his fling of contempt as he hurled the words across the aisle, and the Democrats promised that they would see that the day was observed. But it was not, and "Uncle Joe" was a prophet.

There was a game of baseball at Georgetown College to-day between two nines picked from the House, one of Democrats and one of Republicans, and it knocked out a pension bill. Everybody wanted to see the game. The gate money was to go to a local charity. All day the House was uneasy. The "unanimous consent calendar" was taken up, and a dozen bills passed as emergency measures in accordance with the vote of a recent Democratic caucus. The Republicans protested that they had such bills that they wanted to have a chance, and Mr. Adamson of Georgia explained that the majority was going to play fair. He said that when the President called the extra session he limited the work of Congress to one bill, but the Democratic caucus expanded the limit and included several other measures, and under this "compound veto" the House would now go on and pass some emergency bills.

The explanation seemed to be comforting, and the House then took up the "motion to discharge" calendar which was the regular of the day, it being the first Monday of the month, and the rules making it an opportunity to pass the Disability Pension bill. This measure was the second number of the list, having been introduced by Mr. Anderson of Ohio. The bill passed the House last session as the Sulloway bill, and the Democrats have all the session been warding it off by adjournments past the first and third Mondays each month.

Early in the day Victor Berger, the one Socialist in the House, delivered a speech on his old-age pension. He was to act as umpire of the game, and wanted to get the speech off, so as to be free to cut the subsequent proceedings.

"I don't expect to convince any of you, but I shall convince a great many on the outside," said the genial German, as he read his speech, which was a good, strong one, in his broken English, to which the House listened with solid attention, one member, Ben Johnson of Kentucky, sitting down on the floor in front of Berger to hear him.

Mr. Saboth of Illinois moved to discharge the Committee on Immigration from consideration of the Gardiner Immigration bill, which was at the top of the discharge calendar, and at the same time made the point of order that the motion had been placed on the calendar improperly. This provoked a storm of parliamentary inquiries as to whether a member could call up a bill and then make a point of order against this very bill which he had espoused. In a trice the House was in a lively tangle, and great confusion, when Mann of Illinois moved to adjourn, the yeas and nays being demanded and lost by 135 to 117.

Then the struggle went on, and the Speaker decided, on a point of order by Mr. Kendall of Iowa, that the Immigration bill had been placed improperly on the discharge calendar, because the rules require fifteen days' notice and the bill had gone on the calendar on April 19, when the committee had been appointed on April 11, and a bill could not be referred to a committee until a committee was in existence. The spirit of the rule was that when the committee failed to report a bill then the motion to discharge came into play.

The ruling was an important one, and with deadly accuracy it was the next instant applied to the Pension bill itself, which had been filed April 25, when it should have been filed not earlier than April 26 to come within the fifteen-day notice.

A motion to adjourn came this time from Mr. Underwood. The Democrats seemed to have regained their courage and their discipline at the sound of his voice and this time although the yeas and nays were again insisted on by the Republicans the adjournment was carried and with a happy shout the great part of the members present rushed away to the baseball game.

The game was won by the Democrats, 12 to 9 in four innings and the result was greeted with delirious enthusiasm as prophetic of a larger game that will be played all over the country next year.

FRANTIC DOG BITES SIX.

Attacks Children and Is Caught After a Mile Chase.

Six persons were bitten yesterday by a brown mongrel dog in Bayonne. At Broadway and Twenty-second Street it attacked a crowd of children who were at play and bit Patrick Broten of 548 Boulevard in the leg. The other children fled screaming for home. The dog darted toward Avenue E with several hundred men and boys following.

Frank Carr, 12 years old, of 432 Avenue E, was playing near his home when the dog attacked him. The boy was knocked down and the dog chewed his right leg. A street cleaner drove the animal from the boy and Harry Cohan, Manager of a moving-picture theatre, attempted to throw a bag over the dog's head, but the animal evaded it and bit one of Cohan's thighs.

By this time several policemen and a wagon had joined in the chase. The dog dashed along Avenue E, biting three other children. The animal ran more than a mile and a half before it was finally caught at Forty-eighth Street. The persons bitten had their injuries cauterized in the City Hospital. The dog was taken to the society's shelter.

COMPLAINS TO TAFT.

Walker Tells President of Judge Archbald's Action in Wire Cases.

Albert H. Walker, a lawyer of 16 Park Row, who appeared in the United States Circuit Court last week as a friend of the court in the Wire Trust case and suggested to Judge Archbald that the fines of those defendants who entered the plea of nolo contendere should be fixed at $5,000 instead of $1,000, has written to President Taft to call his attention to the action of the court. In his communication he drew special attention to the fact that Judge Archbald declared his intention in cases where the same defendant was indicted under several different counts to fine him $1,000 on the first charge and $100 on each of the subsequent ones.

Mr. Walker also incorporated in his statement a stenographic report of the speech he made last week in open court. His communication has been acknowledged by the President, who stated that he had read it with much interest.

CITY CLASHES WITH NATION.

Declines to License Special Policemen for the Appraiser's Stores.

A clash has occurred between Police Commissioner Waldo and the local customs officials regarding the withdrawal of special policemen's badges, revolvers, and clubs from employes at the United States Appraiser's Stores. Mr. Waldo took this action after the receipt of an order from Mayor Gaynor directing that all special policemen's badges be taken away. Later the Mayor modified his order to the extent that no change be made in the privileges of the special officers stationed in the Subway and on the elevated railroads.

When the Commissioner informed Francis A. Bird, Appraiser of the Port, that the badges of the special policemen in the Customs Service must be surrendered, Mr. Bird protested, and explained the necessity for continuing the present officers. A reply was received yesterday from Mr. Waldo's secretary saying that no exception would be made in the case of the Federal service.

Nearly 1,000 teamsters call daily at the Appraiser's Warehouse either to leave or load imported merchandise. Disturbances between the men are frequent, and since Gen. Bingham, when Police Commissioner, withdrew the regular police, the Government has relied on its special police to maintain order. Appraiser Bird said yesterday that as a matter of fact the regular police had no authority on United States property, and in the event of trouble among drivers and offenders are turned over to the Federal courts.

ROBBERS' VICTIM DEAD.

None of the Five Who Maltreated Louis Miller in Jamaica Arrested.

Louis Miller of Clinton Avenue, Jamaica, died yesterday at his home, of injuries received on the night of March 16, when five masked men forced their way into his home, assaulted him and beat his wife and granddaughter. Mr. Miller, who was an old man, was brutally handled, robbed of his watch, a diamond stud and his purse, and was then thrown into a small closet and locked in. When he was rescued he was almost suffocated. Peritonitis developed soon after the attack, and he gradually sank. None of the five men who committed the robbery and assault has been arrested, although Mr. Miller employed private detectives to aid the police.

On the night of the robbery, two men rang the front doorbell of the Miller home. Mr. Miller answered the bell, and the men forced their way in. At the same time three men entered through the kitchen, where were two servants. One robber stood guard over Mrs. Miller and her granddaughter, while the others went through the dwelling. The robbers made their escape just before Henry Miller returned to the house and released his father.

Louis Miller was widely known on Long Island. He began business years ago as a small merchant. He invested his savings in real estate and became wealthy.

THE LAPLAND MET A BLOW.

Near Iceberg Which the Columbia Struck—The Columbia Laid Up.

When off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland and near where the Columbia struck the great iceberg, the steamship Lapland of the Red Star Line, which reached this port from Antwerp yesterday morning ran into a squall that listed the vessel so far to port that the passengers became greatly alarmed. The blow came on Thursday evening and was accompanied by such a fall in temperature that ice was believed to be dangerously near. The gale lasted for more than an hour, and was so severe that dinner was impossible, passengers being unable to sit at the table.

As soon as the freight is taken from the hold of the Anchor liner Columbia and the survey completed she will go into dry dock in Brooklyn to repair the damage done by striking an iceberg on her way from Glasgow. Her cabin passengers were landed upon her arrival at the pier on Sunday night and yesterday morning her steerage passengers were sent to Ellis Island. Her bow is pretty badly twisted and the fore plates sprung, but, it is said, no other damage was done by the accident. The Columbia was scheduled to sail from this port on Saturday. She will be unable to get away. It may be more than a week before repairs are completed.

CRUISER CORNWALL FLOATED.

Hauled Off Cape Sable, She Takes Niobe in Tow for Halifax.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 7.—The British cruiser Cornwall which ran on the ledges of Cape Sable, two miles from where the Canadian battleship Niobe struck, was floated at high tide early to-day and proceeded to Clarke's Harbor apparently uninjured.

The 300 cadets and 300 officers and men of the cruiser assisted the Canadian Government steamer Lady Laurier and several wreckage steamers in hauling the Cornwall off the ledges. When the Cornwall reached Clarke's Harbor she took the damaged Niobe in tow and started for this port with her. The starboard engines of the Niobe are in excellent shape, but the port engines are disabled, making towing necessary.

D. A. LORING, JR., RETURNS.

Leaves His Father, Who Attempted Suicide at Sea, in France.

Daniel Alden Loring, Jr., stockbroker, of 20 Broad Street, who returned yesterday from Europe on the Hamburg-American liner Amerika, said that his father, Daniel A. Loring, Sr., President of the Aetna Real Estate Company, was resting in France and would return in September.

The elder Loring sailed on the Lorraine on June 23 under the name of Daniel Alden, unknown to his family, and attempted to jump overboard on the following day. He was stopped by Capt. Marras, who notified the younger Loring by wireless. The younger Loring sailed on June 24 to take charge of his father.

WOMAN JUMPED ON BURGLAR.

Leaped from Top of Stairway and When She Hit Him He Stopped.

With some assistance from her husband and a neighbor, Mrs. Frances Platt captured a burglar in her embroidery shop in Lexington Avenue, near Fifty-ninth Street, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Platt was the master of the situation from the moment the shadow of the intruder was seen on the glass door of the shop until the man was handed over to the police.

The man said his name was Michael Lawton, that he was a musician and that he had no home. When searched he had such unmusical things in his possession as one large knife, one screw driver, and two gold watches. As for his home, Mrs. Platt said that he was making himself too much at home in her shop.

During the Summer months, Mrs. Platt has kept her shop closed. She was leaving her apartment just above the shop yesterday with her husband, when she saw a shadow of a man on the glass door. She entered, and the burglar, seeing her, tried to escape through a window leading to a fire escape. Mrs. Platt grasped his collar firmly and hit him in the face with her handbag. The man freed himself and made for the stairs, with the unrelenting Mrs. Platt after him. Half way down a flight of steps, Mrs. Platt sprang at him from the landing above and bore him down. Mr. Platt and a neighboring tailor arrived at this instant, assisted in subduing the homeless musician and handing him over to the police.

SUSPENDS FREIGHT RATES.

Commerce Board's Order Affects Shipments to the West.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Proposed advances in class freight rates by railways operating between the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers, which were to have become effective on Oct. 28, 1911, were suspended to-day by the Inter-State Commerce Commission until Dec. 30.

The suspension affects all class rates from Atlantic seaboard points to Kansas City, Omaha, and other Missouri River transfers. The increases proposed average about nine cents a hundred pounds on freight of the first class.

The rates attacked are substantially the same as those complained of in the Burnham-Hanna-Munger case. In 1908 the commission issued an order in that proceeding reducing the rates on first-class freight from 60 cents to 51 cents a hundred pounds, and making proportionate reductions on freight of other classes. The railroads contested the order which was effective for two years from Nov. 10, 1908. In October, 1910, the United States Supreme Court sustained the commission's order and the lower rates were made effective immediately. They continued in effect only fourteen days, when, on the expiration of the two years' life of the order, the railroads again advanced them. The advances were suspended and the case will be heard probably early in the approaching Autumn.

PRESIDENT PLEADS FOR PEACE TREATIES

Makes 400-Mile Trip to Ask Maryland Chautauqua to Appeal to the Senate.

PRAISE FOR ROOSEVELT

Cites Ex-President's Efforts to Establish Peace Between Russia and Japan.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md., Aug. 7.—President Taft traveled 400 miles through Maryland and West Virginia to-day by special train to appeal to the people of the United States to use their moral influence to have the Senate ratify the French and British arbitration treaties and the treaties with Nicaragua and Honduras. His appeal was made direct to the Mountain Lake Park Chautauqua of the Methodist Episcopal Church, but in it the President included the rest of the Nation as well.

"I observe," said the President, "that there is some suggestion that by ratifying this treaty, the Senate may in some way abdicate its function of treaty-making. I confess myself unable to perceive the substance in such a point.

"To have these treaties not ratified by the Senate of the United States or to have any hesitation and discussion of a serious character in respect to them would halt the movement toward general peace, which has made substantial advance in the last ten years. To secure the ratification of the treaties, therefore, appeal must be made to the moral sense of the Nation, and while that is not entirely in the keeping of the churches certainly they may exert a powerful influence in the promotion of any effective instrumentality to secure permanent peace."

The President asked for the same sort of popular support of the treaties with Honduras and Nicaragua.

"There is no issue before the Senate so acute in respect to the cause of peace as the confirmation of these Central American treaties," said the President. "While I admit the greater importance of universal treaties of arbitration, in the long run, and as affecting the world at large, yet in respect of American interests, in respect of peace in this hemisphere, they are not equal in importance to the confirmation of these Central American treaties."

In making his plea for the Central American conventions the President highly praised ex-President Roosevelt. He spoke of the tendency of the United States to extend the helping hand to less powerful people, and instanced Mr. Roosevelt's intervention in Cuba. That tendency was evidenced also, he said, "by the wonderfully successful intervention by Theodore Roosevelt, as President of the United States, in securing peace between Russia and Japan."

The President left Washington at 8 o'clock with a carload of Baltimore & Ohio Railroad officials along to help run the special. He spent just an hour in Mountain Lake Park, leaving for Washington at 3 o'clock. His address was made to several thousand people. The President said in part:

"I have been surprised to note with what fervor the plain people of every nation welcome the proposal of universal arbitration, not because their real interest in the adoption of the plan is not greater than all other classes in the community, but because it is a somewhat abstruse cause, in the success of which they might not be expected to take an immediate interest. Of course, in a war it is the common, plain people that have to bear most of the suffering. They have to pay most of the taxes, they have to do most of the fighting, and they secure the least benefit and least glory."

The treaties, the President proceeded to say, "provided that every question of a justiciable nature should be submitted to a tribunal of arbitration, and that they defined what justiciable means.

"It is any issue between the nations that can be properly settled upon the principles of law and equity, as those are understood in law and in international law," he said. "There are, of course, questions of policy with respect to which each nation must exercise its own discretion, and in doing so is entirely within its legal and equitable right, and however its action may affect the other nation, it is not the proper subject of controversy. The machinery provided will practically dispose of every question so far as it is a war-inducing issue.

"The treaty may be called almost a treaty not only to avoid war, but even to avoid arbitration, for it is only in the last instance, after the commission shall have failed in a year's time to suggest a satisfactory solution, that even arbitration is to be resorted to.

"By this treaty, if it is ratified, the Executive and Senate representing the United States, agree to settle all their differences, as described in the treaty, by arbitration or through a commission.

"Should the treaty be ratified, the Senate, exactly as the Executive, will be in honor bound by its obligations in good faith to perform the offices which the main treaty provides shall be performed on the side of the United States, and then to abide the result, and to acquiesce, or, in so far as may be, perform and execute the judgment of the tribunal.

"What is there to prevent the Senate from uniting with the Executive in agreeing to settle future controversies of a given description in a treaty by the judgment of an impartial tribunal, and to submit to that tribunal not only the question how the issue ought to be decided, but also as a condition precedent whether the issue is within the terms of the treaty already made?

"There, I invoke your aid as a branch of the great Methodist Church to bring all the influence you can bring to secure the confirmation of the treaties now made, and of those which may be made hereafter of a similar tenor with other countries. This movement has attracted the attention not only of England and of France, but of all the countries of Europe and of the Orient. It is not too much to hope that there are a number of others who will be willing now to sign the same kind of treaties as those already made, and that we may ultimately have a network of such agreements making long strides toward universal peace."

KILLED MANY, POLICE THINK.

Negro Husband of Cincinnati Woman Found Headless in Sewer Accused.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 7.—Detectives who are seeking Charles Jones, colored, husband of Bertha Courtney, whose headless body was found in a Cincinnati sewer last week, say his arrest will come within the next two days. Two Cincinnati detectives to-day visited a house in Ohio where he was staying up until Friday, when he heard that the body had been found.

The police say the man will have to answer them for his whereabouts when Lulu Mueller, Mary McDonald, Alma Steingeweg, Anna Lloyd, Mrs. Oliver P. Smith, and Bertha Courtney were killed. Also, he will have to tell them where he was the night Charles Johnson, colored, was killed and his body placed in the weeds along the Canal bank, near Clifton Avenue. The two brothers and sisters of the Courtney woman to-day went to the Morgue here with Mrs. Ella Courtney, her mother, and they all identified the body.

When three of the women who were killed in Cumminsville met their deaths Jones lived either in or near that suburb. He occupied the basement of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver P. Smith at 411 Plum Street, when Mrs. Smith met her death. He was arrested at the time, but was allowed to go because the police could not fasten the crime upon him. The week before Charles Johnson was killed Jones was the last man seen with him.

POPE RALLIES FROM RELAPSE

Physicians Predict Entire Recovery, but Forbid Part in Anniversary.

ROME, Aug. 7.—The condition of Pope Pius, who to-day suffered a slight relapse, was satisfactory to-night, according to his physicians. They expressed the belief that a few days would suffice to perfect a recovery.

Dealing with the illness of the Pope, the Osservatore Romano, the Vatican organ, to-night published the following official statement:

"The Pope has almost completely recovered from the recent affection of the larynx, but has been suffering since last night from a slight attack of gout in the right knee."

Dr. Giuseppe Petacci, private physician to the Pontiff, and Dr. Ettore Marchiafava, consulting physician at the Vatican, visited the Pope this morning and again this evening. Leaving the Vatican to-night they said that while they found a slight rise in temperature they considered the general condition of the patient good.

Although the present attack of gout differs from former attacks only because it is less severe, the Pope's sisters are agitated because of alarmist reports in circulation, and for the first time remained at the Vatican to-night to nurse the patient. The Pontiff, however, went into a tranquil sleep at 10 o'clock to-night.

Pope Pius has appeared to be recovering normally from his recent indisposition though the recent extreme heat had weakened him and prevented his daily celebration of mass. In the cooler hours of the day he has visited the gardens. Last evening he remained in the gardens until an hour after sunset. Up to last night he was determined to take part in the celebration of the eighth anniversary of his coronation. It had been planned that the Pontiff should wear only the ordinary mitre and a light vestment instead of the triple crown and papal mantle in order that he might be less oppressed. This morning the doctors decided that in view of the increasing high temperature the service should be conducted by Cardinal Merry del Val, the Papal Secretary of State.

CANADA CABINET CHANGE.

Minister of Justice Aylesworth in Laurier Cabinet to be Replaced.

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—Another pre-election Cabinet change will be announced by the Laurier Government shortly. Minister of Justice A. B. Aylesworth, who has for several years been under the handicap of being deaf and has recently been troubled with neuralgia has insisted that his resignation from the Government shall be accepted. Hugh Guthrie, the Liberal member for Wellington, and A. H. Clarke, the Liberal member for Essex, are spoken of as successors to Mr. Aylesworth. Both are strong men and either would make a capable Minister. With Minister of Marine Brodeur succeeded by Dr. Beland the Government will be strengthened for the platform campaign by two young Ministers, capable of effective work both as organizers and speakers.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Prime Minister, has returned from Montreal, and it is understood that while there he straightened out some tangles between rival candidates which have been bothering district campaign managers. He met a number of the leading manufacturers who were bitterly opposed to ratification of the reciprocity agreement and it is believed that their view has been a good deal modified as the result of the meeting.

Opposition Leader R. L. Borden left for Montreal to-day. It is reported that one of the principal objects of his journey is to offset the work Sir Wilfrid Laurier has done among the manufacturers. He has also some organization questions to settle in the French Province of Quebec. Sir Wilfrid will devote a good deal of the time at his disposal before election to Quebec Province, where Henri Bourassa, the opposition Nationalist leader, is making an aggressive campaign against the return of the Government on the plea that the navy established by the Government is a step toward involving Canada in the wars of the British Empire. To offset this the Government proposes to keep before the French electors of Quebec the advantages which reciprocity will give to French farmers by opening the American market to the free admission of their products.

GATES WORSE IN NIGHT.

Physicians Hastily Summoned to Financier's Bedside This Morning.

PARIS, Tuesday, Aug. 8.—Owing to congestion of the kidneys the physician in attendance was summoned to the bedside of John W. Gates at 5:30 o'clock this morning.

It had previously been announced that Mr. Gates stood a good chance of recovery if his heart action, which has been causing anxiety, did not grow worse. This opinion was expressed last night by the attending physicians following a consultation. It was added that the action of the kidneys and the inflammation of the lungs continued to improve slightly.

CHINESE CURRENCY REFORM.

Conference Closes and Report Is to be Submitted to Bankers.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The international conference on Chinese currency reform, in which representatives of the financial syndicate which is placing the Chinese loan took part, was concluded to-day. It is expected that a report will be made to the bankers interested during the present week, but this will not be made public until the Chinese delegates have returned to Peking and consulted with their Government on certain points involved.

The report will deal with a specific plan for currency reform submitted by the Chinese to the conference as a basis for the loan.

SUPPOSED SPY ARRESTED.

Germans Accuse Alleged Member of English Yeomanry.

BREMEN, Germany, Aug. 7.—An Englishman said to be an officer of the British Yeomanry, was arrested here to-day accused of spying on the German fortifications on the North Sea coast.

The prisoner, whose name has not been learned, was subsequently admitted to bail. No details of the alleged spying are made known, but the deed charged is described as of the most daring character.

STRIKE IN LIVERPOOL.

Thousands Quit Work Also in Manchester—London Beef Supply Menaced.

LONDON, Aug. 7.—The strike fever has reappeared at Liverpool and Manchester, where thousands of railway men quit work to-day, demanding an advance in wages and shorter hours.

Vast quantities of goods are held up and the supply of American beef, which alone saved London from a serious shortage last week, when the dock men went out, is now imperiled.

GOOD SURGERY REWARDED.

Mrs. Cyrus McCormick Gives X-Ray Machine to Ithaca Hospital.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick of Chicago has presented the Ithaca Hospital a new X-ray machine in appreciation of the careful and prompt attention received by her grandniece, Miss Kate Fowler of New York City, who was injured in an automobile accident at Varna Hill last week.

Mrs. McCormick brought a Chicago surgeon to this city with her but after he had looked over the work of the Ithaca surgeon in charge of the case he declared that there was no need for him to come. Mrs. McCormick was so pleased that she drew a check for $500 for the new X-ray machine.

CONGRESS LASHED BY G. W. PERKINS

In Michigan Address He Says Destruction of Trusts Is Called For Without Reason.

WILL BRING BUSINESS CHAOS

Says Any Congressman Urging Enforcement of Sherman Act Stands for Sweatshop and Child Labor.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Aug. 7.—Mr. George W. Perkins of New York was to have delivered an address before the Michigan College of Mines to-day on the topic "Wanted—A Constructive National Policy." Mr. Perkins, however, was called to testify before the Stanley steel investigating committee at Washington, and in his absence President McNair read the paper. In part it is as follows:

"Congress has steadily called for the destruction of our great business enterprises. It has appropriated money to find out what crimes these concerns have committed and what evil practices they have indulged in, but, so far as common knowledge goes, it has not taken one step to ascertain what good these concerns have accomplished and whether or not there is anything of benefit and value in them that should be preserved. Its slogan has seemed to be 'Millions for destruction, but not one cent for construction.'

"There is no question that evil practices have been indulged in in corporate life. Men have done things they should not have done, and it is the duty of State and Federal Government officials to investigate and find out what these evil practices are, that they may be eradicated.

"On the other hand, scarcely a man in public life has had the courage to say even a word by way of excuse for the existence of large business concerns, and so a plain business man may perhaps be excused for saying that there are at least a few, just a few, self-evident advantages that could be urged as excuses for the existence of some of our so-called trusts, and which might be fair questions for investigation by our politicians. For instance, a Congressional committee might find it of advantage to the people to inquire:

"First: Has the cost of articles made by the so-called trusts increased or decreased?

"Second: Have wages increased or decreased?

"Third: Has labor been more steadily employed and better housed—more generally employed and better satisfied?

"Fourth: Have there been fewer failures in the lines of business involved?

"Fifth: Have the so-called trusts increased or decreased our foreign trade balances?

"Sixth: Have the so-called trusts devised ways and means and provided the capital for saving and utilizing waste products, which could not have been done by smaller concerns?

"Seventh: Is the tendency to have the ownership of these large companies and the profits made by them enjoyed by a few men or by many men? Is the tendency to have these corporations in the future create, by their profits, large fortunes for a few men, as was the case in partnerships under competitive methods, or is the tendency to distribute such profits more generally among the people?

"The civilized world is witnessing the spectacle of our holding an extra session of Congress to enact a policy of reciprocity; of our negotiating peace treaties with European powers, and at the same time of our Congress calling loudly on our Attorney General to force our business men to adopt ruthless competitive methods. In other words, it seems we can have a consolidation of States; we can have treaties for peace with foreign powers; we can have reciprocity with our neighbors; we can have church unity, but it is unlawful, unholy, to have peace in the business world. Has the height of absurdity at last been reached?

"Congress has ignored every suggestion by Roosevelt, by Taft, by Wickersham—yes, even by some of its own members—looking toward any method that would preserve any good there is, any benefit or advantage there is to the people in large business undertakings, and has seemed content to let the country drift toward business chaos.

"What has given us the sweatshops? Competition.

"What has given us child labor? Competition.

"What throws labor out of employment? Competition.

"What causes low wages? Competition.

"What brings panic and failure? Competition.

"And what is our Congress at this moment calling loudly on our Attorney General to enforce, even to the door of the jail? Competition.

"The Congressman who stands for a literal enforcement of the Sherman act stands for the sweatshop and child labor. Competition produces the two extremes—millionaires and paupers—while co-operation looks toward more stable conditions and a more equal distribution of wealth. This blessed country of ours is suffering from a deluge of politicians and a dearth of statesmen."

PERKINS TO TESTIFY TO-DAY.

Secretary Trimble of the Steel Corporation Also Subpoenaed.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The House committee of inquiry into the United States Steel Corporation will resume its investigation here to-morrow, when George W. Perkins, former partner of J. P. Morgan & Co. and a member of the Board of Directors of the Steel Corporation, has been summoned to appear.

Richard Trimble, Secretary of the Steel Corporation, also has been summoned to bring records and books relating to the corporation's business. The committee issued subpoenas for Mr. Trimble to produce copies of all records in his possession relating to wire pools, rail pools, and the Steel Plate Association formed when Mr. Trimble was with the Carnegie Steel Company. When assured in New York the other day by Richard V. Lindabury, counsel for the Steel Corporation, that Trimble had no such records, Chairman Stanley declared:

"Then tell Mr. Trimble to bring his recollection with him."

The examination of Mr. Perkins, it is expected, will cover several days, as he will be asked about many phases of the steel business, the affairs of the International Harvester Company, and the financial world.

MORE PAY OR WON'T SAIL.

Seamen on Tramp Ships Post Schedule of Wages Demanded.

From the headquarters of the National Sailors and Firemen's Union of Great Britain, 3 State Street, this city, there was issued yesterday a circular ordering the men to demand more wages or quit work. This circular was printed in English, Spanish, and German:

SAILORS AND FIREMEN TAKE NOTICE!

On and after Aug. 7, 1911, demand the following wages:

Firemen going South or across, £6; sailors going South or across, £5 10s.; firemen on tramp steamers, £6 10s.; sailors on tramp steamers, £6.

Deep Water Scale—Firemen going to west coast of America or going east, £5 10s.; sailors going to west coast of America or going east, £5.

By order of
NATIONAL SAILORS AND FIREMEN'S UNION OF GREAT BRITAIN.

Sailors and firemen delayed signing articles until these demands are granted.

Matthew Tearle, Secretary of the American branch of the union, said the order applied principally to substitutes for men who [illegible] signed for the round trip on [illegible], but who made arrangements to be paid off at this port.

SAVED FROM SINKING SHIP.

French Fishermen Picked Up During a Gale in Mid-Atlantic.

Capt. Penn of the French schooner Charles Henry, his crew of seven men, and three passengers were brought in late yesterday on the Wilson liner Francisco. They were taken off the sinking schooner on July 30 in mid-Atlantic.

The Charles Henry, a three-masted topsail schooner, was bound from St. Pierre-Miquelon for Havre. She was laden deep with fish and as passengers carried three fishermen who were anxious to return to their native land after a profitable season off the Newfoundland coast. Some bad weather was encountered at the beginning of the voyage. On the night of July 25 the Charles Henry ran into a heavy gale. The morning light found the little schooner in a bad way. The little canvas that had been set was torn into ribbons. Giant seas boarded her repeatedly and, hammering down upon her decks, raced aft until at times the vessel was running submerged.

By noon the Charles Henry, under the blows of the seas, began to leak, her seams opening with the strain. The order was given to man the pumps. For four days all hands had to work in relays. Their condition soon became desperate, for the water came in faster than they could clear the schooner. In addition wind and sea continued high, and it was dangerous work as well as heartbreaking. Capt. Penn set two strings of international code flags aloft. One read, "We are sinking," and the other, to answer a possible question, read, "Want immediate assistance."

So when the Francisco came along on her way from Hull Capt. Clark did not have to signal when he came in sight of the water-logged, half-buried Charles Henry. One single flag went fluttering aloft as the Francisco rounded to. It was the answering pennant meaning that the signal was understood and help was coming.

A heavy northwest gale was blowing, and the men on the steamer had difficulty in lowering a starboard boat. It was finally sent away in charge of Second Officer Law. It was then after 5 o'clock in the afternoon of July 30. It took two perilous trips before all those on the schooner were taken off.

Before the last man left the Charles Henry attempts were made to set her afire, so that if she floated she might not be a menace to navigation, but owing to the high seas these efforts were unsuccessful. Capt. Penn and his men saved nothing but their clothing.

LAKEWOOD RESORTS RAIDED.

Political Protection Proves Inadequate for Restaurant Minus License.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Aug. 7.—The usual Summer quiet of this fashionable resort was very much upset late last night by Prosecutor T. J. R. Brown and Sheriff Charles H. Cox turning up at the French Restaurant, patronized in the Winter months by many of the most exclusive visitors, and arresting the owner for the illegal sale of liquors. The place is run by Lazarus Constantinon, and he has twice made application for a liquor license and has been refused by the County Court at Toms River. Both times when his application has been presented to the court it has borne the names of some of the best-known men in the Winter colony who are members of the Town Club, and the general impression in Lakewood was that as soon as the license was granted the club would move into the building where the restaurant is, as the club has no license. Two years ago George J. Gould was among the signers of the application for the license, and last year Jasper Lynch, Frederick A. Potts, and Dr. Paul T. Kimball and other prominent Winter residents were signers.

At the same time this raid was made the restaurant and hotel of John E. Ryno, near by, were also visited, and fourteen men were found drinking in a full-fledged barroom in the basement. Their names were noted, and Ryno was taken to court at Toms River. A keg of whisky and several cases of beer were seized as evidence.

At the French Restaurant Constantinon vehemently denied that there was any liquor in the place, but the detectives who had got the evidence pointed to a closet and told him if he did not open it they would knock the door down. He opened it, and inside were found several bottles, containing all sorts of fancy drinks. The place in the Summer caters to the patronage of automobilists. It is said to have had political protection which was thought to be safe. Both men were held for the Grand Jury.

STRANGER KISSED BRIDE.

Master Shallow Got a Cuffing, Jumped Overboard and Was Soundly Trounced.

Ninety days at Snake Hill was the punishment decreed yesterday by Recorder Hugh Mara in the Bayonne Police Court to Martin Shallow, a young man living at 136 West Twenty-fifth Street, that city, for intruding on a wedding party and kissing the bride. Shallow said that he could not explain his action, but thought he had been drugged in a saloon.

Miss Sarah Zukofsky, daughter of Alexander Zukofsky of 569 Avenue A, was the bride, and Jacob Schniper the bridegroom. The guests and the minister were assembled when Shallow dashed into the house and embraced Miss Zukofsky before Schniper could intervene. Schniper and several of the male guests then cuffed him and he ran out. He was followed by a score of men and dived from a pier into Newark Bay. After he had been fished out he got a further trouncing from the guests and then was handed over to the police.

The wedding ceremony was then completed, but the bride was on the verge of hysterics.

BURGLAR SMILED TOO SOON.

Didn't Mind When Woman Interrupted, but She Taught Him with a Broom.

When Mrs. Bessie Bannon, wife of the Superintendent of the Fulton Court apartment house at 68 Lenox Avenue, entered her flat in the basement yesterday afternoon, she found a young man carefully examining her effects and arranging them in a pile on the floor of the kitchen.

"What are you doing here?" demanded Mrs. Bannon.

The stranger smiled, and without responding went on with his work.

Mrs. Bannon's eye fell upon a broom which stood behind the kitchen door, and a moment later it had descended upon the young man's back. The youth darted to the front of the apartment, with Mrs. Bannon in hot pursuit.

Again and again the broom fell, and the young man's upraised arms did not protect his head and body.

When he ran from the apartment, Mrs. Bannon followed, crying: "Stop thief!" Several hundred persons gathered as the fugitive ran along 116th Street toward Seventh Avenue. Patrolman John Green joined in the chase, and at the corner of 116th Street and Seventh Avenue caught him.

The young man described himself as Edward Sichel, 19 years old, a laborer, of 20 East 106th Street. He was locked up on a charge of robbery.

EXILED HAITIANS HERE GOLD-LADEN

Son of Simon, Deposed President, and Minister of War Arrive on the Allemania.

STRONG BOXES WITH THEM

The President and Others Left Behind in a Warship—Refugees of Revolution Are Bound for Paris.

Forsaking rebellious Haiti for the more peaceful atmosphere of Paris, five deposed officials of the late Simon Government got in yesterday on the Hamburg-American liner Allemania. As though to assure their welcome across the seas, they brought with them a number of boxes of gold, which were locked up during the voyage in the purser's safe. The party consists of Antoine Simon, son of the deposed President; Antoine Pierre-Paul, the ex-President's private secretary; Ferdinand and Petion Pressen, and Emile Brisson, late of the civil and military branches of the Government. Gen. Monplaisir, the Minister of War, and Dr. Sylvain boarded the vessel with the others at St. Marc, Haiti, but they left the vesel at Juagua.

Evans R. Dick of this city, who sold his yacht, the American, to the Simon Government; Capt. Charles D. Palmer and Mrs. Palmer, who were his guests on the yacht; Aksel Rassmussen, a former Chief Engineer in the Haitian Navy, and two Syrians who left the Black Republic because of business depression, also came in on the Allemania.

Antoine Simon, Jr., came ashore carrying a most comforting load of yellow metal wrapped in manila paper and inclosed in a traveling bag. When the son of the President came to fill up the information wanted by the purser for the Government he suggested that the young man give his occupation as a General. The passenger admitted he was a General, but asked that his occupation be given as farmer. The Haitians went to the Haitian Consulate, 31 Broadway. The Consul here is Louis Joseph Simon, one of the large Simon family.

Simon said that he was on his way to Europe to present a note to the European powers regarding the revolution in Haiti. He would not say what the note contained. He said that one of the principal causes of the disturbance was the abuse of railroad concessions granted to Americans. His father, he said, had practically no funds at present, but those in power in Haiti had promised that his estates would not be confiscated and he would likely realize from his property later.

The American, with Mr. Dick and his guests, sailed right into the midst of the revolution. There was some delay in the purchase of the yacht, Mr. Dick said. The Haitian Government objected to the price, but this was finally settled, and the American, once a noted yacht of the late Archibald Watt, became the gunboat "17 Decembre" of the Haitian navy.

Mr. Dick said that the American got to Cape Haitien just about the time that President Simon and his men abandoned Fort Liberte, and the insurrectos marched into the town. Mr. Dick used his vessel to protect Americans and foreigners. The yacht was fired on during the firing along shore, and Mr. Dick and Mr. and Mrs. Palmer had to seek shelter behind a small boat.

Mrs. Palmer is a daughter of Luke Wright, former Secretary of War. Mr. Dick seems to believe that the revolution was largely due to railroad concessions to American interests given by the deposed government.

President Simon intended to flee from the country on the Allemania. From aboard the warship, where he had taken refuge, he sent a courier to obtain accommodations for himself and thirty of his followers. He was told the price, and that he had just an hour to come aboard before the steamer sailed. As the Allemania got under way the President's party signaled that they wanted to come on board, but the skipper of the Allemania would not stop.

Charles Durville came here yesterday from Hamburg on the Hamburg-American liner Amerika. Upon the arrival of the vessel Durville proved to be Charles Fouchard, who has been Haitian Minister to Germany for two years, and who is returning to his native land incognito. He has been mentioned as a possible candidate for President to succeed Antoine Simon. When questioned about it M. Fouchard said modestly:

"If the people want me I will serve."

LECONTE IN HAITI'S CAPITAL.

Revolutionary Leader Takes Possession of National Palace.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 7.—Gen. Cincinnatus Leconte, the revolutionary leader, made a triumphal entry into the capital yesterday and was acclaimed by the populace. Arrangements were made forthwith for a joint session of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, which, meeting as a national assembly, were expected to elect Leconte President in succession to the deposed Simon.

This proceeding is not in harmony with the programme of Gen. Antenor Firmin, the rival revolutionary leader, who reached here to-day from Porto Rico and was permitted to land, although he had already announced that the Presidency had been promised to him by Leconte.

Gen. Leconte attended a te deum at the cathedral, conducted by the Archbishop, immediately upon his arrival. Later he made a tour of the city, finally entering the national palace to a salute of 101 guns from all the fortifications.

Later a new Ministry wholly replacing that of the Simon administration was tentatively agreed upon as follows: War—M. Zamor; Interior—Judge Caurin; Foreign Affairs—M. Guilbaud; Public Instruction—Senator Laroche; Agriculture—M. Bellard; Finance—M. Sansaricq.

CAPE HATIEN, Aug. 7.—The news that Gen. Leconte had entered the capital and taken possession of the national palace was received here with rejoicing. Soldiers and citizens paraded the streets last night, and to-day was made a holiday with music and entertainments.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Contrary to expectations, the entry of Gen. Leconte's forces, 300 strong, into Port au Prince, Haiti, was compassed quietly and there was no need to land American bluejackets. United States naval officers were fully prepared to take that step in the event of trouble. Minister Furniss reported to-day that the followers of Gen. Firmin had weakened and permitted the army of Gen. Leconte to advance on the capital without opposition.

DENIAL FROM HAMMOND.

Recent Coronation Ambassador Denies Recommending Yukon Gold Purchase.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 7.—John Hays Hammond to-day emphatically contradicted the recent report of The London Daily Mail that the Consolidated Goldfield Company of South Africa had acquired considerable interest in the Yukon field upon his advice. Mr. Hammond, who has been motoring in Scotland, will sail for Boston on the steamer Franconia to-morrow. He said:

"I understand that the Consolidated Goldfield Company has acquired a small interest in a Yukon company, but entirely on its own responsibility. I know nothing about the merits of the property. I am in no wise responsible for any proposed floatation, and I have not recommended any mining properties to English capitalists during my recent visit."

Chinaman Held for Smuggling Opium.

Jow Gum, a Chinese cigarmaker, of 7 Pell Street, was arrested yesterday by Walter H. Murphy, a Customs Inspector, charged with violation of the opium exclusion law. Twelve cans of smoking opium, according to the Inspector, were found in the possession of Gum, and had been smuggled into the country.

RIDICULE SPY STORY.

Army Abandoned the Use of Dunnite Years Ago, Officers Say.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The War Department received to-day a dispatch from Capt. Watson of the Coast Artillery, U. S. A., who is in charge of recruiting at Indianapolis, giving the details of a request made to the War Department through him by Miss Clara Dyer, for the discharge of Private George Petr, an enlisted man in the 137th Company of Coast Artillery, stationed at Fort Totten, N. Y., on the ground that she was married to him, and he is an officer in the Austrian Army, playing the spy for the Austrian Government to learn the secret of how dunnite is made. At the War Department the story told by Miss Dyer is laughed at for its improbability.

Such cases, it was pointed out, are of frequent occurrence, and are attributed to women who find themselves married to men who have been obliged to move with their army organization, leaving their brides behind. Army officers say that Miss Dyer probably did not know when she made an affidavit declaring that Petr was a spy that if she should prove the charge it would go hard with the man.

Gen. Ainsworth said to-day that the man Petr had a good card record, and did not seem to be such a fool as to go into the army to get any knowledge of our high explosives which he could acquire with greater ease out of it.

Dunnite, army officers said to-day, was long ago abandoned by our army, that every information service in Europe knew all about it, and of a dozen other high explosives that have superseded it.

Private Georg Petr, 137th Company, Coast Artillery Corps, U. S. A., awoke to find himself famous in a way yesterday morning.

Col. Strong, the commanding officer at Fort Totten, read the stories in the morning papers yesterday, which said that the 137th Company, one of those under his command, at Fort Totten, had on its rolls a spy of Emperor Franz Josef.

The reporters came to the fort throughout the day, but none talked with private Georg Petr.

"Petr's record is a good one," said Col. Strong, "and I do not intend to have him talked to about any spy business unless I get some word from Washington about the matter. All that I know is that Petr has been a good soldier, and I have no reason to suppose he is a Count, a spy, or anything but a well-behaved artilleryman. His company is going to Sandy Hook for target practice at 7 o'clock to-morrow morning, and Petr will surely go along with it unless orders to the contrary come from Washington."

The enlistment papers of Petr show that he served a full enlistment in the Sixth Cavalry, and that when that enlistment expired he went to Fort Slocum, N. Y., in May, 1910, and enlisted for the Coast Artillery. Since that time he has been on duty at Fort Totten, and at no time has he been connected with the ordnance arm, the branch of the service that holds the secret of dunnite.

HEALTH BOARD TO MOVE.

City Leases Building at Walker and Centre Streets for $58,000 a Year, It Is Said.

A lease will be recorded to-day, it was announced last night, whereby the City of New York will take over for ten years the new building at Centre and Walker Streets, for the use of the Department of Health. It was said that the lease had been signed by the members of the Sinking Fund Commission, and that official announcement of the fact would be made through The City Record to-day.

The new home of the Health Department, under this plan, will be in the neighborhood of the other city buildings, and it was said that the choice of the site had the full approval of the Municipal Art Commission, which has advocated the concentration of the municipal buildings in the vicinity of City Hall Park. The building is eight stories, and is just being completed by the Abingdon Construction Company, which was a party to the lease. The negotiations for the lease were conducted by S. H. Stone, a real estate broker of 100 Broadway.

The Abingdon building has a frontage of 150 feet on Centre Street, and runs back eighty feet on Walker Street, and is near the Criminal Court Building. It is expected that the whole building will be used by the Health Department. The total amount of floor space is over 100,000 square feet.

The annual rental, it was said, will be $58,500 and as the lease runs for ten years the total cost to the city will be $585,000. A new building for the Health Department was sought last year downtown and the choice of the Health officials fell upon a building at Sixteenth Street and Irving Place. A resolution providing for the leasing of the building was passed by the Aldermen, but was vetoed by the Mayor.

The present home of the Board of Health is at Fifty-fifth Street and Sixth Avenue in an old brick building it has occupied for twenty years. Removal to the new building is expected to begin as soon as the Abingdon building is completed, which will be within a short time.

Policeman Who Shot Boy Arrested.

Patrolman W. A. Weaver, who shot William Trantaino, 10 years old, at New Dorp, Staten Island, on Sunday night, was locked up last night on a charge of having discharged his revolver without just cause. Trantaino is reported to be in a serious condition at St. Vincent's Hospital, Livingston. It is understood that the boy's father will go before District Attorney Fach of Richmond County and make a charge of felonious assault against Weaver. Trantaino had been arrested by Weaver, but broke away when Weaver shot him.

Makes His Fourth Rescue This Season.

Cancil Dowyarzell, a jeweler, of 70 Bayard Street, was carried away by the strong ebb tide while bathing from Pier 55, East River, yesterday morning, and would have drowned but for Charles Schenfelder of 430 Cherry Street, who, seeing his distress, swam from the pier after him and reached him nearly midriver. Schenfelder has been a member of the Volunteer Life Saving Corps for thirteen years, and this was his fourth rescue this season.

The Washburn-Crosby Company's famous Gold Medal Flour has all the bread, biscuit, cake, and pastry-making qualities of the finest wheat concentrated in it. It bakes more to the pound than other flour, saves money as well as the extra work and worry occasioned by the use of flour of less uniform quality. That is why knowing housewives always demand it.

The Manager of the B. & A.
By VAUGHAN KESTER, Author of "The Prodigal Judge."
HERE is a novel which for simple strength, directness, and above all, interest, will stand as Mr. Kester's best work. In the lumber region of Michigan Dan Oakley is manager of a branch railroad. His father, serving a life sentence, is pardoned, and works on the railroad. The star of Dan's life is Constance Emory, and theirs is an unusual love story.

ICE A BAD BUSINESS, SAYS PRESIDENT OLER

All His Company Can Drag Out of $4,500,000 Capital Is 3½ Per Cent.

AND NO WATER IN CAPITAL

It's All Paid, He Says, and 'Tis Hard to Get Along—Artificial Ice Is the Trouble—Prices Away Too Low.

Wesley M. Oler, President of the Knickerbocker Ice Company, the American's successor in New York, was the sole witness at yesterday's session of the inquisitorial proceedings before Magistrate Appleton, which are being held to determine whether the District Attorney would be justified in laying the facts of the ice situation before the Grand Jury. After identifying a weary number of lists and tabulations relating to sales, barges, prices, and the like, Mr. Oler came to the matter of profits.

"As a matter of fact, your Honor," he observed gloomily to Magistrate Appleton, "ice dealing is a rotten business, and no one who wants decent returns ought to put his money into it."

Assistant District Attorney Deming had been getting into the stenographic record no end of figures when Mr. Oler fished from his pocket a few figures of his own, and read them aloud.

"Just let me show you how much terrible greed there has been here," he urged, "just let me show you how terribly we have oppressed people. Let me tell you that the New York department of the American—and that's fully 60 per cent. of the whole business—made a total profit in the years 1907, 1908, 1909, and 1910 of $638,200, or an average of $159,550. Now, Sirs, that meant a profit on the actual capital invested—not on water or on the original capital, but on actual present capital invested, which is $4,500,000—of 3½ per cent."

Money Lost Six Months in Year.

He explained that the fiscal year begins Nov. 1, so that for the current year he could not give the final figures, but the New York department, which is now the Knickerbocker, had lost $81,000 up to the first of June, and that its profits for the first eight months of the present fiscal year, including, that is, the June sales, amounted to only $17,022, with the interest on bonds not yet charged off.

"Don't you see," Mr. Oler continued, "the ice business is a losing proposition for six months of the year, and you must remember, when you consider the selling price on a ton of ice, that that price has to include something to make up for the six months when the companies are losing. For six months of the year we lose money, for two months we break even, and for four months we make a profit. Such a condition simply must be taken into consideration if you want to arrive at a fair conclusion."

As for the Knickerbocker or any other company or group of companies maintaining a monopoly or fixing prices, he scouted the idea. It simply couldn't be done, he said. The Knickerbocker and those other companies that are subsidiary to the American do about 38 per cent. of the business here. As far as he knew there was no understanding between the interests representing the other 62 per cent. Price fixing with an eye to monopoly was an impossibility as far as ice was concerned.

"No company or group of companies can control the price of ice," he declared. "You can put into one company to-day every ice house and ice plant in New York City and then give me $100,000 capital and I'll guarantee to name the price at which that company will have to sell ice next Summer. That's because you can hire barges and tugboats and go up the river and buy all the ice you want."

Inherited Bad Reputation.

"But can you?" put in the Magistrate, with obvious surprise. "Aren't the ice-fields there either all sold or pretty well contracted for."

Mr. Oler shook his head. No, you could find fields still held out for a higher price very late in any season. Of course, he said, this couldn't be done when there's a shortage in the crop. It couldn't have been done last Winter, in fact, nor in 1909.

After the hearing was adjourned, Mr. Oler went over the figures with the reporters. Both he and Mr. Savage, his lawyer, insisted that the influence of the early Morse régime had nothing to do with the present small profits, but they both agreed that it had a good deal to do with the unsavory public reputation of the company.

"Here is the real, secret trouble," said Mr. Oler. "It is the war between natural ice and artificial ice, and until that is settled, the business will never be stable, the retail price of ice is bound to be low, and likewise the profits. Slowly, beginning down as far as Galveston and New Orleans, and working its way North, the artificial ice plants have driven the natural men off the field. As a result, in Washington and Baltimore and Philadelphia the business is stable. In the first two cities it sells regularly at $3 a ton, and in Philadelphia at $2.75. Here, every year, more and more artificial ice is being sold, and just as fast as we can get the money we put up artificial plants. It's a question of four or five years, and the fight will be over."

Here in 1904, it was possible to sell ice at $1.40 and make a fair profit. For the last two or three years, $2 has brought a fair profit. For the rest of the Summer, Mr. Oler thought, it would take $2.50 to make a fair profit. Of course, if other dealers sell below that, the Knickerbocker will have to, he added.

Lots of Competition.

There is plenty of competition, he explained, assuringly. Why, even the Merchants' Union and the Knickerbocker, both subsidiary companies of the American, are competitors. They try to beat each other out, to take customers away from each other, each company's President trying to make a record. For his own, however, Mr. Oler wouldn't order underselling the Merchants' Union. There are other ways to compete, and it's largely a matter of personalities, quite frankly the personality of the driver and the personality of the cook.

Mr. Oler's testimony as to the prices obtaining during the recent hot wave left a slightly different impression from his remarks on this subject at previous sessions. The price of $2.50 for natural ice and $3 for artificial ice was the order that concerned the regular trade. The weighmasters were at liberty, within their discretion, to raise the price to outsiders and sell at more than $3. If any of them sold as high as $5 he would not call it an abuse of that discretion, as he was inclined to think conditions justified the increase.

"But all this is trivial," he added, "for the amount of ice sold by the Knickerbocker between the 1st and the 15th of July in the whole county at more than $3 a ton did not amount to more than 87 tons."

The difficulties of that hot period were such that it was not a season of profit for the company, and they were so extraordinary that no one could have foreseen them. To have prepared for any such intense demand would have been madness, Mr. Oler said. One trouble was that the artificial plants, unable to increase their output in such a time of stress, dump all their customers on the already overburdened natural ice men.

To show the increase in the business, due partly to the brief period of tremendous demand, Mr. Oler showed the figures of actual sales for the month beginning June 15 of 1910 as compared with 1911. In 1910 the company sold to the independent credit trade 9,885,600 pounds at an average price of $1.59 a ton. In this year the amount was 17,162,220 pounds at an average price of $1.93 a ton. For the cash trade the figures showed 18,917,850 pounds, at $1.66 a ton as against 28,065,320 pounds this year at $2.39 a ton.

Lee Again Seeks Release.

William J. Lee, who has been confined in the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane for four years on a charge of misdemeanor, asked Justice Brady yesterday, through counsel, to release him or to grant him a trial on the charge on the ground that he is now sane. He raised the point that the law under which he was committed to the asylum had been repealed and consequently he should be discharged. The Justice ordered an adjournment until Friday. This is the eighth writ of habeas corpus that Lee has sworn out.

SAYS AUTOS MAY RACE IN CITY

Callan Law Permits 30 Miles an Hour Sometimes, Court Holds.

Magistrate Murphy, in Yorkville Court, discharged yesterday a man whom Bicycle Policeman Howe accused of running his automobile twenty-seven miles an hour in Fifth Avenue, and told the policeman not to bring another such case before him. The Callan automobile law, he said, rules here, and "an automobile may go at any rate under thirty miles an hour unless surrounding conditions make it reckless driving." The prisoner, John Martin, lives at 155 East Seventy-fourth Street.

"The city ordinance is null and void now," said Magistrate Murphy, "and the Callan law is in effect. Was there much traffic on the avenue at that time?"

"No."

"But you charge the man with reckless driving," went on the Magistrate. "Under the Callan law an automobilist may run his machine at a rate under thirty miles an hour unless surrounding conditions make it reckless driving. But as little as eight miles an hour may be reckless under some conditions."

Howe protested that this new order of things was news to him.

"The police understand that the Callan law does not apply to New York," he said, "and most of the Magistrates have so decided."

"I'm sorry if some of my fellow-Magistrates hold a different view," said the Court, "but I believe I'm right. Mayor Gaynor's opinion is that the Callan law applies to New York."

"But that law provides that all cities, towns, and villages must have signs on the highways at the city limits showing the rates of speed permissible; otherwise an automobilist cannot be punished; and New York has none," was Howe's final protest.

"The prisoner is discharged," said the Magistrate. "Don't bring any more such cases to my court."

LETS GAMBLERS GO.

Magistrate Won't Accept Evidence of Stool Pigeon Used by the Police.

The method of the Police Department in hiring stool pigeons at a high price was scored yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Freschi in West Side Court, when he discharged five men arrested in a raid in West Forty-third Street on Saturday as common gamblers. Evidence had been obtained by Charles Kane, who said he had visited the house on two occasions, losing $100 of police funds on the first occasion and $30 on the second. He said he had never been a winner at any of the crap games in which he played.

"I cannot hold these men," said the Magistrate, "on the uncorroborated evidence of a man whose hope of future employment consists in working up a case and securing a conviction. I shall take it upon myself to communicate with the Police Commissioner and give him my views on any such sum of money being handed over to one of these so-called investigators who are not, I understand, obliged to show whether they have pocketed the money or have really lost it. Evidence should be secured in a legitimate way by the use of the regularly appointed police. A conviction downtown would not follow my holding these men and they are accordingly discharged."

About fifty of "the talent" were in the court room to get a look at Kane to prevent his admission to any of the clubs where games are run.

LIGHTNING STRIKES CHURCH.

Woman Killed Near Altar When Bolt Enters Church During Funeral.

WEST BEND, Wis., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Henry Conrad was struck dead and four other women rendered unconscious when a bolt of lightning struck St. John's Evangelical Church at Kohlville. The women were attending the funeral of Phillip Brissel, and the body was before the altar.

The Rev. John Frank had just started the sermon when a vivid flash of flame and deafening crash seemed to paralyze the entire congregation.

Pastor Frank's words of compassion for the sorrowing family died on his lips. Mrs. Conrad and a dozen other women lay prostrate on the floor, while near them writhed a dozen others, their shrieks of terror precipitating a panic, which was checked with difficulty.

In this church the men sit on one side and the women on the other. When the lightning struck the steeple, entered the church and hurled down a chandelier under which sat Mrs. Conrad, only women were struck.

TELLING OF THREATS IN UNION BANK CASE

"Man with Stubby Thumbs" Tried to Scare Him Off, Says Depositors' Chairman.

MENTIONED LEADER McCOOEY

And Said He'd Take Brother-in-Law's Job as Steward Away—Don't Know Him, Says McCooey.

A darkly mysterious man, breathing political threats, who, if he is ever run down, can easily be identified by his "stubby thumbs," and the burning question of whether Assemblyman Louis E. Goldstein is to be renominated in Brownsville for the lower house of the State Legislature, figured largely yesterday in the investigation of the affairs of the defunct Union Bank of Brooklyn. John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Kings County, gave testimony affecting the mystical character with the short, thick digit on the radial side of his either hand, and also about Mr. Goldstein's possible renomination this Fall. He testified that he was entirely in the dark as to both matters.

Ex-Police Commissioner James C. Cropsey was sworn in to assist Mr. Goldstein as counsel in the investigation, which is before Edward L. Dodge, appointed by the Governor. Mr. Cropsey let Mr. Goldstein do all the questioning of witnesses.

The sensational facts concerning the mysterious unknown with the stubby thumbs were brought out when Dr. J. E. Rohrer of 410 Fenimore Street was called. Dr. Rohrer is Chairman of the Executive Committee of the depositors' organization. The mystic person with the blunt digits appeared at Rohrer's pharmacy a few days since, and, without introducing himself, intimated that if Rohrer did not cease his activities in connection with the investigation McCooey might see to it that the druggist's brother-in-law lost his post as steward in one of the county buildings.

When Leader McCooey took the stand Mr. Goldstein asked him if he was not the recognized leader of the Democracy in Brooklyn. Mr. McCooey would not affirm or deny the rumor.

"I don't see why I should answer that question," said he; "but I may say that I am Chairman of the Kings County Democratic organization."

"There are some questions I would like to ask you, having to do with the political situation in the Twenty-third Assembly District, which you need not answer if you do not wish to," pursued Goldstein.

"Go as far as you like," said the witness.

"Well, were you a party to any deal, if deal there was, by which an agreement was reached that I was not to be renominated next Fall because of my activity in the Union Bank matter?"

"I can say that your name," replied Mr. McCooey, "has never been mentioned, directly or indirectly, to me by anybody, anywhere, or at any time, in connection with your possible renomination, or this case."

In answer to questions Mr. McCooey said that he knew nothing whatever about the strange man with the "stubby thumbs." He did not know Dr. Rohrer, and if the mysterious man had mentioned his name to the druggist, he had done so without Mr. McCooey's knowledge or consent.

William J. B. Washburn, who was the foreman of the extraordinary Grand Jury which investigated the affairs of that bank in 1908, was questioned about that investigation. The jury, he said, was discharged after a few days, and did not have an opportunity to go deeply into the matter. He was told at the time by an Assistant District Attorney that an indictment would not avail unless there was corroborative testimony.

The investigation will be resumed to-day.

Bone Grew Around His Heart.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 7.—Ove Blade died suddenly yesterday, and an autopsy conducted by Coroner Jett revealed a bone growing about the heart. The organ was partly encased. Otherwise Blade was normal. The cause of the growth could not be explained.

Southern Travelers Meet To-night.

The annual meeting of the Southern Travelers Association will be held at Hotel Astor this evening. Following the business meeting there will be a smoker and vaudeville performance at which nearly one hundred buyers representing Southern business houses will be the guests of the association.

First Week's Postal Savings Business.

Postmaster Morgan reports that during the first week 1,065 deposits aggregating about $87,000 were made in the new postal savings bank. The largest number of savings accounts, 249, aggregating $9,439, was entered by Supt. Joseph Elliott and the clerks of the money order division on Saturday. One hundred and sixty deposits made yesterday amounted to $4,000.

FALL WEIGHT BLUE SERGE SUITS FOR MEN

A Remarkable Sale

You can buy Summer Suits anywhere now at cut prices. But a sale of Fall-weight Suits for $14.75 when Fall-weight Suits are just coming in is something very different.

We make no secret of the facilities which enable us to do this.

The piece goods were bought long before other stores thought of looking so far ahead, and we had them made up when workmen were glad to be doing something.

If we had had to pay the now current prices we could not possibly have sold these Suits at less than $19.75, equalling $22.50 elsewhere.

Moreover, these suits being made up when they were, allowed of more than usual care in the workmanship.

If a five-dollar bill is useful to you—

Come and save it.

The cloth is a fine, closely woven, smooth finish, 15-oz.-to-the-yard serge—just the right weight for year-round wear.

All the suits are cut on our fall models, and the size-range is complete from 34 to 46, including special sizes for stout men and extra tall men, whom we have always made a special point of satisfying fully as much as we satisfy the man of average proportions.

New Furniture---We Are the First to Introduce It

O'Neill Main Store—Fourth Floor.

It is not strange one likes the things that are new, because in them is manifest the beauty that does not exist in that which is old. This is human nature, but how about furniture? Newspapers widely advertised August furniture sales, and people rushed to take advantage of the so-called reduction in price; but what do they buy? Surely not always new furniture thus exploited at the end of the season; and surely not up-to-date furniture after the choice of the stock has been sold. As a matter of fact, what they buy is stock that has been left over, and people have found that it lacks beauty, workmanship or finish, forming a good reason why you should let it alone. Then, again, special goods are manufactured for August sales, in order to stand the reduction in price. All these things are eliminated when you make your purchases here. All our new Autumn furniture and bedding stock is now displayed and ready for your inspection at mid-summer prices.

Then why buy the old?

LITTLE BEING DONE FOR TRAMP ARMY

More Than 250,000 Beggars in the Country, Adds Mendicancy Society Secretary.

SPECIAL WORK IS NEEDED

James Forbes Makes an Urgent Plea for Revival of the Mendicancy Squad, Which Understood the Tramp.

The second annual report of the National Association for the Prevention of Mendicancy, published yesterday, declares that there are at least 250,000 tramps and beggars in this country from choice, and that very little is being done to correct the evil.

Mrs. W. H. S. Lloyd is President of the organization, while Bishop Greer, Charles Francis Adams, and Thomas M. Mulry are the Vice Presidents. The executive Secretary is James Forbes, who, the police say, knows more about beggars and tramps and their methods of operation than any other man in the country.

After telling what he has attempted to do in this city, Mr. Forbes says he has now devised "what has proved to be a highly effective organization."

"Not the least noteworthy feature of the plan," says he, "was the evolution of a police unit unique in American police annals, in that its expressed goal was elimination of the evil combated, and it seems prevention as distinct from mere repression." He adds:

> A social police, for lack of a better term, this unit or squad was named, and for some years was enabled, in spite of all opposition, to justify itself abundantly in social service. Taught to discriminate, encouraged to be kind and helpful, and yet held up tightly to a very high standard of efficiency, the mendicancy police squad served as an object lesson of the possibilities for good service inherent in our police and needing only a favorable medium for realization. In direct connection with this development, though independent of our administrative control, we may mention the police officers detailed as probation officers to the various Magistrates and who accorded an invaluable co-operation. They, too, caught the spirit, and, like our own men, gradually losing the ingrained distrust of "reformers," due to long and bitter experience, became devoted auxiliaries. But that unreasoning hatred of the police, characteristic of so many dilettantes, so obscure in origin, sometimes the expression of subconscious revivals of old prejudices of caste, of race, or creed; again with charlatans the determination to prolong a state of war to their financial benefit all operated against us. But fundamental in its appeal as something that should and must be done, its eclipse could be but temporary, founded as the inspiration which impelled it forward was, and is, upon a sense of real vocation for the uplift of the weak and unfortunate. For when all else is said and done the great mass of men and women who sink into mendicancy are in need mostly of treatment under a humane plan, which while denying them the privilege of abasing themselves as mendicants shall achieve their social salvation by the creation of special employment suited to their several conditions. Particularly is this true with relation to the army of crippled and blind, the men past middle life, the sick in body and in mind.

Mr. Forbes has been trying for the last year to put the "honest" beggar—that is, the person who would work if he could—in a position to do so. Many such persons have been started in business with a small capital, and generally they have succeeded. Mr. Forbes has usually had the co-operation of the uniformed police, and he now has this to say in their defense:

> We hear no more to-day of the crime wave and the heated controversies engendered in connection with it, but we note with interest the right-about-face of the administration with regard to the police.
>
> It seems, and we have always thought so, that a policeman is a human being after all. If you chivy him to the point of not caring what he does, believing that he will be denied justice in any event, he acts as any other human being would act under the circumstances. If treated as a man he responds as such.
>
> It does us good to speak a good word for our police. In spite of his faults the Irish-American policeman is, we believe, entitled to be known as "the best in the world." He may not be so active in arresting beggars as we might wish, and yet his sympathy for the under dog, as he would term it, is perhaps no greater fault in one direction than that "particular aversion to beggars" which characterized Roderick Random's grandfather is in the other.
>
> No doubt many of them are not averse to an occasional honest dollar picked up "on the side." But, after all, his efficiency as guardian of the peace is not necessarily decreased thereby. We may differ with the frankly expressed opinion of a public official who holds "that in a community of grafters what's the harm in a little grafting" and still deprecate the vicious and unjust attacks so often made upon a body of men whom our normal citizenship admires and respects.
>
> Let us hope that the day has gone forever when policemen will be persecuted simply because they are policemen.

In conclusion Mr. Forbes adds:

> Let us concede the right to a policeman to call his soul his own and convince him that we will play fair and we shall hear less of secret associations, legislative funds, the "System," and what-not.

MORMON COLONY ON PACIFIC.

Church Reaching Far Westward After Long Driving Toward Mexico.

Special to The New York Times.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Aug. 7.—The Mormon Church is behind a colonizing movement which is expected to make fruitful a hitherto rather barren region near this city. An option has been taken on the Cuyama Ranch of about 65,000 acres and it is understood that the papers will soon be signed and that 500 Mormons will go to the valley to begin the work of development. In the growth of California this particular region, to the north of Santa Barbara, has been neglected because the rainfall has not been abundant and the water, although sufficient in the streams, could not be applied to the land without an extensive system of canals.

In the art of irrigation the Mormons are well versed. It was through this system that they developed barren places in Utah and they have extended it far into the surrounding States. The colony therefore will be prepared to take this land, which will be bought at a comparatively cheap price, and soon make it profitable. They expect to have a city of their own before many years pass.

It is believed that converts from Europe and other foreign countries will be largely settled here. It is the policy of the Church to care for these immigrants by purchasing tracts of land for them. With these strangers are always sent out a sprinkling of families taken from the established Mormon settlements to see them through financially and religiously. Terms of purchase of the lands thus acquired are made easy for the settler. The Church gets its return through the tithes, 10 per cent. of every good churchman's income, which are generally paid by the devout colonists.

There is much surprise over this plan of the Church to enter California. In the early days many of the followers of Brigham Young came to this State, but the movement was discouraged and attention was given chiefly to the Great Basin. Then, when the war against polygamy became severe, a colony was established in Mexico for those who wanted to live their religion. Since then other colonies have been steadily pressed southward through Arizona and New Mexico to connect with these outlying settlements. It was believed that this work would keep the Church engaged for years and that it would not cross the Sierras for a long time.

Wantanone Club's Outing.

The Wantanone Club of the Ninth Assembly District, the headquarters of which is at 368 Willis Avenue, the Bronx, held its ninth annual outing at Downer's Grove yesterday, the members going thither on board the Atlas. Just as the boat was pulling into the 138th Street pier last night, one of the club members, named Brown, fell overboard, and was in danger of getting crushed between the boat and the pier. He was rescued by Arthur Boylan of 268 West 147th Street.

NEWLYWEDS POOR TENANTS.

Landlord Says He Doesn't Want Them, as They Seldom Stay More Than a Year.

"There's one kind of tenant I don't want," said a Brooklyn property owner the other day. "That's the newly wed couple. I'm willing to stand for dogs, and babies, and pianos in my apartments, but at honeymooners I draw the line.

"In the first place, they don't stay. Take the ordinary newly married couple; they go about home hunting and find an apartment they think will suit, and they take a lease of it. After they get in their friends come to see them. The friends inspect the flat and then begin telling the poor girl how much better she might have done—how she might have got one more room, or larger rooms, or better accommodations, or more convenient ones. She is dissatisfied, and when the year is up they are sure to move, if they don't try to break the lease before that.

"If they are not blessed with friends to advise, they are dead sure to bite off more than they can chew or not enough. Before marriage folks have no idea of how much it costs to run a flat. This talk about two living on the same as one is all tommyrot. They have to live on the income of one, it is true, but the cost of living is pretty nearly, if not more than, doubled. They pick out a flat at $40 a month when all they really can afford is a twenty-five-dollar flat. It isn't that they can't afford the $15 difference, but there are expenses which a larger apartment entail that make living in them much more costly. So they struggle along through the year, and then move.

"On the other hand, sometimes they pick out too modest an apartment. The bride gets dissatisfied with her surroundings. She sees that she can afford a better place, so into it they move as soon as the year is up.

"It's just the same as buying ready-made clothes. The first suit you try on is likely not to fit. It's either too large or too small. I have been a landlord for twenty years and have had hundreds of tenants, but I never yet knew a bridal couple to remain more than one year in their first home. Now I take them no more. I let them try out their income on some other man's flat, and then when they've tested it I'm willing to have them live in one of mine."

AGAINST PAID SCHOOL BOARD

Dr. Draper Says Salaries Will Attract Men Who Are Unfit.

Andrew S. Draper, State Commissioner of Education, has written a long letter to Assemblyman Foley, Chairman of the Committee on Cities, in which he declares that the educational chapter of the new charter of New York City is "vitally defective, would work great harm, and could not long endure." His letter was made public yesterday by Commissioner Draper.

The greatest objection, in the opinion of Dr. Draper, to the proposed paid Board of Education is that it sinks the schools in the business of the city. It is held to be a misfortune that the school system, which is provided for in the Constitution of the State, can be regulated by city charters. In regard to a paid board Commissioner Draper says:

> Good citizens in plenty are glad to render this service if it is a matter of honor and not a purchased and paid service. And none can doubt that such salaries will attract men without special fitness and who are looking for the compensation, and that in the long run, if not at once, such salaries will be made the reward of party service rather than of educational service. That is necessarily destructive of education and of schools.

Further objections by Dr. Draper are that the new charter reduces the office of City Superintendent to a subordinate position, and limits the appointment of school officers to persons already connected with the city schools. The suggestion is made that the schools of the city might be broken up into a number of administrative units, while keeping the financial control of a single authority. The Charter Committee is advised to await the report of the inquiry now being made for the Board of Estimate into the schools by a prominent educationalist.

WIFE FOUND, HALF-DEMENTED

Husband Meanwhile Had Been Arrested, Under Suspicion of Murder.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILLIPSBURG, N. J., Aug. 7.—Half demented, ill-clad, and hungry, Mrs. Joseph German, who disappeared from her home in Harmony Township a week ago to-day, and was believed to have been murdered, was found to-day wandering in the woods near here. A short time before that her husband had been lodged in jail on suspicion of having murdered her. The woman was found by William Jones, one of the many who had been scouring the woods for her dead body.

Mrs. German said that she fled from home because her husband had been cruel to her and she was afraid he would do other harm to her. German is reported to have been jealous of his wife's attractions. She is 30 years old and handsome. They have a daughter 4 years old.

German said nothing about the disappearance of his wife until yesterday. He told conflicting stories, and Prosecutor Stryker became suspicious and swore out a warrant for his arrest.

SEE THEIR PLAYMATE KILLED.

Truck on Which Children Rode Ran Over Little Martha Bazinsky.

Armed with lunch boxes and a few cents a dozen small East New York boys and girls started yesterday morning to spend the day in Highland Park. They had gone but a little way along Glenmore Avenue when they were passed by a large truck towing a smaller truck behind.

This smaller truck had possibilities, and all raced after it and climbed aboard, all except nine-year-old Martha Bazinsky. There did not seem to be room for her, so she tried to climb on to the forward truck, but slipped and fell under the wheels of the one on which her playmates rode. She was crushed to death.

The others didn't care any more about the picnic, and put all their cents together to buy a floral piece. Martha Bazinsky was an only child, and lived with her mother at 106 Alabama Avenue, East New York.

SILENCED HIS TORMENTOR.

Son of Erin Speechless When Told Cat in a Bag Was for an Irish Stew.

As the last of his duties before leaving for the country on a vacation the father of a family placed the household cat in a bag and started for a feline boarding house. Every one he passed laughed as they heard pussy's lamentations, but the man strode on in determined silence.

At last a befuddled Irishman called after him:

"An' phwat may ye be doin' wit' th' poor cat?"

The harassed man turned on his tormentor and snarled:

"I'm going to make an Irish stew of her."

The Irishman stared in astonishment, with no voice to reply, and the householder reached the cat hostelry with no further molestation.

CHOLERA IS SPREADING.

Marine Hospital Service Report on Italian Conditions So Asserts.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The cholera is spreading in Italy, and has extended to Genoa and Leghorn, according to advices received to-day from Naples by Surgeon General Wyman of the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service.

During the period from July 22 to 28, there were 68 cases of cholera in Naples, with 20 deaths, while in Naples Province there were 148 cases and 74 deaths. Throughout the remainder of Continental Italy there were 180 cases and 51 deaths. In Palermo there were 100 cases, 82 of which were fatal, and in Palermo Province 35 cases, with 35 fatalities. Of 32 cases in the remainder of Sicily 10 were fatal.

BETTER CARE NOW FOR ILL CRIMINAL INSANE

Col. Scott Finds Careless Burial Customs and Lack of Religious Attention at Matteawan.

NO FUNERAL SERVICE HELD

Superintendent Will Try to Have a Permanent Chaplain Appointed—Queer Methods in Court Case.

Special to The New York Times.

FISHKILL LANDING, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Col. Joseph F. Scott, Superintendent of Prisons of New York State, is making a very careful investigation of Matteawan State Hospital before he names the successor to Dr. Lamb as Superintendent. The office is being temporarily filled by Dr. Baker, the Assistant Superintendent.

Col. Scott, through his personal representative, has inquired into the religious instruction and the manner of burial at the institution. John Harrington, a patient at the hospital since its inception in 1892, died last week. He was the oldest patient of the hospital. In 1886 he murdered his wife in New York, and was later declared insane and transferred from one hospital to another.

After his death a discolored eye, which was thought to have been caused by an assault, but was the result of a fall, led to an investigation.

While inquiring into this case Supt. Scott was confronted with the religious customs at the hospital. He ascertained that the State pays each year $200 to the Protestant preachers of the Villages of Matteawan and Fishkill Landing and $200 to the Catholic priests to hold religious services in the chapel of the institution, but that none of the ministers ever visit the patients or are called in in their dying moments.

Col. Scott believes that a preacher should visit some of the patients and talk with them. The Superintendent has also learned that as soon as a patient dies his body is put into a roughly made wooden box, which is loaded on to one of the farm wagons used at the hospital and taken to the Potter's Field for burial without any ceremony.

The Superintendent hopes to have a chaplain appointed from among the local ministers, at a salary of $600 a year, and this chaplain will officiate at burials of inmates, and whenever in life they feel they want to talk with a minister of the Gospel the chaplain will be called.

The Superintendent will also inquire into the methods of asylum officials in court proceedings for the release of inmates. In the case of Myrtle Lapp, in court on Saturday, a return was made that the officials considered her a moral imbecile. The court, considering this as a declaration that the woman ought not to be released, appointed a commission. Dr. Seers, representing Dr. Baker, then told the court the officials had no objection to the release of Miss Lapp if her mother would care for her. The woman was sent here after a bigamous marriage.

Big Entry for Ekwanok Golf.

Special to The New York Times.

MANCHESTER, Vt., Aug. 7.—Amateur golfing interest will centre this week on the Ekwanok links here, where the twelfth annual competition for the first President's Cup will be in progress from Wednesday morning until Saturday night. The Ekwanok Country Club course has long been known as the "centre of Summer golf," and this event is the largest of the several important events held on this course each season. Owing to the large fields for the last two years, it has been necessary to have the qualifying round at eighteen holes instead of thirty-six holes, as in former years. Last year there were 156 entries, and when the names are all in on Tuesday there will probably be a new record. However, it is not so much from the number of entries, but to the quality of the field that the event takes a high place in the season's fixtures. Among those already entered are W. J. Travis, Fred Herreshoff, G. P. Tiffany, G. P. Brokaw, J. M. Ward, G. W. White, Oswald Kirkby, R. H. Hanson, B. W. Corkran, F. W. Kemble, T. M. Claflin, H. K. Kerr, F. A. Martin, S. D. Bowers, M. R. Marston, George H. Barnes, and E. W. Clark, 3d. There are about fifty from the metropolitan district whose metropolitan handicaps are 9 or under.

Smith to Box at Long Range.

One has only to watch Jim Smith at work to be impressed with the importance of the battle between the Bronxite and Langford at the Fairmont Athletic Club to-morrow night. Billy Delaney is one of the expert developers of champions who was agreeably surprised at the improvement shown by Smith. Delaney believes that he has the makings of a champion. Smith is not going to permit Langford to get in close. He fears those short jolts on the chin, which are specialties with the negro. He has mapped out a plan that he believes will win for him. He is going to box at long range, and will be ready with swings if Langford comes too close. "If Langford can survive one of my swings," said Smith, "I will be willing to concede his superiority."

Pickford Brothers Win for St. George.

Brilliant bowling on the part of the Pickford brothers enabled the New York St. George Cricket Club to defeat the Tarrytown eleven at Van Cortlandt Park yesterday by eighteen runs. C. Pickford captured four wickets at a cost of nineteen runs, while E. Pickford took four for seventeen and, in addition, ran up twelve with the bat. T. Doran was the only man on the visiting team to get into the double-figure column. Heyworth, for Tarrytown, did some excellent bowling, and had a record of five wickets for ten runs. The totals were: New York St. George, 66; Tarrytown C. C., 48.

Cubs Get Option on Two Players.

BAY CITY, Mich., Aug. 7.—The Chicago National League management has obtained a five days' option on Pitcher Leroy and Third Baseman Evans of the Bay City South Michigan team. The Boston American management has been negotiating for Evans, but the Cubs have first chance. Leroy is the Indian who recently pitched a no-hit game against Lansing.

Kentucky Racing Dates Undecided.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Aug. 7.—For the second time the Kentucky State Racing Commission failed to-day to meet here to allot dates for the Fall meetings of the Kentucky tracks. The meeting was first scheduled for Saturday, then postponed until to-day. Just when the Commission will consider the dates has not been announced.

PARKWAY'S BIG MEETING.

Horses That Are Eligible in Four Early Closing Purses.

Last Tuesday was the time set for closing entries for the subscribers' meeting at the Parkway track in Brooklyn, and the full card has not yet been made up. The early returns were satisfactory and New Yorkers will have a chance to see some excellent racing when the curtain rises to-day and remains up for the balance of the week.

To accommodate the large number of horses from a distance the adjoining stables at Gravesend track, only a stone's throw distant, have been secured. Already Nat Ray of Toronto, E. D. Hollenbeck, Lynbrook, L. I., and Hugh Milam of Boston have arrived with their candidates. The four early closing purses of $1,000 each are already completed, as the final payment was due July 20. In these the following horses are eligible to start:

Maine Singles Play Started.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 7.—The annual tennis tournament in men's singles for the Maine State championship opened to-day at the Swimming Club with the largest field of entries in many years. The scores:

Charles Adams of Brighton, Mass., defeated E. P. Nevin of New York, 6—1, 6—2; Whitney Wright of Philadelphia defeated H. Baker by default, J. Frazer of Philadelphia defeated Charles Marshall by default, Wendell Kuhn of Pittsburg defeated R. K. Thorndike of Boston, 6—1, 6—2; W. McCormick Blair of Chicago defeated F. Fremont Smith of Washington, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4; S. G. Mortimer defeated Fergus Reid of Norfolk, 6—0, 6—2; Alton Carter of Bar Harbor defeated W. Lewis, 7—5, 6—3. J. T. Bowen, W. F. Coe, L. Hecksher, Harold I. Sewall, Frederick A. Pearson, and D. Blair drew byes.

Athletics at Camp Osgood.

Camp Osgood athletes held a most successful series of sports on the field at Paul Smith's, in the Adirondacks, with some capital performances resulting. Terence Farley acted as referee. The struggle for the point trophy gets closer as each set is decided. H. Schultz is the present leader, with 16¼. The other lads stand as follows: John McCaffrey, 14; James McCaffrey, 9¼; V. Rorke, 7¼, and A. Steen, 5. The summaries:

50-Yard Dash, Handicap, (Open to Camp Osgood.)—Won by H. Schultz, (scratch;) N. Rorke, (7 feet,) second; John McCaffrey, (2 feet,) third. Time—0:06.

75-Yard Dash, Handicap, (Open to Hotel.)—Won by Hadley, (6 feet;) Reilly, (scratch,) second; Kelly, (6 feet,) third. Time—0:09 1-5.

440-Yard Walk, Scratch, (Open to Hotel.)—Won by H. Trendeau; K. Moses, second; H. Reilly, third. Time—1:57 2-5.

50-Yard Sack Race, Scratch, (Open to Camp Osgood.)—Won by Allen Steen; N. Rorke, second; John McCaffrey, third. Time—0:12 2-5.

220-Yard Obstacle Race.—Won by H. Reilly; John McCaffrey, second; James McCaffrey, third. Time—0:54 4-5.

Potato Race, Scratch, (Open to Camp Osgood.)—Won by H. Schultz; John McCaffrey, second; James McCaffrey, third. Time—0:50.

440-Yard Relay.—Won by Camp Osgood, (Rorke, McCaffrey, Schultz, Van Winkle,) scratch; picked team, (Reilly, Marschud, Jones, Hadley,) 25 yards, second. Time—0:48 3-5.

60-Yard Low-Hurdle Exhibition by Harry Hillman. Time—0:07 3-5.

New York Cricketers Defeated.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Canada, Aug. 7.—A signal defeat at the hands of the St. Albans Cricket Club was sustained by the New York Veterans to-day in the first match of their Canadian tour. Remarkable bowling by Wilson, the local trundler, kept the visitors' score below three figures, when there was every indication of the New Yorkers rolling up a big score. His record was six wickets at a cost of sixteen runs, and during the innings he took three wickets with consecutive balls, performing the "hat trick."

The Veterans commenced well, A. Brown and J. D. Keenan getting double figures and S. Deane, with E. B. Reece, putting on over forty runs in partnership for the fourth wicket. After Wilson's advent with the ball, however, only G. W. Hayman offered much resistance, and the entire side was out for ninety-two runs.

Garrett for the Canadians commenced to score rapidly from the start, and his contribution of fifty-three was the best batting of the day. Holt, Shenstone, Bradfield, and Wilson all kept their wickets up in good style, and the total reached was 153, a surplus of 61. A. Hoskings bowled splendidly, and was rewarded by a record of six wickets for forty-five runs.

Winners on the Clay Courts.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 7.—There was not a single upset in the preliminary and first rounds, which were played to-day in the National clay court championship tennis tournament at the Omaha Field Club. Cannon of Kansas City, Sweet of Des Moines, McQuistan of New Orleans, Shelton and H. McQuistan of Texas, Siverd Anderson and Rendell of Pittsburg, Drummond Jones and Hoerr of St. Louis, Hayes and Fisher of Chicago, Whitehead and Winston of Norfolk, Va.; Branson and Barton of South Dakota, and Hadley of Sioux City were among the winners, who go into the second round to-morrow. To-morrow an interesting match in the second round will be that between Drummond Jones and Winston, which will eliminate one of the leading contestants for championship honors. Pittsburg practically has been decided upon for the next clay court tournament.

FIREMEN FIGHT BLAZE IN HOUSE ON STILTS

Jamaica Bay Yacht Club, 500 Feet from Shore, Is Nearly Destroyed.

ALL THE TROPHIES SAVED

Trains on the Long Island Road, B. R. T., and Ocean Line Delayed Two Hours by Hose Lines on Tracks.

The Jamaica Bay Yacht Clubhouse was badly damaged yesterday afternoon by a fire which resisted for two hours the efforts of the firemen and most of that time all trains on the Long Island Railroad's Far Rockaway Branch, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit line, and the Ocean Electric line were stalled by lines of hose stretched across the tracks. The third and part of the second floor of the clubhouse were burned, with a loss of $2,500. Several trophies of value were saved by volunteers, who risked the flames to carry them to the club float.

The fire, which started from an unknown cause, in the third floor, was discovered by persons on the porch of the Bay View Hotel, about 300 feet away. There were only the steward and two waiters in the club, and as they were in the rear of the ground floor, they knew nothing of the fire until the engines drew up on the shore.

A long pier, about seven feet wide, connects the house, which stands on spiles over the water, with the shore, and down this the firemen stretched their hose. It required 1,250 feet of hose to bring two nozzles to play on the blaze, and much delay in fighting the fire was occasioned by the difficulty of connecting the many lengths.

Battalion Chief Lawrence, in command of the firemen, said after the fire, that he had tried, unsuccessfully for some time, persuade the yacht club officers to install standpipes in their buildings, pointing out to them the difficulty which would be encountered in fighting a fire from the shore. He said that only quick work in sending the alarm had prevented a more disastrous blaze.

Many of the costly furnishings of the lower floor of the house were damaged by water. By the time the blaze was out there were more than forty-six cars stalled on the various tracks over which lines of hose were stretched and service on the lines was upset for the rest of he day.

NOTES FOR THE GOLFERS.

Dave Hunter, the Essex County "pro," made the best practice score over the links of the Rumson Country Club yesterday. In preparation for the annual championship of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association, which will start there to-day, Hunter reeled off a 72. The course record is 68, made recently by Herbert Barker, the home "pro." Among those who went over the course yesterday were Gilbert Nicholls of Wilmington, the metropolitan open champion; James Maiden of Nassau, the Eastern title holder; Isaac Mackie of Fox Hills, Jack Hobens of Englewood, President of the association, and James Thomson of Philadelphia.

Four-ball tournaments will claim attention to-day, as the championship proper, consisting of thirty-six holes of medal play, will be run off to-morrow. Although Alec Smith of Wykagyl has entered, he had not been seen at the course up to last night.

Donald Carr, a member of the New York Golf Club, has been playing better than ever this season. On a recent visit to Spring Lake he established a new amateur record for the eighteen-hole course there. The playing length is 6,050 yards and the going in places a trifle rough, as some of the holes are new, yet Carr got a 79, as follows:

Out ....4 4 5 5 3 5 4 5 5—40
In ....3 5 4 4 3 5 5 5 5—39—79

Over Philadelphia way the plea has again been raised for a public golf course. Those who have looked into the matter say Fairmount Park is admirably adapted for the purpose. Some years ago an effort was made to have the city take the matter in hand. The City Council did consider it; pronounced it a "fine idea," and then stopped.

Those who have been opposed to the machine-like game of W. R. Tuckerman are willing to testify to the skill of the Washington expert. It is not generally known that in the private tournament held over the National links a few weeks ago Tuckerman carried off chief honors. Fred Herreshoff, winner there a year ago, led the qualifiers, but the Westbrook amateur lost to Tuckerman in the decisive clash.

One of the most peculiar matches recorded in a long while marked the meeting of Charles W. Evans, Jr., and Mason Phelps in the first round of the Western amateur championship tournament. Evans won the first hole, Phelps the second. They halved the third and Phelps won the fourth. Then followed a string of fourteen consecutive halves, leaving Phelps a winner by 1 up.

Goodwin to Swim in Ten-Mile Race.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 7.—"Bud" Goodwin of New York, according to a letter received to-day, will compete in the fifth annual National A. A. U. ten-mile championship swim in the Mississippi River here on Aug. 19. Goodwin won the race last year by a foot from Michael McDermott of Chicago.

START OLYMPIC FUND.

American Team Needs $50,000 to Pay Its Way to Stockholm Games.

The American Olympic Committee, which has been appointed to select a team from the United States for the Olympic games at Stockholm, Sweden, in 1912, and to collect funds to defray the team's expenses, has sent out a circular letter soliciting subscriptions to the fund. The Amateur Athletic Union has started a fund with a subscription of $1,000, and it is the aim of the committee to raise a fund of $50,000. Col. Robert M. Thompson is the President of the committee, with Julian W. Curtis as Treasurer. The Secretary is James E. Sullivan. The circular letter says:

> This money must be subscribed by public-spirited citizens, who believe in American representation in these games, and also appreciate what it means for the American athletes to show supremacy. Athletic clubs, groups, and colleges are requested to assist the committee in this work. All checks should be made payable to Julian W. Curtis, Treasurer, and sent to his office, 126 Nassau Street, New York. Under no circumstances will the committee employ professional solicitors, nor will they issue a prospectus or programme. Those who have followed the Olympic games since their revival at Athens, Paris, St. Louis, and London appreciate the winning of the American athletes in the track and field events, and their meritorious representation in rifle and revolver shooting, tennis, swimming, and other sports, and in order that this country may maintain its athletic supremacy a strong team must carry the flag.

BURMAN SETS NEW RECORD.

Drives Blitzen Benz Car Mile Over Half-Mile Track in 1:08.

SCRANTON, Penn., Aug. 7.—Bob Burman, driving a 200 horse power Blitzen Benz car, this afternoon established a new record for a mile on a half-mile track, covering the distance in 1 minute 8 seconds, two-fifths of a second better than the record. The world's record on a half-mile track is 1 minute 6 seconds, this time having been accomplished on a circular banked track.

In the half-mile time trials Burman came within one-fifth of a second of equaling the world's record of 34 1-5 seconds, Burman going around the track in 34 2-5 seconds.

Two Matches for W. C. Larned.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 7.—Play in the Wisconsin State tennis tournament to-day was confined to the finish of the preliminaries and a number of first-round matches. The interest of to-day centred chiefly in the play of W. C. Larned, brother of the late title holder, who won matches against Beecher in the preliminaries and Miller in the first round.

FIGHT ENDS IN FIZZLE.

Referee McEvoy Accuses Deshler and Nitchie of Stalling at Brooklyn Beach A. C.

The boxing contest at the Brooklyn Beach Athletic Club last night between Dave Deshler of Boston and Young Nitchie of Philadelphia ended in a fizzle in the seventh round, when Referee Johnny McEvoy left the ring, refusing to officiate, declaring that the boxers were stalling and not doing their best. The big crowd in the club house seemed to have a different idea and wanted the bout to go on. McEvoy stated to the crowd that Deshler was stalling and not trying to box his opponent, although in a speech afterward, the Boston lightweight said he was fighting his best and so did Nitchie.

It was a good bout according to the opinion of the crowd up to the time it was stopped. The fighters and their managers tried to get some one else to referee the last three rounds and Johnny White and others volunteered, but the club officials refused to let the fight go on, backing up the verdict of McEvoy.

The crowd became very much excited and hooted and yelled at the action of the officials. Confusion followed and it was a late hour before the clubhouse was cleared. At the time the bout was stopped in the seventh round, Deshler was having a little the better of the bout.

Both Deshler and Nitchie were willing to continue the fight until the end, but were not allowed to do so.

There was a fast, exciting semi-final between Young Solsberg and Kid Williams of Baltimore. The later proved to be a fast, aggressive fighter and out pointed his men most of the way.

Flynn and Barry in Ring To-night.

There will be a big array of middle weight pugilists at the Twentieth Century Athletic Club to-night when "Porky" Flynn and Jim Barry get to-gether in a ten round engagement. Both Jack O'Brien and Sam Langford, who are to box at the same club next Tuesday night, will be on hand. O'Brien is coming over from his training quarters near Philadelphia this afternoon to establish his camp at Cannon's Road House in the Bronx and Langford will be here to take part in his contest to-morrow night with Jim Smith. The "Tar Baby," will also act as one of Flynn's seconds in this evening's encounter. Several preliminaries have been arranged.

"Knockout" Brown Beats Ferguson.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 7.—"Knockout" Brown of New York got the decision over Joe Ferguson of Philadelphia in a ten-round bout before the Washington Sporting Club here to-night. Brown was the aggressor throughout.

The "Clermont" Is In Commission

A big, new, white boat on the placid Hudson these summer evenings. It's the pleasantest way to reach the Catskills—clean, dustless, quiet.

A twilight under the towering Palisades, a perfect dinner, an evening under the stars and a cool night's sleep.

When you awake you are at the foothills of the mountains.

There is no dust on the "Clermont," no smoke, no noise, no jolts, no crowding.

The "Clermont" is a beautiful new steel steamer, the handsomest boat of its size plying on inland waters.

Big, airy staterooms. Low fares. Perfect cuisine.

Does the public know that the Northern Catskills and the Berkshire Hills can be reached most conveniently by the steamers of the Catskill Evening Lines?

If you wish to make an automobile trip in those delightful sections, take the auto with you on the boat from New York and start the tour from Catskill or Hudson.

Conditions are just as ideal in September or October as they are earlier in the season; in some respects even more attractive.

Catskill Evening Lines

The Yankees didn't beat the Detroits on the Hilltop yesterday, but, jingo! they came near it. What's a ball team to do with a human calamity like Ty Cobb hanging over its head all the time? The Tigers were far behind when the Georgia Peach came to the bat in the seventh inning. Up to that minute it looked like a Yankee victory.

The bases were full, it was a lovely afternoon, 8,000 people held their breath, the peanut and pop bottle boys stood still in their tracks, and the Yankee outfield began to spread out all over New York State. Well, why not, wasn't Cobb at the bat with the bases full?

All of a quick the mezzo-metallic voice of Hughey Jennings broke the silence: "Hit 'er hard, Ty, olboy. Ge' ready, now, everybody score. Let 'er go, Ty, you bad boy."

Cobb's noodle began to work. He outguessed Roy Caldwell right off. You see, most batters don't trouble to hit at the first ball pitched, and Caldwell thought that Cobb would let No. 1 sail by. That's just where Caldwell's guesser went bad. Cobb waved his bludgeon at the snow-white ball. It went like a streak toward the left field fence.

Look at the Bengals run! Just like a race. Stanage, Jones, and Bush began to hot-foot it toward the plate to see who could get there first. They were in close Indian file when they arrived at the scoring pan and Cobb was at second base. There have been clean-ups and clean-ups, but this one polished the bases as clean as a hound's tooth. Then the royal high custodian of the wallop himself scored on Delehanty's single and the game was won. The score was 7 to 6. This way out.

For fonur innings Caldwell pitched the kind of ball that had the Tigers helpless. The big southpaw dipped over wide tangents of many kinds. It looked as if he was going to make the Tigers again taste the Yankee hoodoo. But in the fifth inning he began to crack and Ty Cobb settled his case in the seventh inning. The Yankees smashed Eddie Summers hard in the fourth inning and carried on the good work in the fifth. He settled down in the sixth, but gave way for Schmidt's entry as a pinch hitter in the next inning. Ralph Works finished the game and held the Yankees safe, although he was on the verge of going to pieces more than once.

With plenty of hits and bases on balls, squadrons of Yankees got on the bases. A round dozen of them were stranded on the sacks, which shows that there were a good many lost opportunities, and also shows that there was not a moment when Detroit wasn't in hot water and in danger of being overthrown.

Jones opened the game with a hot grounder, which bounded off Gardner's shins. Bush sacrificed, and up waltzed Cobb. Peals of thunder broke loose when Caldwell struck him out. But Cobb smiled a smile which seemed to say: "You just wait, young fella, I'll show you something." Sam Crawford drove a three-bagger to the right field fence, scoring Jones. Delehanty fanned.

The fourth was a pretty little inning for the Yanks. Knight was safe when Delehanty muffed O'Leary's throw. Hartzell doubled to left, sending Knight to third. Gardner cracked out a two-bagger, scoring Knight and Hartzell. Sweeney sacrificed, and Caldwell fanned. Daniels was passed, and Hemphill pumped a three-bagger to deep centre, scoring Gardner and Daniels.

Moriarty opened the fifth inning with a Texas leaguer. O'Leary sacrificed. Stanage tripled to right, scoring Moriarty. Stanage went home on a single off the bat of Somers. In the same inning, the Yanks gathered two more. Cree shot a swift liner to centre, which bounded out of Cobb's reach, and went for three bases. He scored on Knight's single. Hartzell sacrificed, and Gardner sent Knight home with a single through second.

The seventh inning is somewhat distressing. Stanage walked for a starter, and Schmidt, batting in place of Summers, skied to Hartzell. Jones singled to centre, and Bush walked, filling the bases. Cobb's ripping liner to the left field fence cleared the bases, and Delehanty's single to left scored Cobb.

The Yankees had a chance in the ninth inning that glittered with golden possibilities. Knight singled to centre and Hartzell filed to O'Leary. Wolter batted for Gardner and singled to centre. Otis Johnson was pushed in to bat for Sweeney, but the best he could do was to strike out. Caldwell was called upon to win his own game, but he grounded to Bush, who tossed to O'Leary, and forced Wolter. It was a close decision and Silk gave Wolter the sad end of it.

TIGERS FEAST IN OUR YARD.

With two games to-day, Cobb will have twice as many chances as he did yesterday. Please omit flowers.

The Tigers are scrapping every minute. They have all caught Jennings's contagious conversation, and are chattering like a flock of parrots all the time.

When the Yankees were pounding Summers all over the lot, his teammates gave him encouragement enough to make him think that he was pitching the game of his life.

Mr. Subway's ten-car trains had a poor batting average yesterday. Consequently a good many missed the first inning. Looks like a good chance for heavy damages.

Hartzell missed a three-bagger by about half an inch in the ninth inning, when he shot a long smash to left which dug up the whitewash along the foul line.

By a long running broad jump Cobb beat out Jack Knight's throw in the sixth inning, and got a hit on a grounder which would have meant anybody else's death at first base by ten feet.

The Yankees passed the White Sox yesterday. Not because they were defeated, however, but because the Sox were trimmed twice.

John I. Taylor of the Boston team was on the Hilltop. He's trying to make some trades with Detroit. A trade by Taylor usually means the loss of a star player. Harry Lord and Harry Wolter are among the men he didn't want.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Washington and St. Louis broke even in to-day's double-header, the locals winning the first game, 1 to 0, while the second went to the visitors, 13 to 6. Groom allowed only two hits in the first game, one a scratch. Gray was driven from the mound in the second inning of the second game. Cashion, who relieved him, was very wild. The hitting of Laporte featured both contests. Scores:

Athletics Win Long Games.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—Philadelphia today defeated Chicago in two games of fourteen and ten innings, the scores being 2 to 1 and 3 to 2. The first game was a pitching duel between Scott and Bender. Neither team scored for twelve innings, during which Chicago got only one runner as far as second base. In the thirteenth inning J. Collins tripled and scored on Tannehill's single. Philadelphia tied the score on four balls to Hartsel, who batted for Bender, and B. Lord's triple. Danforth, the Texas "southpaw," held Chicago to one hit in the fourteenth session. Murphy scored the winning run on his single, McInnes's sacrifice, an out, and Thomas's single. In his last four games at home Bender pitched thirty-eight consecutive innings without giving a base on balls, and thirty-four straight innings without being scored upon.

The second contest was also a battle between twirlers, Morgan and Walsh opposing each other. With two out in the third inning Philadelphia scored on Strunk's single, Tannehill's error, and E. Collins's single. Chicago got two runs in the seventh session on Morgan's fumble, J. Collins's triple, and Tannehill's sacrifice fly, while Livingstone scored for the home team on his single and errors by McIntyre and J. Collins. Strunk scored the winning run in the tenth inning on his triple and E. Collins's drive over Callahan's head. The scores:

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 7.—It is coming to the time when the challengers in the National League race must extend themselves, and that is what the Cubs did today on the West Side, when they defeated the Giants in a sensational game by the score of 8 to 6. The Cubs beat "Big Six" Mathewson, who did not have a look-in from the beginning to the end. Mordecai Brown, pitching rather inferior baseball, grabbed off the contest, and looked like a world beater alongside the hurling efforts of the mighty Christie.

And it was baseball from the very beginning to the very end of the great contest. There was hitting galore, baseball of the "fifty-seven" varieties, and wonderful fielding efforts tumbling over each other from the first inning until the Giants were retired in the ninth.

There was no difficulty in deciding who won the game for the Cubs. Even a novice could have discerned this fact. It was Tinker all the way. Josephus Tinker went to bat four times. He made four hits. They were cut as follows: Two singles, a double, and a triple. Also, he stole home. Tinker played the most wonderful game at short seen at the West Side Park in a long time. It was Joe's first appearance since the suspension inflicted upon him for "listless and lifeless" playing was raised.

Brown started away badly, hitting Devore in the head and putting him completely out. Murray went in the game for him. Then Doyle was passed and Snodgrass was safe on Doyle's "boot." Becker sent a fly to short left that Sheckard nabbed and held the runners on the bases. Merkle's hit to short would have been a sure out at the plate, but Tinker took a chance on a double play, and Snodgrass and Merkle were retired in a fast play.

With this backing Brown went on for three innings without a run against him. In the meantime the Cubs scored one run. In the second Tinker started away with a hit with one out, and went to second when Murray fumbled the ball, and scored on Saier's double to right.

In the fourth inning the Giants tied the score. Becker's single to right eluded Schulte, and the runner went to third. Merkle went out, second to first, but Herzog singled to right, scoring Becker. Fletcher hit to right, but Meyers butted into a double play.

The Cubs marked up two more runs in the fourth inning. Zimmerman tripled to deep left. He was held while Doyle was put out at first base, but Tinker, up again, nicked "Big Six" for his second hit, Zimmerman scoring. Saier was out to Merkle and Hofman singled to left, scoring Tinker. Two more runs for the Cubs in the sixth inning advanced the total to five runs. Zimmerman was safe on Fletcher's mess of a hard drive. Jimmy Doyle flew out to Becker. Then came the pestiferous Tinker again. This time it was a triple to deep right field, which Becker, who had been switched into Murray's place, misjudged, and Zimmerman scored. While Mathewson was winding up for a pitch Joe stole home.

The Giants added one run in the seventh inning. Fletcher singled and Meyers walked. On Larry Doyle's single Fletcher scored, but Murray was nipped at the plate. Then the Giants began to look dangerous, and in the eighth inning added two more runs and set the score at the 5 to 4 mark, and it looked as though they might win. Snodgrass singled and Becker walked. On a close decision Merkle was safe at first and the bases were filled. Herzog singled to left, scoring Snodgrass and Becker. Merkle was caught at third for the initial out. Meyers and Mathewson were easy outs. The Cubs made it safe in their half of the same inning by scoring three more runs. Archer walked and went to second on Zimmerman's hit to centre. In an attempted sacrifice Jimmy Doyle was safe at first base when Mathewson threw late to get Archer at third. Tinker came through with his fourth hit, a double to left, and Archer and Zimmerman scored. Saier struck out, but Hofman hit to Mathewson, on which Doyle endeavored to score. He dodged back and reached the base. Tinker started back to second, but Meyers made the play to get Hofman, who had taken a long lead off first base. Hofman slid in safely, and Merkle threw to the plate to catch Doyle, but Meyers hardly reached the plate in time, and the ball rolled to the stand.

The Giants counted two more in the ninth inning by heavy hitting. Murray tripled and scored on Snodgrass's single to centre. Snodgrass scored on Becker's double, but that was all.

Chalmers's Wildness Costs Game.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 7.—Pittsburg to-day defeated Philadelphia, 2 to 1, in a close game. Chalmers allowed only three hits, but gave six bases on balls, two of which developed into runs. Both were scored by Carey. Adams was strong from start to finish. Score:

Rochester Gets Enough Runs in First Inning to Defeat Jersey City.

Jersey City was beaten at home yesterday, 3 to 1, by Rochester. The Skeeters have won only one game this season from the Eastern League champions. Rochester gathered its runs in the first inning, when they pounded Kissinger for two singles and two doubles and sent him to the bench. Jersey City made its run on two singles and Foster's error, a bad throw to first that let Deininger in. They play a double-header to-day. The score:

Newark Loses Two to Toronto.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ontario, Aug. 7.—With two batsmen out in the thirteenth inning, O'Hara tripled and scored when McGinnity threw wild when passing Delehanty, bringing over the winning run and enabling the Leafs to carry off both ends of to-day's double-header. Both were pitchers' battles. Tesreau and Holmes were the twirlers in the former, but the Leaf pitcher struck out eleven men and held the Indians to five scattered hits. O'Hara's five hits in the second game was the batting feature. The Indians fielded to perfection in the second, scoring four double plays. The scores:

EDWARDS STAKE FOR VERNON M'KINNEY

Cleveland Grand Circuit Opening Feature Won by the Favorite of the Field.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 7.—The opening of the Grand Circuit races at North Randall track to-day was marred through the inability of Uhlan, the champion gelding owned by C. K. G. Billings of New York, to make his schedule attempt to break the world's trotting record to wagon of two minutes flat made by Lou Dillon at Memphis, Tenn., on Oct. 28, 1903. Light showers that fell during the afternoon, combined with a stiff breeze that swept up the stretch, caused a postponement of the trial. It will be made tomorrow if the track is in condition.

The big crowd of racing patrons on hand saw some fine sport notwithstanding the rain. The 2:12 pace for the Edwards stake of $3,000 produced very fast time considering the condition of the track which had not wholly recovered from a heavy rain Sunday. Vernon McKinney, winner of the Chamber of Commerce stake at Detroit, last week, was favorite and fulfilled expectations by capturing the event. He broke badly in the first heat, finishing fifth, but came back strong in the succeeding heats, and won easily. Branham Baughman, expected to give him a hard tussle, acted badly and finished outside the money.

Three preliminaries were trotted for the Tavern "steak" race, which will be held Friday. In the first preliminary, Argot Hal had an easy time, taking the event in two straight heats, but in the second preliminary, Baron Alcyone, the favorite, disappointed by breaking in the second heat, after winning the first handily. He was distanced. Electric Todd won out after a struggle with Mattie Allerton.

In the third preliminary all entrants were distanced except Robert Milroi, Morning Light, and Belle Tollus. The first named took the event in straight heats, thereby getting first and fourth money. Morning Light and Belle Tollus divided second and third moneys, the former finishing third in the first heat and second in the second, and Belle Tollus finishing second in the first heat and third in the second.

Winners of first and second money in the first and second preliminaries and all the winners in the third preliminary will take part in the stake event Friday, it was announced.

Bookmaking went on in the betting sheds without molestation. So far there has been no indication that an attempt will be made to interfere with betting on the races. The summaries:

BARTOW S. WEEKS TO ACCEPT

New Boxing Commission Will Elect Chairman and Secretary This Week.

It is generally expected in boxing circles that the commission recently named by Gov. Dix to control the sport in New York will during the present week elect a Chairman, name a Secretary, and proceed at once to act on the applications of several local clubs for licenses, and also take up several other important matters relating to the game in this State. The delay to date has been occasioned to some extent by the inability of Bartow S. Weeks, one of the three Commissioners named by the Governor, to decide whether or not business would permit him to act on the commission.

It was stated yesterday that Mr. Weeks would accept. He has not yet come out with a definite statement to this effect, but a prominent sporting man yesterday stated that it now seemed a certainty that Mr. Weeks would serve. That he would like to serve was apparent from the fact that he did not decline the appointment on early consideration, and later events have served to make him look with more favor on the proposition. The news of his acceptance will be joyfully received in sporting circles, as it is generally admitted that men of the Weeks stamp are needed on the commission. The other two appointees, Major John J. Dixon of Brooklyn and Frank O'Neil of Binghamton, are willing to serve.

The commission will have plenty to do besides granting aplications to clubs wishing to conduct boxing bouts. The question of referees giving decisions, a point which is not mentioned in the Frawley bill, will have to be taken up, and whatever decision the commission makes in this regard will be the rule under the new law. For the most part, the sentiment of prominent sporting men seems to be that no decisions should be given, as is the case now. Decisions by a referee would encourage betting, and possibly lead to scandal and ugly rumors, which would inevitably hurt the game.

Two other matters that will undoubtedly be taken up by the new commission will be the appointment of referees and timekeepers and a ruling distinctly stating the obligation of clubs to those who pay to see their shows.

It is practically assured that Charles J. Harvey will be the Secretary of the new commission. He has been the strongest candidate for the position since the bill was first mentioned, and practically all the other candidates have now withdrawn. Harvey has the backing of Senator Frawley, who introduced the bill, and of many men prominent in sporting circles.

POLO PLAYER INJURED.

Henry W. Harrison of Philadelphia Breaks Collar Bone in Spill.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 7.—While playing a practice game of polo on the new polo field of the Point Judith Polo Club, Henry W. Harrison of the Bryn Mawr polo team of Devon, Penn., and a well-known member of the Summer colony at Narragansett, was seriously injured this afternoon, and taken from the grounds to the Hotel Imperial, where the poloist and Mrs. Harrison are staying.

A practice game had been arranged for the afternoon between the Greens and Whites, and during the height of a scrimmage Mr. Harrison's pony collided with Alexander Brown's pony, and Mr. Harrison was thrown to the ground and rendered unconscious.

Mr. Harrison regained consciousness this evening. He had sustained a broken collar bone and several bruises. A Boston surgeon has been summoned by telegraph, and will arrive here to-night to attend the injured polo player.

POLO CUPS FOR DEDHAM II.

Aiken Four Beaten in Final Match—Atlantic Cups Match.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 7.—The final match for the Overture Cups in the National polo tournament attracted a large number of polo enthusiasts this afternoon to the grounds of the Point Judith Polo Club. The rival teams were Aiken of South Carolina and Dedham II. The match was closely contested from start to finish. By handicap, the Aiken team received six goals. Dedham II. won the match and cups by a score of 12 to 7½.

The next event was the opening match in the series for the Atlantic Cups between Cooperstown and Philadelphia C. C. Freebooters. The Philadelphia team received by handicap an allowance of nine goals. Cooperstown won by a score of 15 to 10. The line-ups:

Middleweights at Brown's.

To-night at Brown's Gymnasium two of the best middleweights that have been seen in this city in some time will appear in the star bout. Billy West, the east side champion, who has fought scores of battles in this city, will box Barney Williams, the Philadelphia champion, who recently gave Frank Mantell the battle of his life at this club. Frank Mantell, George Bush, and Tim Sullivan of Boston have agreed to box the winner of this contest. Owing to an injury to Reynolds Bill Brown has engaged Battling Larry Tyan to box Bull Anderson in the semi-final.

THE POWER OF THE SENATE.

What provision is made in the treaty of general arbitration with Great Britain for the exercise of the power of advice and consent conferred on the Senate by the Constitution? The question is grave, since on the answer to it depends the strength of the opposition to the treaty in the Senate. While there is not the clear and explicit reply to this question in the language of the treaty which might be desired, we think an examination and analysis of its provisions will show that the power of the Senate is respected and can be exercised with effect.

In the first place, the treaty provides for the submission to the Permanent Court of Arbitration at The Hague, or to some other arbitral tribunal, of all differences "which are justiciable in their nature by reason of being susceptible of decision by the application of the principles of law or equity." Here there is room for two questions: (1) What differences are so "justiciable"? (2) To what tribunal, The Hague or to one specially created, shall they be referred? A justiciable difference, as Mr. Knox defines it, is one "susceptible of being decided by the application of the principles of law and equity," as distinguished from a difference involving questions of policy and diplomacy. This question of creating a special tribunal is to be decided by special agreement, which is to be submitted to the Senate. If the Senate decides against The Hague Court and in favor of another tribunal, the agreement must "define the scope of the powers of the arbitrators, the question or questions at issue, and the terms of reference." Thus, practically, the Senate has a voice, and a decisive voice, in each case as to what questions shall or shall not be referred to arbitration.

It may be thought that this power is impaired by the provision for a Joint High Commission of Inquiry, but we think that a careful examination of the functions of this Commission will not sustain this view. The powers of inquiry of this Commission are large, and in any case if the Commission decide by a vote of all, or all but one, of its members, that a difference referred to it "is within the scope of Article I., it shall be referred to arbitration"—but arbitration in what way? The answer is "in accordance with the provisions of this treaty." Now, the provisions of this treaty, as already cited, require that cases of difference which it is proposed to arbitrate shall go to The Hague or to a special tribunal, "as may be decided in each case by a special agreement," which agreement must be submitted to the Senate. The interposition of the High Commission of Inquiry insures reasonable delay, careful examination of facts, claims, and principles, and the opinion of the Commissioners as to whether arbitration is desirable or feasible. But after these are secured there must be a special agreement, and on that the Senate must act. We are convinced that the power of the Senate is fully safeguarded.

It is well that it should be. As we argued last May, when the outline of the treaty was published, it is expedient that the Senate should have the opportunity to act, first, because objections strong enough to command more than one-third of the Senators should for the time be respected, and, second, because the very power to prevent arbitration will be likely to cause Senators to feel a responsibility which they will not lightly disregard. Finally, every case of arbitration under these conditions, with the requisite consent and advice of two-thirds of the Senate, will definitely strengthen the lengthening line of precedents. And what we gain will all the more securely be held.

WHY TRUSTS ARE BAD.

The Journal of Commerce has found a most uncommercial reason why trusts are bad. It is because producers combine with producers, and sellers combine with sellers. The result is that such combinations leave the consumers at the mercies of their enemies, because it is more difficult for the consumers to combine. The ethical and less commercial manner of combining into good trusts > is between producers and sellers on one side and buyers and consumers on the other for their mutual benefit. The same persons become producers and consumers, sellers and buyers, and have no object in getting advantage over each other, but seek the benefit of efficiency and economy for all concerned.

The trouble with that is that traders make money out of their friends, and not out of their enemies. Friends trade with friends over and over again, so long as profit results. Your enemy will not trade with you even once, unless there is a certainty of loss to you. It is a counsel of perfection to bid enemies to combine. A combination of buyers and sellers to eliminate profit and loss, the profit of the one being the loss of the other, is too unworldly a proceeding for this sophisticated generation.

A combination of producers to increase profits by reducing costs is intelligible. A combination of consumers to reduce costs by checking excessive profits of producers is also intelligible. But a combination of producers and consumers is a mixture of incongruous elements. There is nothing immoral about a combination unless it commits immoral acts. A commercial combination for the encouragement of ethics may be admirable, but it is not business. It is time to judge trusts as men are judged, by their acts. No trust whose acts are good is a bad trust except in theory. No trust, even if constructed on the theory under discussion, is a good trust if its acts are bad. It is time to bring the trust question down to earth, and praise or condemn them on worldly considerations, leaving denunciation of theoretically good and bad alike to the pulpit and the stump.

HONDURAS AND NICARAGUA.

The Senate has shown the proper spirit in making public the text of the proposed new treaties with Honduras and Nicaragua and the messages of the President stating his reasons for believing they should be ratified. Communications of this sort from the Executive to the Senate are generally withheld, and there has been much deliberation among the members of the Foreign Relations Committee as to the advisability of departing from the usual course in this case. The State Department has urged the publication of the essential parts of the messages from the beginning, while the opponents of the treaties, whose only comprehensible objection to them is that their ratification is desired by "Wall Street," have been demanding that they be made public. Mr. Taft's two messages set forth clearly and completely the purpose of the United States in making the treaties, and should disarm the opposition. The cry of "dollar diplomacy," however, is not likely to be silenced. The phrase sounds well, though it sometimes means one thing and sometimes another. It is not likely now to be effective in preventing the ratification of the treaties with our weaker sister republics.

The President sets forth the situation in one sentence of his message accompanying the Nicaraguan treaty, dated June 7:

> Better by far is this beneficial and constructive policy in the neighborhood of the Caribbean Sea, the Panama Canal, and the Central American republics, based as it is on the logic of our geographical position, the development of our commerce in the immediate neighborhood of our shores, our moral responsibilities due to a long-standing policy in the region mentioned, than it is with listless indifference to view unconcernedly the whole region in fomentations of turbulence, irresponsibility, contracting debts that by their own exertions they would never be able to discharge, or to be required, as in several instances in the past, to land our armed forces for the protection of American citizens and their interests from violence and for the enforcement of the humane provisions of international law, for the observance of which in the region concerned this Government, whether rightfully or wrongfully, is held responsible by the world.

A long sentence, to be sure, but perfectly coherent and exactly to the point.

The two conventions provide for loans to the two Governments, to be secured by bond issues, the interest on which will be taken from the customs receipts of Honduras and Nicaragua under the supervision of our Government. The debt is not otherwise guaranteed. The money will be applied to the cancellation of the foreign debts of the Central American republics. It will restore them to a solvent state, encourage business investments, and serve also as a guarantee of peace. If revolutionists cannot seize the Custom Houses there will be no Latin-American revolutions. The political condition of both Honduras and Ncaragua is now relatively good; it will greatly improve when the treaties are ratified. This action will hardly be taken in the present extra session, but it cannot be long delayed after the regular session begins next Winter.

A RECKLESS SUBWAY POLICY.

Mr. Rea, Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railway, speaks regarding subways with all the authority which results from intimate and practical acquaintance with the subject. There is good reason why some heed should be paid to what he has to say regarding the unfortunate direction which the city's subway policy has taken. His conclusion is that "an attempt has been made to provide for subway building without regard to their profitable operation." His argument is that money should not be spent in this manner "until the city is assured that the lines will have a reasonable chance of being profitable, and an operator is secured to operate the same at his own risk, and not at the city's expense." Notoriously all these things are so.

The city is building a subway in order to punish the Interborough, and limit its profits as a primary purpose. Nobody has suggested that the route, or the method providing it, is the best possible, or would be considered for a moment except for purposes of punishment and personal politics. If this were justifiable, the manner of doing it is indefensible. The assumption is that the city's inexhaustible taxing power will remedy deficiencies of plan, although there are certain indications that the deficiencies of the plan may embarrass even the city's finances.

In the first place, the city's resources will be absorbed for a generation by the exclusion of private capital from doing the work and profiting by it. In the second place, the time required will be greatly lengthened in this manner of procedure, and the loss by delay in subway construction is as great as the cost of the subway. Thirdly, the measure of the profits is the measure of the utility of the subway, and the estimates show an operating loss for the subway for fifteen years to come. Within that time Mr. Rea calculates that the new subway will have accumulated a debt of $40,000,000 to be borne by the taxpayers and citizens generally. While the operating losses have been calculated, there has been no estimate made "when, in addition to these losses, the accumulated interest charges on the capital invested will be met, nor have they definitely shown the accumulated burden which the taxpayers and other citizens must pay for at least a period of thirty or more years." The proof of these things is twofold. One company has definitely refused any contract on the terms demanded, and another company has refused except on condition that the city consents to accept the return of its advances after the demands of private capital have been met. Mr. Rea asks the pointed question, "What company could decline a proposition which offered a preferential payment, and left the city and its taxpayers to shoulder such deficits?"

The route now being constructed has been declined as a venture at the contractor's risk, and the city rejected a proposition to construct a route which would have met Mr. Rea's criticisms at the contractor's risk. The city takes the long risk in order to make impossible the contractor's long profits. Yet those profits would have cost the city nothing, but would have put money in the city's pocket. There would be no possible chance of the contractor making the obnoxious profits unless he benefited the city in a proportionate manner. The fact that the city faces a loss for a generation, whatever the result on a longer view, is proof of how completely private profit has been eliminated.

The situation bristles with doubts—legal, practical, and ethical—and all of them are dodged. The place for beginning work is selected because less doubt exists regarding those sections than others, and the sections where doubt is greatest are avoided. There are indispensable links of routes as yet unauthorized, and it has been authoritatively announced that those links would not be authorized. It is impossible to abandon those links and execute the plans, yet the official authority is not sought. Instead it is sought to commit the city by expenditures so large that consideration of the points raised by Mr. Rea cannot be had. The authorities are resolved that nobody shall prevent their committing the city beyond rescue from a measure which even they admit is the costliest of all, and not the best even in their consideration. If it were a question of providing the best transit system, the expense might not be grudged, but to persist in providing the worst at greater expense than a better system, for reasons merely of malice, is to confront the city with an unnecessary calamity.

Mr. Rea calls upon all public-spirited citizens to rise in protest. It would seem that the appeal might be heard in the first place by the contractors who are proceeding under the idea that they will spend the city's money. If the city's money should fail to be forthcoming—as might be the case if any of the disputable points which the city is seeking to dodge should be raised—the contractors would be more embarrassed than the city. In the injunction proceedings yesterday the counsel for the contractors said they wanted to know where they stood. Naturally. And the Justice said that the people also want to know where they stand before they put money into it. Private capital would not lift a finger under such conditions. No more should public capital in a matter which is essentially one of business judgment, and not of government at all.

THE BAGGAGE SMASHING SEASON.

If Congress had not already on hand so many investigations of other matters, it might appoint a committee to cast a dragnet for evidence of a combination between the trunk manufacturers and the baggage smashers. The evidence might be difficult to find. We are not sure that such a combination exists. But when the brand-new trunk of May or June is transformed by October into a battered, unhinged, unserviceable box, it is clear that the trunk makers must thrive. One may cross the Atlantic and travel all over Europe year after year with a fairly good trunk which will be practically as good as new at the end of one's travels, if the owner does not foolishly disfigure it with hotel labels. But a single Summer trip to a New England coast resort or the Adirondacks will serve to convert an expensive new trunk into an unsightly object.

The baggage smasher knows nothing of scientific efficiency. The trunk might be taken from the wagon and deposited on pier or platform, easily, in two motions by two men. But one of them lifts and hauls it, with many superfluous motions, and precipitates it on the pier, while the other takes a hitch in his trousers belt or lights his pipe. The trunk may fall four or five feet. If it lands on a corner it may be broken, but that does not disturb the smasher's complacency. He likes best, however, to have it fall bottom up with a great noise. He enjoys the fall of a pile of trunks in hopeless confusion. He is a child of Nature, the baggage smasher, who takes pleasure in a struggle. And in all his struggles he and the trunk resemble the toreador and the bull; neither the trunk nor the bull has a chance for its life.

To be sure trunk handling is hard work, and the trunk handlers have long hours and little rest. But the people who own the trunks pay huge prices for the work done for them, and are not responsible if so little of the money reaches the men who smash their property. The baggage handlers we have most distinctly in mind, now, are not those employed in great city terminals. They, perforce, work with system. The vigorous, noble-hearted rustics are the ones that do most damage to our trunks. They bear no marks of ill-treatment, either. They have the aloofness, the arrogance of demeanor, commonly associated with persons of great wealth.

As for the remedy, clearly there is none. Make up your mind that last Spring's new trunk will have lost its contour and its beauty if not its usefulness before Autumn tinges the leaves. All trunks suffer, even those heavily banded with iron, but the handsomer the trunk the worse its fate.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Little Like a Lynching.

There would be some difficulty, perhaps, in pointing out what article and section of what statute gave the Rev. H. D. Garland of Union Hill, N. J., a legal right to pummel, as long and as hard as he did, the young man who tried to pick his pocket while the two were riding in a street car.

Of course, having caught his fellow-passenger in the very act of felonious abstraction, it was not only the right of the reverend gentleman, but it was also his duty, since he had the requisite amount of strength and understood the use thereof, to seize the thief and either himself take the fellow to a police station or to turn him over, on charges duly made, to the first policeman who appeared on the scene. Also, of course, in fulfilling this high civic obligation, Mr. Garland was fully justified in the employment of such force as was required for reducing his prisoner to submission and keeping him in that condition.

What will worry some pernickety people just a bit is the fact that the militant parson kept up the pummeling after resistance had ceased, and that his prisoner, instead of being taken off his hands, was rescued from them. The pernickety people will say that Mr. Garland not only arrested the reasonably suspected man, but he tried, convicted, and punished him in a summary and unassisted manner—which is, in effect, lynching, a practice always to be condemned, and rather worse in a preacher than in anybody else.

Well, this criticism and this definition are correct enough, but people not pernickety will nevertheless get great comfort out of this stirring episode, will rejoice over Mr. Garland's demonstration that he, at least, though a clergyman, is male, not epicene, and will hope that he may find emulators sufficiently numerous thoroughly to discourage pocketpicking. They wouldn't have to be many, for the pickpocket is a cowardly reptile, else would he have adopted one of his profession's nobler branches, like burglary or safe cracking. For those, however, he has not the courage, and he resorts to the only form of thievery that is almost safe unless it meet instant punishment. Disgrace he cannot feel, but fists he can, and therefore, though we don't approve of lynching in any of its varieties, we extend to the Rev. H. D. Garland of Union Hill, N. J., the sympathy which is complicity, and congratulations which are no less hearty because we can see looming the possibility of abuses in the discretion he exercised.

Looks Much Like Open War.

That of all strikes, those of street railway employes are more likely to lead to violence, and to do it more quickly, than any other, is the lesson of experience, that overestimated but still fairly trustworthy teacher. As a matter of fact, every one of them that can be recalled has resulted in riots marked by murderous assaults and the destruction of property. This peculiarity is easily enough explicable, for though motormen and conductors can properly call themselves skilled labor, their skill takes little time to acquire and their work can be done, after a fashion, by almost everybody. Hence they can strike with hardly a chance of success unless they are ready to prevent the running of their abandoned cars in the only way it can be prevented. And prevent it they always do, for a longer or shorter time, according to the temper of the local authorities and police, and with a more or less intelligent adjustment between the amount of violence used and the state of public sentiment and the reasonableness of their demands.

Rarely, if ever, however, have street car strikers announced this policy as frankly or followed it as openly as have the employes of the Coney Island and Brooklyn Railway Company. Usually, if not always, before, their leaders have been careful, in utterances for publication, to "deprecate violence," and to place responsibility for it all on uncontrollable sympathizers. In this case there have been no such pretenses. From the windows of the strike headquarters cars have been fiercely bombarded, and to and from that building rioters have gone without any attempt at concealment. Mr. Patrick Shea, the head of the movement, bases his declared assurance of victory on the improbability that the company can long hold out against such daily losses as the mobs are inflicting upon it—and, by implication, will inflict on it till the demands of the strikers are granted.

This may be magnificent, and it certainly is war, but one may well doubt if it be safe or politic. The old pretenses deceived nobody, but at least they showed a realizing sense of the fact that lawlessness and disorder are theoretically reprehensible—are disliked by a good many people—and they made negotiations between the belligerents compatible with common decency and the self-respect of both, even while the rioting was still in progress. For, nominally, the negotiations were not with the rioters, whom all, in varying degrees of sincerity, united in condemning. The Brooklyn strikers have made this, if not impossible, extremely hard, and therein they would seem to have been unwise.

Old Bows and New Compared.

That the Columbia, while going at something like eight knots an hour, could ram an iceberg with all the momentum of her immense weight and escape with such trifling injury as she suffered speaks extremely well for those who made her and goes far toward justifying, if it does not fully justify, the new order of marine architecture to which she, and practically all steamers built in the last twenty years, belong.

Still, had the Columbia possessed the far-projecting bow that steamers had before the builders fully realized that steamers are not sailing ships, the danger of injury below the water line would have been considerably diminished, as the shock of the collision, instead of being instant, would have been spread over a second or two, which makes a big difference.

But in collisions with icebergs bows do not count for as much as bulkheads, transverse and longitudinal. The sea came into the Columbia, but it did not come far or do any great harm, for the bulkhead stood the pressure brought to bear on it. So the ugly vertical bow, if not vindicated, at least was not condemned, and the marine architects will stick to it because it gives hold space at sea and doesn't cause inconvenience in dock.

STATEN ISLAND'S RELICS.

A Virginian Criticises Our Carelessness of Billopp Mansion.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many Northerners delight in telling Southerners of their slowness. We who live below the Mason and Dixon line are taken to task on account of our carelessness. It is true that much may be done in order to improve our condition, but a recent sight within the bounds of New York State has given me an opportunity to call your attention to an inexcusable neglect on the part of those interested in the preservation of Colonial homes.

Yesterday I had occasion to visit Tottenville, on Staten Island. This village is now within the limits of Greater New York, although its peaceful surroundings suggest only rural pursuits. While on the outskirts of this town it is difficult to realize how near one is to the hurry and congestion of Manhattan.

Let us leave the present and turn back the pages of history. Up to the year 1668 it was a disputed question whether Staten Island belonged to New York or New Jersey. The Duke of York, tired of continual disturbance over this matter, decided that the island would belong to New York if it could be circumnavigated in twenty-four hours; otherwise the land would become a part of New Jersey. A small steamer took me around the island yesterday in somewhat more than four hours, actual time of travel, but, during Colonial days, the trip was an undertaking of considerable size.

Capt. Christopher Billopp successfully circumnavigated Staten Island within the period set by the Duke of York, and received for his services a tract of land containing 1,163 acres, on which he built the Manor of Bentley. The old Billopp House, as it is now known, stands on an eminence overlooking Raritan Bay. The cement used came from England and the bricks from Belgium. To see this Colonial structure in a state of decay does not impress a stranger with the up-to-dateness of New York's historical associations.

Do the societies of the Empire State realize that they are neglecting the memory of a man who prevented the possible transfer of Staten Island to New Jersey? They surely have overlooked the treasure (from the standpoint of American history) of a house about 240 years old. The Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities would mark such a structure, if it were found, perchance, in the Old Dominion, and the ladies of the organization would exert their loving care to see that the surrounding land was beautified. With the admirable location, near Raritan Bay, a landscape gardener can do much, and when Greater New York builds down to Tottenville, the spot should have been amply secured against encroachment, and future generations would be able to look upon a memorial of the time when Indians were yet upon the scene of the daily life of the settlers.

Defends Combination Fire Engine.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your issue of July 25 states that the fire engine of the type already in use will not be duplicated, for the reason that it has been found that steam and gasoline combination does not work.

During ex-Fire Commissioner Waldo's term of office he conceived the idea of converting the horse-drawn steam fire engine into motor propelled. Under suggestions from him we designed the motor attachment which is now in use on Engine 58. The original weight of this horse-drawn engine was about 9,000 pounds; changing it to a motor engine increased the weight to over 15,000 pounds. This motor-propelling device cost the company over $20,000 to perfect, being the first one ever constructed. We delivered it to New York City for $4,500. Commissioner Waldo understood that the rear axle, springs, and the four wheels and the rubber tires would have to be replaced with heavier construction so as to carry the increased weight of the motor attachment and to withstand the difference in speed.

There have been some repairs since this engine was placed in service, and it is natural to expect that there will be repairs necessary on fire apparatus of any construction. Since this engine was placed in service, March 20, it has responded to over 275 alarms and traveled a distance of about 400 miles.

Commissioner Johnson is not favorable to this class of construction, and he has a right to his own opinion, the same as in his religion or politics, but that fact does not necessarily mean that the design is not a success. The records of this engine compared with any other class of apparatus in the New York Department proves that it is a success.

IN THE CLOAKROOM.

When Greek Meets Greek.

Man from Athens, ere I start,
From more cash I will not part!
Largely I've been dispossessed,
But intend to keep the rest!
Hear me vow, before I go,
Not one stiver do I owe.

By your language unconfined,
Quaint, but piquant to my mind;
By those words, that on the fringe
Of the blasphemous impinge;
By your mutterings fierce and low,
You may your displeasure show.

I assure you, in my sight,
You are but a parasite!
If you try on any tricks,
There will be some strenuous kicks!
It would make you swear, I know,
If your tips came from the toe!

Man from Athens! I am gone;
Think of me, when quite alone.
Though I will not pay you toll,
I am but a single soul;
Can I set the fashion? No!
Doubtless still your tips will flow.

JUSTICE KNOWLTON RESIGNS.

Massachusetts Supreme Court Loses Judge Owing to Ill-Health.

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—Marcus P. Knowlton, Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court, to-day sent his resignation to Gov. Foss. The Chief Justice has been in ill-health for some time. He is a resident of Springfield.

Justice Knowlton's letter to Gov. Foss is as follows:

> On account of the defect in my eyesight, which came upon me lately and which has greatly interfered with the performance of my public duties, I hereby resign the office of Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court. This resignation is sent under the Revised Laws, Chapter 155, Section 10, to take effect Sept. 7, 1911.

Gov. Foss this afternoon gave out the following public statement in connection with Mr. Knowlton's retirement:

> The Governor under the circumstances will, of course, accept the resignation and will so inform him. He regrets that Massachusetts is to lose the services of so eminent a jurist and a man whom the entire Commonwealth has the deepest regard for and the utmost confidence in.

The Chief Justice will receive three-quarters of $10,500 annual salary for the remainder of his life. This is approximately $7,866.

Mr. Knowlton has been Chief Justice of the Supreme Court since 1902. He was born in Wilbraham in 1839.

METRIC SCALE FOR MACHINES.

American Tools Work on Plans Drawn to French Measurements.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I will not attempt to reanswer the arguments of Mr. Dale against the metric system. All the arguments he knows have been repeatedly and conclusively answered, but I think you are mistaken when you say, in effect, that if the metric system were adopted the machinery now used by manufacturers "would go to the junk pile and new machinery made according to metric scales would have to be installed."

Having spent my life in the machinery business, and being now in it in rather a large way, I naturally feel competent to express an opinion about that, and my opinion is that no such throwing away and replacement of machinery as you describe would result.

Some years ago the Baldwin Locomotive Works built a considerable number of locomotives for one of the French railroads. These were built in the Philadelphia shops of the company named to French drawings, which had been sent over for the purpose, all dimensions on these drawings being given in metric terms. The dimensions were not translated into English terms for the workmen, nor did the workmen do that themselves, but they were simply supplied with rules graduated to the metric system.

The locomotives were successfully and economically built, using the same identical machinery that was and is regularly used in the production of locomotives built to the English system of measurements. The authority for this is a public statement made by Samuel Vauclain, General Manager and Superintendent of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, and no doubt he will be glad to substantiate it.

A number of American machinery-building concerns could be mentioned which have done or are regularly doing similar things, and the catalogues of our American manufacturers of small tools used by machinists here and abroad almost universally give the purchaser the choice of tools made either to the English or the metric system at the same price—of course made by the use of the same identical machinery and by the same workmen.

Millions of dollars' worth of American machinery has gone abroad to be used in the manufacture of metrically dimensioned machinery and goods, this machinery being in many cases identical in every particular with machinery used here for the production of English dimensioned machinery, while in no case that I know of has it been changed in more than unimportant details.

JERRY MOORE'S CORN.

Cost of 228 Bushels to an Acre Too High, Says Southern Boy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There is one important fact that was not disclosed in your article on Jerry Moore, the Southern boy of 15 years who raised 228 bushels of corn on one acre of land, and that essential fact is, that he did it at a cost of over $1.50 per bushel. In order to raise that phenomenal amount of corn by the severest imaginable intensive methods and practically unlimited expenditure of money, he actually spent over $350. The Federal Government induced the competition, engaged in which were thousands of us farmer boys all over the South, and paid the winner $4 a bushel for his corn, as well as giving him a trip to Washington, and other prizes.

At present the average yield for corn per acre throughout the country is not one-seventh what Jerry produced, and the average price received is in proportion. The yield of cotton is likewise something like one-third of a bale per acre, with the price at 13 or 14 cents per pound. If cotton brought 25 cents per pound, as it ought, not only would the acreage yield increase, because it would pay to "intensify" by closer cultivation, the use of more fertiliser, (with which Jerry was lavish,) the expenditure of more time, labor, capital, &c., but the cotton acreage would likewise increase, causing a back-to-the-land tendency. So as to corn. Present prices do not even justify efforts to plant the present acreage or extract the present acreage yield, as a matter of fact. Jerry Moore would have lost $2 for every $1 he got for his 228 bushels if he had sold his corn in the open market.

Keep Moving on the Moving Stairs.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is there anything on earth that human beings have anything to do with and some of them don't do it wrong? I refer now to one of the very latest conveniences to the public, to wit, moving stairways, as we have them in the large shops and at street railway stations, the Subway, and the elevated. I have occasion to use these quite frequently and I walk up or down them as on other stairways, thus making time and as restfully as standing still. But am I permitted to walk freely? I am not. Always there are bunches of people who seem to think that such stairways are intended solely to ride on and they stand fast, blocking the passage as they would never think of blocking the sidewalks or stairs that do not move. I make this protest because I know a great many people who are obstructed in their rights, as I am, and up to now I have never heard any public complaint along this line. But I suppose, as everything else we have has its troubles, the moving stairways have no right to be immune.

Suffrage and Divorce.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A correspondent of THE TIMES asks how I know that the great majority of the women who appear in the divorce courts are indifferent or opposed to suffrage. I am acquainted with the suffragists of my own State, through having worked with them many years for the cause. With rare exceptions the women mentioned in the newspapers as involved in divorce cases are women of whom I never heard. What is true of Massachusetts is probably true of other States.

Women who have never expressed the slightest interest in suffrage are always assumed by the anti-suffragists to be either indifferent or opposed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION UNDER NEW CHARTER

Proposal for Paid Board-of-[illegible] Members Attacked as a Political Measure.

BARS DOWN FOR TEACHERS

New Commissioners May Make Appointments Independent of the District Superintendents.

No departure from the provisions of the existing charter in the Cullen-Foley Charter bill, now pending before the Legislature, has been more commented upon or censured than the changes affecting the public school system of the city.

As already pointed out, the framers of the proposed New York City Charter would abolish the Board of Education as it exists to-day. For the present representative board, which consists of [illegible] members serving without any compensation whatsoever, they would substitute a commission of seven members, appointed and removable by the Mayor and drawing salaries from the city as do other department heads—the President, designated by the Mayor, $10,000 a year, and the other six commissioners $9,000.

Under the present organization of the City Government, the Board of Education, while its members are appointed and removable by the Mayor and while the department, of course, must look to the city for the appropriations to enable it to keep the school system going, is to a greater extent than any other department independent of the dominant authority in the city administration and guided in its activities largely by the State Education law. The Board of Education, in fact, under the present charter is recognized as a separate corporation. Under the provisions of the Cullen-Foley Charter bill it is discontinued as an independent corporation and made a part of the city administration just as much as is the Street Cleaning Department or the Department of Water Supply.

The criticism which has been directed against this innovation in the organization of the Department of Education has been entirely on the ground that it would tend to bring the city's school system into politics. The highly paid places on the board, it has been pointed out, would be eagerly sought after and readily become the prey of seekers after political patronage. A close scrutiny of the Cullen-Foley Charter bill fails to disclose any check to prevent the Mayor from using the places in the reconstructed Department of Education—places now filled by citizens whose interest in the city's educational problems is attested by their willingness to render their services without pay—as rewards for men who have rendered political service.

While outside of the personnel of the board the organization of the department—that is as regards the supervising and teaching staffs in the public schools—has been left virtually intact, the powers of the Commissioners under the Cullen-Foley Charter bill would be so large and unrestricted by anything save the whim of the appointing and removing power that they would be in a position to [illegible], if so minded, the successful operation of the public school system.

There is one provision in the educational chapter of the proposed new charter which is pointed to by students of that measure as partaking of a strong political flavor. While under the present charter, appointments to the teaching staff of the public schools are made by the existing large board only on the recommendation of the Board of District Superintendents, competent to judge of the qualifications of any applicant for a teacher's position, the small and salaried commission that would be established by the Cullen-Foley Charter bill would have the power to make such appointments without taking cognizance of any recommendations made by this board of educational experts.

In other respects the powers as well as the qualifications of members of the supervising staff have in the main been left unchanged. A slight change has been made in the composition of the so-called local school boards, of which under the proposed new charter there would be forty-six, as at present—one for each school district. Where under the present charter there are seven members on each such board, there would be only six under the Cullen-Foley Charter bill. Where under the present charter the Superintendent of each school district would be a voting member of the local board in his particular district, he will not be a member under the proposed new charter.

Under the Cullen-Foley Charter bill, the President of the Board of Education would be empowered to designate a member of the commission to attend the local board meetings. The membership on the commission is so distributed among the various boroughs as to give local representation on the commission in proportion to the population in each borough.

The proposed new charter provides that the Mayor may remove any member of the commission "upon proof of official misconduct, neglect of duty, conduct tending to discredit him, his office or the school system, or mental or physical disability to perform his official duties." It is provided, however, that before removal such a member shall receive a copy of the charges, due notice of hearing, the assistance of counsel to defend him, and that his removal if it occurs shall be reviewed by certiorari should he so desire.

In view of the propaganda that has been in progress for several years with reference to the question of equal pay for men and women teachers in the public schools when performing the same grade of professional work, the following extract from Section 542 of the proposed new charter, which deals with that subject, may be of interest:

> The salary, including the annual increment to which a present member is entitled under a specific salary schedule now existing, shall not be reduced. If a male member be advanced to a position higher in rank, his salary, including the annual increment, in the advanced position shall be that fixed in the schedule therefor in force at the time of such advance, except that it shall be not less than that received by him immediately prior to such advance. The salaries of all present female members, and males and females who hereafter become members, shall be not less than those fixed in the schedules approved by the Board of Education on the 17th and 24th days of May, 1911. In the schedules hereafter adopted there shall be no discrimination based on the sex of the member.

It has been pointed out that regardless of the apparent prohibition contained in the last sentence it would remain optional with the commission to make discrimination based on the sex of the pupils, so that the teacher of a class of male pupils would receive salary on a more munificent scale than those teaching girls, and then assign male teachers to the boys' classes throughout the public school system.

This is the fifth of a series of articles dealing with the proposed charter to appear daily in THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LORD CAMOYS WILL WED MISS SHERMAN

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Watts Sherman Announce Engagement of Their Daughter Mildred.

MET AT DECIES WEDDING

Bride-to-Be, 23, a Devotee of Outdoor Sports—Fiance, 27, Is Head of Ancient Stonor Family of England.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. William Watts Sherman have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mildred Sherman, to Ralph Francis Julian Stonor, Lord Camoys, of England. Cards written by Mrs. Sherman announcing the engagement were sent this afternoon to intimate friends of the family, who were soon at the Sherman residence offering felicitations. Lord Camoys, it is understood, will soon visit Mr. and Mrs. Sherman at Newport.

As yet no definite plans for the wedding have been announced by the family, but it was learned that the marriage is not to take place here this Summer, nor in New York next Winter.

The engagement of Miss Sherman and Lord Camoys was reported here about the middle of July, but it was denied then by Miss Sherman's family here, and Lord Camoys also took occasion to write a denial to The Pall Mall Gazette in London.

Miss Sherman, who is one of the most popular members of the younger set here, was twenty-three years old July 3 last. She is a devotee of open-air sports and drives horses exclusively, in preference to the automobile, like her sister, Mrs. Lawrence L. Gillespie, who was married last Fall. She and her sister are frequently referred to as twins. Mrs. Gillespie, however, is a year older than her sister.

Mrs. Sherman inherited the millions of her mother, Mrs. John Carter Brown, who died about two years ago. It is said that when her daughter, Miss Mildred, reaches the age of twenty-five years, which will be in two years, she will come into possession of a considerable fortune from her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman have long been identified with Newport and its social life and have been largely interested in its welfare in many ways. Mr. Sherman is Governor of the Casino and prominently connected with the Newport County Club, Newport Golf Club, Spouting Rock Beach Association, Newport Reading Room, and other local organizations. He is a member of the committee of twenty, composed of Summer residents and citizens whose object is to better conditions and beautify Newport. The family own a splendid residence at 838 Fifth Avenue, New York, where they spend the Winters.

Lord Camoys, who came over here last Winter to act as usher at the wedding of Miss Vivien Gould and Lord Decies, is twenty-seven years old, and is head of the ancient Stonor family. One of the Stonors was Lord Chief Justice under King Edward I. The Camoys peerage was created by Richard II. in favor of Sir Thomas Camoys, who commanded the left wing of the English army in the battle of Agincourt.

Those in society on this side who know him declare him to be one of the best-looking and best-mannered Englishmen who have visited the United States in many years. For several months after the Decies-Gould wedding he remained in New York, and was entertained a great deal. He frequently confessed that he was very much taken with the New York society girls. "I'm going to be here until May," he said once, when seen at the Waldorf-Astoria, where he was staying, "and the greatest difficulty will be not to become engaged. Your girls here are so charming."

In May, when Lord Camoys sailed for England he seemed rather disconsolate, and it was reported then that he had met the one girl but that there had been a hitch and he was going back to London town a disappointed suitor. Shortly before he sailed he was at the pier at the sailing of the Mauretania, and he remarked then, as the steamer nosed its way down the bay, that the most beautiful girl in America was sailing on that boat. There were three prominent New York society girls aboard her, sure enough, Miss Sherman being among them. The other two were Miss Olga Wiborg and Miss Catherine Hamersley.

TWO BOUTOURLINES TO WED.

Engagements of Count and Sister in Europe Interests Society Here.

A double engagement of interest to society here has just been announced in Europe. About twenty-five years ago Elise Van Schaick, daughter of the old Knickerbocker house of that name and sister of Eugene Van Schaick and George G. Van Schaick, well known in New York, was married at Florence, Italy, to Count Alexander Boutourline, a young Russian nobleman of large wealth and extensive Russian and Italian estates.

The Count and Countess have four children, and it is the engagement of their oldest son, Count Dimitri Boutourline, and their eldest daughter, Linka Boutourline, which have been announced. The young Count is to be married to Miss Valentina Cora, the reigning belle of Florence, and his sister is engaged to Count Albrecht Hohenau, a young German officer of the Guards.

The double engagements have been announced at Neider-Schlesien, where the young folks have been members of a large house party given by Count Hochberg at his place at Halban. The double wedding will take place in Florence this Fall.

Eugene Van Schaick, the uncle of the young engaged couple, is a member of the law firm of Van Schaick & Brice, 100 Broadway.

Miss Hopkins to Wed C. Blagden.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Hopkins of Washington, D. C., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Hopkins, to Crawford Blagden of this city. Mr. Blagden is a graduate of Harvard, class of '02, and is a member of the Racquet and Tennis Club. The wedding will take place in Williamstown, Mass., in October.

Morgan's Yacht Sighted an Iceberg.

J. Pierpont Morgan's yacht Corsair arrived yesterday from Southampton. The yacht left that port on July 28 and made a fine passage of ten days. She came over the northern track, and met with both fog and ice. On Aug. 3, when there was intermittent fog, the Corsair sighted, thirteen miles distant, a large iceberg. The Corsair has been away six months. She preceded Mr. Morgan to Europe, and in her her owner and friends cruised down the Mediterranean. The yacht brought no passengers. She went to the Hoboken yacht basin.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mrs. William Medlicott Fleitmann, who is at Southampton, L. I., will give a moonlight riding party there to-night for her daughter, Miss Lida Louise Fleitmann, with supper afterward at the Hunt Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Barnewall left Rye, N. Y., on Saturday for York Harbor, Me.

Capt. John S. Liddell and Mrs. Liddell, (Miss Ethel D. Sloan,) who were married on July 22, will sail to-morrow for Bermuda, where the Captain's regiment, the Bedfordshire, is stationed.

Several families have gone from Tuxedo to Long Beach to spend the remainder of the Summer, and are staying at the Hotel Nassau. Among the arrivals are Mr. and Mrs. David Wagstaff, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Benkard, and Miss Gladys Pell.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Schenck of 50 West Forty-eighth Street are sailing to-day for Europe on the Kaiser Wilhelm II.

The arrival of the Duke of Southerland and Lord Desborough, who are sailing from England to-morrow on the Olympic, will add to the already growing list of titled folk on this side. At the Ritz-Carlton at present are Prince Ludovic Pignatelli d'Aragon of Paris, Count Latour, Count de Mouceau, Sir Edward Clouston, and Baron Rene Escudier.

William Gunther Gardner, British Vice Consul at New York, has left for Newport, where he will be the guest of Commodore C. Ledyard Blair on board the Diana.

DUKE MAY SEE MISS ELKINS.

Abruzzi's Lucerne Trip Expected to Revive Engagement Report.

Friends of the Elkins family in this country are interested in the report that has come from Europe that the Duke of the Abruzzi is now on his way by automobile from Italy to Lucerne, where Mrs. Elkins and her daughter, Miss Katherine Elkins, are now sojourning. There are many American tourists at Lucerne at present, and if the Duke does arrive there, it is believed by friends of the family here that the report of their engagement will again arise.

It is generally recognized here now that no engagement ever has existed between the young people. Many obstacles, however, to the match, it is said, have been removed during the last year or so.

Miss Elkins and her mother sailed for Europe in May, several months after Senator Elkins's death.

COL. ASTOR IN TENNIS MATCH.

His Fiancee, Miss Force, His Partner in Play at Newport Casino.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 7.—Col. John Jacob Astor and his fiancée, Miss Madeleine T. Force, went to the Casino today, where Miss Force met many of the Summer residents and watched the tennis playing. Later Col. Astor and Miss Force played in a mixed tennis match against Miss Berryl Kane and Lawrence L. Gillespie. The latter pair won.

Miss Force wore a white linen suit, and a large panama hat, and after the playing wore a long white polo coat.

Mrs. Force arrived later in the day with her daughter, Miss Katherine Emmons Force, to visit Col. Astor and her daughter at Beechwood, and Mr. Force returned to New York. The party remained at Beechwood to-night for dinner.

GIFTS TO ART MUSEUM.

Rare Musical Instruments Added to the Crosby-Brown Collection.

Several interesting musical instruments have recently been added to the Crosby-Brown collection at the Metropolitan Art Museum, and can now be seen in the Recent Accessions Room on the main floor. One of the quaintest is the luth of an itinerant musician of India made by himself. It was purchased by a missionery, from whose possession it came into that of Mrs. Crosby-Brown. The decoration shows the pearl inlay so familiar in East Indian work, and the luth maker used besides the usual material other that came to hand. Small four-hole pearl buttons such as do practical service on white wearing apparel, have been set in with decorative effect.

Valuable among the other accessions is a viola d'amore, formerly used in orchestras, but which fell into disuse in the eighteenth century, and Meyerbeer, in an attempt to restore it, gave the viola d'amore a prominent solo part in the "Huguenots," and it has been played in the orchestra accompanying the opera in New York, but it was a unique instance. The Museum acquisition has on it the names "Antonius & Hieronymus Fr. Amati, Cremonen," and the date, "1615." A viola da gamba by Henry Smith of London, 1620, was also presented by Mrs. Brown, and an elaborate harp-lyre, supported by golden griffins on a wooden stand, was purchased by the donor, W. H. Herriman, in Italy thirty years ago.

An interesting stone bas relief, Italian, fifteenth century, showing St. Peter, St. Paul, and St. John Baptist, is a Museum purchase, and a couple of bronze statuettes. Among the acquisitions "The Bather" and the "Song of the Waves" are by a contemporary American artist, Richard E. Brooks, who makes his home in Paris.

A bronze medal, commemorative of the 250th anniversary of the first settlement of the Jews in the United States, 1905, has been presented by the sculptor, Isador Konti.

A loan exhibition of Colonial silver and paintings is announced for October. The collection is that brought together by the Society of Colonial Dames of New York.

A valuable gift has been made by Prof. D. Cady Eaton of Yale University to the Museum Library, 142 books relating to the history of art; thirty-four engravings after Italian paintings, and 3,000 photographs, including views of Egypt, painting and sculpture of antiquity, and reproductions of the works of artists of the Midle Ages, the Renaissance, and modern times.

Ruth St. Denis in More Hindu Dances.

For her third week at Hammerstein's roof garden Ruth St. Denis appeared in two more of her Hindu dances, "The Cobra" and "The Nautch." The former represents a snake charmer, and the dancer with her hands and arms suggests the movements of the serpents. The other dance takes place in a Rajah's dancing hall, and the performer gives the dance of the "Golden Sari." Both numbers were well received.

Another feature of importance on the roof was the appearance of Yvette, the singing violinist, who appeared at the Winter Garden last season. Others on the programme were Luciano Lucca, Gus Edwards's "School Boys and Girls," the Five Pirescoffis, Sherman, Kranzman and Tyman, Berg brothers, Will Rogers, Gordon brothers, Kramer and Spillane, and F. A. Clement. Bedini and Arthur gave a burlesque of Miss St. Denis.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Katherine Grey, who has been starring in Australia for eighteen months, has arrived in San Francisco and will return to New York shortly.

Rehearsals of "The Deep Purple" will begin at the Century Theatre this morning, the first rehearsals there since Liebler & Co. assumed control of the house. The only important change in the cast since last season will be Jeffreys Lewis in the role of Frisco Kate. The play will open at Asbury Park next week, and will go to Chicago for a run.

Rehearsals of George Broadhurst's drama, "The Price," in which Helen Ware will be starred, will begin at the Hudson Theatre today. The play will be presented at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, on Sept. 4. Edgar Selwyn's play, "The Arab," has also been placed in rehearsal by Henry B. Harris. Mr. Selwyn will play the leading role himself, and the premier will be at the Star Theatre, Buffalo, on Aug. 28. Edna Baker will be the leading woman. Willette Kershaw has been engaged by Mr. Harris as leading woman with Frank McIntyre in "Snobs."

Arthur R. Moulton has been chosen by Henry W. Savage as the second conductor for the forthcoming production of Puccini's "The Girl of the Golden West" in English. Mr. Moulton will sail for Milan to-morrow to attend some of the rehearsals for the Italian production and to witness some of the performances there. He will meet Mr. Savage's first conductor, Signor Polacco, in Brescia.

Burford Hampden, a young English actor, who has been engaged by Liebler & Co. for the role of Tyltyl in "The Blue Beard," arrived in New York yesterday on the Minnetonka of the Atlantic Transport Line. He is said to be 16 years old and very small for that age. In London he has appeared as Puck in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," the boy in "The Critic" during the coronation performances, and the Herald in "Pinkie and the Fairies."

Christie MacDonald arrived in New York yesterday and began rehearsals of "The Spring Maid" company preparatory to opening at the Liberty Theatre next week. Miss MacDonald spent most of her vacation at Aix-les-Bains, returning to America last week [illegible] at her Summer home on Alexandria Bay.

'GIRL OF MY DREAMS' AT THE CRITERION

A Pleasant Singing and Dancing Entertainment, with Some Novel Features.

BABY GIRL WINS APPLAUSE

Daphne Daffington	Alice Hills

A very pleasant entertainment, with that variety which is the spice of these things to most people, and rather more fresh touches than one might expect to find in a musical show in early August—such is "The Girl of My Dreams," produced last night at the Criterion. If it gets a bit noisy at times there is at least the legitimate excuse of good acrobatic funning to make the noise seem worth while. What will recommend the entertainment to people of less flamboyant taste, however, is the very exceptional charm of Miss Leila McIntyre, the neatness and directness of John Hyams, and, lest she be forgot, the very appealing youthfulness of the little baby child of this pair, who—at the proper moment—comes forward to do her little turn and prove that papa and mamma haven't monopolized all the talent in the family.

While the baby was singing last night, with her eyes wandering over the house, papa told her she "needn't count the gallery," which was one of those things that made initiated Broadway laugh, however little it might mean to the man in the other street. But of such stuff is a musical comedy first night on Broadway made.

"The Girl of My Dreams" had a long midwinter run in Chicago last season, at which time Santa Claus was seasonable. He isn't exactly in the favorite class at present, but the fact doesn't especially detract from the chromo-lithographic prettiness of the final picture, or the exceptionally clever idea of four-legged chorus figures in which Santa is the central part, and shares his glory with a group of trim-limbed chorus girls.

This novelty comes in "Dr. Tinkle Tinker," sung with capital effect by Miss McIntyre, whose pretty saucer-eyed innocent stare and quavering treble lends itself easily to the illusion of a very ittly-itty girlie telling about the man who mends the broken toys. Incindentally there is a march of red cheeked toy soldiers with snare-drums and a pleasantly orchestrated number to accompany the evolutions. And just previously the juvenile idea has again been predominant in a dancing number, "Dear Little Games of Guessing," in which the chorus girls, trying to follow the leader, are put through some pretty stiff gymnastic paces.

It's a sort of all-around rowdy number, with plenty of noise and ginger to make it appeal to people for whom the gentler efforts of Miss McIntyre may seem caviare. Again, in "O-oh, Maybe It's a Robber," Miss McIntyre's pretty ingenuousness helps, with Mr. Hyam's very good pantomiming and dancing, to give the added suggestion of comic fright. Mr. Hyam's contributions are considerable, both in song and dance and in the action generally.

He is an efficient comedian with a sure touch, a good method, and a considerable amount of authority—not the funniest man who has ever walked on the stage, but one who may be depended upon apparently to do well all he is called upon to do. His first number, "I'm Ready to Quit and Be Good," in itself one of the freshest things that has come along lately, gains something from the capital manner in which he handles it. When the orchestra plays he begins in a sort of recitative, passing to the melody on the last lines of the verse, with the chorus breaking in at intervals to oppose, or approve, as the case may be, his admirable intention.

As this song is, so to speak, the beginning of the plot, this seems as good a place as any to say that there is a plot, that it concerns a young bachelor who has found the girl of his dreams, who is for a time obliged to endure the torments of being misunderstood, and is eventually able to clear himself from suspicion and go back to the country. She is a demure little Quaker person, and for a time she has supposed that he is a very wicked person and has been disconsolate in consequence.

Miss McIntyre it need hardly be mentioned is this little Quaker person, and one of the best songs, "Quaker Talk," enables her to expound satisfactorily the difference between you and thou and other archaic terms.

To these two—Mr. Hyams and Miss McIntyre—fall the biggest plums, but there is opportunity to score for Alice Hills, a character comedienne, seemingly new to Broadway, and one who is really funny. She sings capitally a song about "letters," and she manages to be amusing whenever she is on the stage.

Carrie Bowman, a very good dancer, makes her way gracefully through the action and Edouard Durand, Irving Brooks, Ray Royce, Harold Forbes, Henrietta Lee, and Percival Aylmar contribute to the generally competent cast.

Benefit for Stage Children's Fund.

A performance for the benefit of the Stage Children's Christmas Tree Fund will be given at the Harry Williams Long Beach Theatre, Long Beach, L. I., to-morrow evening. The fund was established by the late Tony Pastor, and has been carried on by Miss Bijou Fernandes, Mrs. Able, (Mrs. Taliaferro,) Mrs. Morrison, and William Harris. The performance to-morrow will be given by stage children, and will be much the same programme that was given at the Criterion Theatre last New Year's night. The children who will take part have been invited by Mrs. Able to spend the rest of the week at Long Beach Inn.

WEEK'S BILLS AT THE THEATRES.

Nat Wills, the tramp juggler, and La Titcomb, in a spectacular singing act, were joint headliners at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre yesterday. Others on the programme were Trovato, Clark and Bergman, De Voie trio, Henning's animals, and Gallagher and Shean.

At the New Brighton Theatre the headliner was the Princess Rajah in an Egyptian dancing number. Others scheduled were Budd Fisher, the cartoonist; Belle Baker, J. Francis Dooley and Corinne Sayles, Edwin Holt and company, Bert Howard and Effie Lawrence, Hawthorne and Burt, the Heumann trio, and Louis Stern.

Gus Edwards's production, "The High Flyers," was at the head of the Brighton Beach Music Hall bill, with Johnny Stanley and Bessie Clifford featured. Among the others on the programme were Ben Welch, the great Richards, Georgie Mack and Mercedes Lorenze, the Bootblack Quartet, Van Brothers, Collins and Hart, Fred Hamell and Joseph Jackson.

"The Dancing Girl," the play by Henry Arthur Jones, was presented by the stock company of the Academy of Music.

The Aborn Comic Opera Company at Palisades Park has for its offering this week Reginald de Koven's operetta, "The Red Feather."

For the first half of the week at the American Music Hall and Roof Garden the programme included George B. Davis, the Pantzer trio, Sam Goldman, the Tora family, the Lillian sisters, Marcus and Gartelle, Marie Sparrow, and [illegible].

END OF ATLANTIC GARDEN.

Old Show Place to Give Way to Modern Theatre and Office Building.

Atlantic Garden, with a history of more than half a century, one of the show places of New York in past years, and one of the oldest buildings on the Bowery, is to be torn down within a month. In its place a modern theatre and office building will be constructed. Plans are being drawn for an eight-story building to cost $300,000. It will have façades of brick and terra cotta, with copper and bronze trimmings. A loan of $200,000 has been obtained on the property by the sons of the founder of Atlantic Garden. The plot has a frontage of 100 feet on the Bowery and runs back 200 feet toward Elizabeth Street.

The site on which Atlantic Garden stands was a part of the Bull's Head Tavern, where Gen. Washington once established his headquarters during the Revolutionary War. In 1858 William Kramer took the property, which had been used as a stove factory for some years before, and turned the front part of it into a resort modeled after the gartens of Germany. For many years it was a centre for the German life of the city.

"THE HEN PECKS" AGAIN.

Lew Fields and His Company Return to Broadway Theatre.

The Broadway Theatre opened for the season last night, when Lew Fields and his "The Hen Pecks" company resumed their run. The audience was large, and the welcome given the actors was genuine. There have been a few changes made in the cast since the Summer vacation began. Jessie Busley now has the rôle of Henoria Peck, the oldest daughter of the family, who goes to the city in search of the long-haired magician. Elizabeth Brice is the present Henolia, just from college, and Charles King has the part of the real estate promoter, Ayer Castle.

Mr. Fields, of course, is seen in the rôle of Henry Peck; Vernon Castle is again the magicion, Zowie, and Blossom Seeley the chorus girl daughter. A dancing specialty is given in the last act by Rosalie and Hilarion Ceballos.

RUSSIAN BALLETS RETURN.

Gertrude Hoffmann and Lydia Lopoukowa Again at Winter Garden.

The Russian ballets, with Gertrude Hoffmann, returned to the Winter Garden last night for a short season before going on tour. The same ballets, including "Cleopatre," "Les Sylphides," and "Sheherazade," that were presented in the Spring were given by practically the same ensemble. Lydia Lopoukowa danced the solo in the bacchanale in "Cleopatre," and the principal solos in "Les Sylphides," and Maria Baldina appeared as prima ballerina in the first ballet and in several movements in "Les Sylphides."

New costumes have been provided for some of the principals, and there has been some elaboration of details in the ballets during the recent rehearsals.

Last night's audience was large and enthusiastic. Baron Schlippenbach, the Russian Consul General in New York, was present, and had as his guests the Turkish Ambassador and his suite from Washington.

JOHN L. CONAWAY DEAD.

Well-Known Whip, Cross-Country Rider, and Polo Player.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 7.—John L. Conaway, prominent socially and one of the best known whips in the country, died yesterday in a hospital after an illness of little more than a week. The immediate cause of Mr. Conaway's death was typhoid fever. Mrs. Conaway, who was formerly Miss Gertrude Pancoast of this city and a cousin of Mrs. Joseph E. Widener, and her daughter, Miss Gertrude Conaway, are in Europe. Word of Mr. Conaway's death was cabled to her.

Mrs. Wilson McCandless, Mrs. U. S. Grant Megargee of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Kunkle of New York, sisters of Mr. Conaway, received word at Avalon, N. J., where they were spending the Summer, about 2 o'clock yesterday morning that Mr. Conaway was in a dying condition. They hurried to his bedside, but arrived a few minutes after he had died.

Mr. Conaway was 39 years old, and was a conspicuous figure at nearly all the horse shows, having a National reputation as a whip, cross-country rider, and driver of blue-ribbon winners. He was also active as a polo player and fox hunter.

A member of many exclusive clubs, Mr. Conaway took part in nearly all their sports, winning many prizes. As a pool player he compared with the greatest amateurs in the country, and his contests with Thomas Earle White, Edward Cole, and others in the Inter-Club tourneys are well remembered.

Father of Irrigation Dead.

OGDEN, Utah, Aug. 7.—Joseph Parry, "the father of irrigation," died suddenly last night at his home here of general debility. Mr. Parry was 86 years old and one of the pioneers of the State, having crossed the plains with a Mormon wagon train. He was the father of 28 children, 14 of whom together with one of five wives survive him. Mr. Parry had 40 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren.

Thousand View Col. Greene's Body.

CANANEA, Sonora, Mexico, Aug. 7.—Funeral services for Col. William Cornell Greene, pioneer mining and cattle man, were held here to-day. The widow, their six children, and friends arrived on special trains from Bisbee, Tombstone, and Tucson, Ariz. The body lay in state yesterday, and was viewed by nearly 1,000 persons. The people here have urged that burial be in an imposing mausoleum in this city.

OUR OPERA BEST, SAYS OTTO KAHN

Europeans Admit That New Yorkers Understand Art Better Than Any Other Public.

VIEWS ON EUROPE'S POLITICS

Predicts Conservatives Will Again Be in Power in England—This the Best Country.

Otto H. Kahn, who returned to New York yesterday on the Hamburg-American Liner Amerika after an absence of several months abroad, had several things to say about the coming opera season.

"In Europe," he said, "the feeling has gradually grown that we possess the best opera company in the world here in New York, and that some of the best performances are given here. In fact, it is the usual thing to refer to our performances of every night as 'festival' performances. I say this with all due modesty and with the full belief that it is the public as well as the management which has brought about this condition of affairs.

"The New York public, I think, understands the art of opera better than any other. It discriminates immediately between good and bad singing in a way which no other public does. The Germans, as a rule, may be more musical, but they do not demand good singing.

"There is a great deal of curiosity in Europe as to what is the meaning of the present cry for opera in English. 'You have,' they say, 'a system which we cannot afford, of giving operas in the languages in which they are written. It is much preferable than, say, to sing "Carmen" in German in Berlin, and "Die Walküre" in Paris in French. Part of the spirit of the works is lost in translation. And if all of these cities could afford to engage companies to present operas in three or four languages, they undoubtedly would like to do so.'

"As a matter of fact," continued Mr. Kahn, "we shall continue to encourage in every possible way the American composer or the English composer or any composer who sets music to an English text. But translations are another matter.

"Mr. Gatti-Casazza and Mr. Toscanini are both very favorably impressed with Prof. Parker's prize opera 'Mona.' They say it is a beautiful work, and they expect it to meet with success. Mme. Fremstad has been asked to sing the title part."

"Will the Metropolitan Opera Company institute other opera competitions?"

"That cannot be foreseen so far ahead. We shall see what success comes to 'Mona' first."

"How is Mr. Caruso?"

"Caruso is very well now, I am told. Mr. Gatti-Casazza saw him about ten days ago, and said that he will surely be here this season, singing as many times as usual.

"One change in the season's arrangements may be made. Mr. Diaghileff's Imperial Russian ballet, headed by Nijinsky and Karsavina, may not be seen at the Metropolitan Opera House during the season. However, this does not mean it may not be seen at some other theatre here. The reason for this change, if it occurs, is this: the organization is an enormous one, nearly 100 people, and it is so expensive that it is necessary for it to give a whole entertainment by itself.

"Now, if it did come, it would occupy the stage for rehearsals a great deal of the time, and the theatre would have to be given over to the ballet at least three times a week. In other words, the repertoire would be entirely unbalanced, and we are not sure that this would be for the best. Dancing may or may not be a greater art than singing, but, after all, this is an opera house.

"This ballet has met with enormous success in London this Summer, but there has been comparatively little opera. Occasionally Mme. Tetrazzini, Mme. Melba, or Miss Destinn have appeared, but usually Covent Garden has been given over to the dancers."

Mr. Kahn spoke of the difficulty in securing opera novelties, and said that he had heard most of the new works, but was not much impressed with any of them. He said that he had heard "Der Rosenkavalier" in Vienna and found it much inferior to "Salome" and "Elektra."

"How is Oscar Hammerstein doing in London?" he was asked.

"Well, if anything can awake the Londoners to an appreciation of opera, Oscar Hammerstein can do it," he answered. "In his usual quick, original way he has succeeded in stirring up a great deal of interest. He has built a beautiful opera house, and he deserves success."

When asked about the direction of The New Theatre, Mr. Kahn said that nothing had been decided as yet.

Regarding European politics, Mr. Kahn said that his sympathies were with Germany, who, with her 63,000,000 people, must find some outlet no matter what the outcome of the present negotiations. He said that in his opinion, if any territory was to be divided up Germany was right in asking for her share.

"As to England," he said, "the Veto bill is everywhere recognized as a temporary measure. Within the next three or four years the Conservatives will be restored to power, and what the present session of Parliament has done along these lines will be undone. Lloyd-George's Working Men's Insurance bill is a good measure, and I am a firm believer in home rule. A visit abroad convinces me that, notwithstanding our legislative follies, we have the best Government to be found."

Mr. Kahn believes that the present French Cabinet is merely a makeshift and that former Premier Briand will soon be returned to power.

"France," he continued, "is pretty well filled up with American securities, and it is doubtful if they will buy any more in the near future. The incident of increase in American Telegraph and Telephone stock immediately after the Paris listing had an untoward effect, which has not as yet been effaced.

"Economically, this country is in good condition," said Mr. Kahn. "We shall probably have an average general crop, with a record cotton crop, which Europe badly needs. Our banks are on solid ground and there is no prospect of hard money. We still have a generous credit balance abroad, due to our large balance of trade and the considerable recent selling of American securities in Europe."

Mr. Kahn was asked what truth there was in the report that he was to make his permanent residence abroad. He said that so far such an intention was merely a dream.

EVIDENCE FOR POMERENE.

Senator Seeking Details of Alleged Oil Frauds by Standard Company.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 7.—County Prosecutor Cline has forwarded to United States Senator Atlee Pomerene at the latter's formal request all details in connection with the city's raid on the artificial plant of the East Ohio Gas Company and the positive claim now being made by city officials that the East Ohio, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company, has been adulterating the artificial gas with cheaper natural gas.

In his letter to the Prosecutor asking for detailed information, Senator Pomerene stated that he wanted the information for use in connection with his resolution instructing the Department of Justice to bring criminal prosecution against the officers of the Standard Oil Company.

YESTERDAY'S WILLS.

JOSEPHINE W. FABER, died July 25, 1911; left $3,000 personalty; $25 each to her sons, Royal Joseph Faber, Chester Faber, and Theodore Faber, all of 315 East Eighty-sixth Street, and the residue, in trust for her sons, to Louis Theodore Haug of Brooklyn and Wilhelmina Gehroff of the Hotel Manhattan.

CARNEGIE'S NEPHEW DEAD.

Coleman Carnegie Dies in Home of Adirondack Guide—His Career.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Coleman Carnegie of Pittsburg and Fernandina, Fla., a nephew of Andrew Carnegie, died at 1 o'clock this morning at the house of Samuel Jenkins, an Adirondack guide, at Patten's Mills. He was 31 years old. Young Carnegie, with his mother, Mrs. Thomas Carnegie, and his sister, Mrs. Nancy Hever, had been on an outing at Racquette Lake, and he had left them to go on a fishing trip with the guide. He contracted pneumonia and died before help could be summoned.

Coleman Carnegie was one of the five children of Thomas Carnegie, a brother of Andrew Carnegie. He was a favorite of his uncle, and at one time it was reported that the latter intended to make him his principal heir. The story was that he was to be taken to Scotland and trained up as the next Laird of Skibo. His health failed, however, and he was advised to live in a dry climate. He spent a good deal of time in the Adirondacks and became a crack shot and an expert fisherman.

Before this Coleman Carnegie had been well known on Broadway, where he was extremely liberal with his income of $125,000 a year. Last Fall John Leonard, a harnessmaker, and his wife obtained judgments of $1,129 and $1,600, respectively, against him for injuries received when they were run down by his automobile in February, 1906. Efforts to locate Carnegie or his property were unavailing, and the judgments were returned unsatisfied.

One of Coleman Carnegie's brothers was George Lauder Carnegie, who married a sister of Harry K. Thaw. His sister Nancy married her father's coachman, George Hever.

Obituary Notes.

JAMES E. ROBINS, who saw service in the civil war as a member of the United States Navy and fought through one of the hardest campaigns with Admiral Farragut on the Mississippi, died on Saturday at his home in Newark. He was born in New York in 1834.

Mrs. JOSEPHINE ROWEN REID, widow of Col. S. C. Reid, for many years editor of The New Orleans Picayune, died on Sunday at Alameda, Cal. She was 75 years old.

Sister ROMUALD, for fifty-eight years a nun in St. Patrick's Orphan Asylum, now located in Kingsbridge, died on last Thursday and was buried on Saturday in St. Raymond's Cemetery, Westchester. Her family name was Wayrich, and she had a brother who entered the priesthood. Sister Romuald was 85 years old.

ABRAHAM H. MILLER, once the owner of famous race horses and well known on the turf, died on Sunday at Buffalo. He was born in Buffalo 68 years ago.

The Rev. Dr. WILLIAM WALLACE ATTERBURY, one of the oldest Yale graduates, died on Sunday at his home in Bennington, Vt. He received the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Yale in 1843, and entered the Presbyterian ministry in 1848. For many years Dr. Atterbury chiefly interested himself in advocacy of Sunday observance. He was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the National Geographical Society, and the Century Club.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Recover After Brief Renewal of Last Week's Selling Movement.

MAIN FACTORS UNCHANGED

Wheat and Cotton Rise Further, but Corn, Despite Poor State Reports, Drops a Little.

It was indicated by the action of the market at the opening of trading yesterday that the selling movement which had been so effective in conjunction with last week's bear operations in depressing prices had run its course on Saturday. The aftermath of that selling which was encountered yesterday was not sufficient to prevent a substantial recovery in nearly all the stocks which figured at all prominently in the transactions. The market without any assistance from London, where trading was suspended for the day, opened at a generally higher level than Saturday's close, the between-sessions improvement amounting in some stocks to as much as a full point. From these higher opening prices the market reacted under fairly heavy selling, but prices quickly recovered to the accompaniment of a sharp contraction in the trading. The fact that trading became dull upon the recovery was regarded as one of the unfavorable indications of the market's position, but this argument was to some extent weakened by the operations during the last hour, when the dealings increased and when at the same time prices rose to the highest point of the day.

The improvement yesterday was in no wise due to any change in the general situation. It cannot accurately be determined just in what proportion each of the factors which were influential last week was responsible for the decline in prices.

Whatever, though, may have been the part played by such influences as the impairment of the crop prospects, the uncertainties regarding the corporation reorganizations now under way and the uneasiness due to political interference with business, and more particularly to annoyance caused by numerous actual and prospective investigations, all of these were still as effective yesterday as last week. The lower level, however, to which prices have been brought automatically lessens the uneasiness with which the stock market contemplates any or all of the unfavorable features of the situation. Moreover, by the decline which took place last week the security markets have unquestionably been brought into a position in which more attentive consideration is likely to be given to the favorable side of the rather complex situation with which the financial community is confronted. Noteworthy among these favorable features is the improvement which the steel trade has been showing. The fact that this, the principal industry of the country, has steadily, albeit slowly, improved since the changes in prices which were made last May is not explainable on any other assumption than that the general underlying conditions are sound and that the position of the country at large is such as to respond easily to any change for the better in the political aspects of the business situation. On any other assumption it would be necessary to deny to the steel trade the position which is very generally conceded to it as the best single indication of the general course of the country's business. All that can be said, however, of the influence of such factors as this upon the present stock market is that the general recession due to last week's selling has at once fortified the Stock Exchange against the adverse influences and made it more responsive to what is favorable in the situation.

Several reports of particular interest to the financial community are due within the next couple of days, including the Government crop report to-morrow, and the copper and steel order reports the following day. Yesterday more was heard of damage to wheat by rust, which was reported to be spreading in Canada as well as in the Northwestern States. There is much disagreement over the extent to which rust has impaired the Spring wheat promise, but apparently it is agreed that practically all the damage that is likely to be done by rust was completed some days ago, and, generally speaking, that the crop is now too far advanced to be much further damaged from this cause. Two State reports which came to hand yesterday, from Kansas and Missouri, indicated a sharp decline in the condition of corn compared with a month ago, but the corn market was lower yesterday, despite the advance of over 1 cent a bushel in wheat. The cotton market, which for the last few days appears to have been under the influence of a concentrated movement against the short interest, maintained a generally higher level, the close showing net advances of $1 a bale or more in some of the options.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Trading Sluggish, with Narrow Price Movements in Most Issues on the Curb.

OIL STOCK AN EXCEPTION

Standard Shares Again Sell Actively, but Price Holds Fairly Steady, Closing at Advance Over Opening.

Curb trading was in small volume yesterday, although Standard Oil continued under selling pressure. After opening at 605 the price went off to 600¼, but recovered, and closed, after sales of 518, at 607. American Tobacco was sluggish, reporting transactions of only 80 shares. The price moved between 387 and 390, closing at the low figure, even with the opening. In the mining list extreme inaction ruled. Braden did not report a single sale. Where price changes occurred in the narrow market fractional recessions ruled. The bond list, too, was sluggish, trading being confined to six issues, which, with two exceptions, made small losses.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

The rally in the market was generally looked upon on the Consolidated Stock Exchange as a natural rebound from last week's heavy decline in prices. A good power of recovery was displayed, and it appeared that Wall Street was getting over its attack of nervousness. Commission houses reported some buying which might properly be classed as of an investment character. A very large proportion of the demand, however, reflected the covering of short contracts. The market was a broad one, but there was a falling off compared with Saturday's ratio of activity. Sales of 61,360 shares were distributed over a list including sixty different stocks.

The Test of Time has been applied to Public Utility Bonds and has demonstrated that they are safe, conservative investments.
¶ They are profitable, too, for as a rule they yield a larger return than the bonds of well established steam railroads. They are also more stable than the bonds of industrial corporations, because the only variation in the earnings of the companies issuing them is almost invariably in the direction of larger income.
¶ We investigate thoroughly all the conditions bearing upon the value of the Public Utility Bonds that we offer to investors.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Buying Cotton Direct.

The cotton bill of lading question seems to be working itself out and there is less and less talk of carrying out the original plan for the establishment of a central clearing house. Some of the larger European buyers have done away with the principal element of risk by sending their own agents into the South to contract for cotton and see that it is delivered. This method is satisfactory to the banks, as it does not mean any loss of business to them. Other buyers are following the old method with this difference, that they are now examining into the credit of the shipper with more care than they formerly used. Most of the bankers on this side of the water who have been concerned in the financing of cotton bills have taken only a lukewarm interest in the Liverpool bankers' proposal that the bills be guaranteed. A member of the American Bankers Association's sub-committee said yesterday that there was little danger of loss in any case where the foreign buyer exercises ordinary care, and that as most of the profit in the transaction accrues to the foreign banks, they should be the ones to take the precautions against fraud.

Paying Back June Loans.

Within the last few days Berlin has repaid to this market some of the short time loans which were made at the end of June when, owing to the pressure of the mid-year settlements, rates in the German market rose somewhat abruptly and reached a level which attracted a considerable amount of American money. Rates as high as 5 and even 5½ per cent. which the Berlin market offered at the end of June were so much above the rates which were then and have since then prevailed in this market that the opportunity was an attractive one for New York bankers, who were having difficulty in obtaining remunerative employment for their free balances. Since these loans were made the Berlin market has become very much easier, the stringency which existed at the end of June having passed away with the completion of the semi-annual settlements. Since the first week of July interest rates in Berlin have become so much easier that money market reports from that centre have related that bankers there were again complaining that money rates had become unattractively low. It is plain that New York is not alone in presenting sharp contrasts in the money market.

Status of National City Company.

Officials of the National City Bank were inclined to laugh yesterday at a story to the effect that the bank had learned from Washington that Secretary McVeagh had submitted an adverse report on the legality of the National City Company under the banking laws to the Controller of the Currency, and that the company would be dissolved. Directors of the National City Bank are confident that the subsidiary company was formed along lines that have been approved of in many similar cases and that no important change in its organization will be suggested.

St. Paul's Surplus.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul had gross earnings for the last fiscal year of $64,976,000, which is $129,000 more than was earned in 1910. Notwithstanding this, the net earnings decreased $2,278,900. After deducting fixed charges and the 7 per cent. dividends, there was a nominal deficit at the end of the year of $3,294,213. This deficit was probably entirely offset by the St. Paul's other income, amounting to something over $1,000,000, and its receipt of $2,000,000 last February in dividends from its controlled line, the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound.

Kind Words for the Colonel.

Col. Roosevelt's right ear must have burned yesterday. He was much talked about in Wall Street, and not for five years, perhaps ten, have so many kind words been said for him south of Fulton Street. It all grew out of what he told the Stanley Committee at the hearing in the City Hall on Saturday. There was little that was new to Wall Street in his testimony, but the résumé he gave of what took place in 1907 seemed to make forgotten the attitude of mind toward the ex-President which gave current use only three years ago to the phrase "Roosevelt panic," as descriptive of the exciting events of October-November, 1907. "He was the right man in the right place" was the praise of one man, who not so long ago found the Colonel's lion hunting agreeably suggestive. There were many who thought that the Stanley Committee had made a tactical error.

⁂

Steel Corporation Operations.

The improvement in the steel trade has brought orders to the Steel Corporation at a rate, in July, substantially better than new business in June, although in that month the average daily bookings of 35,000 tons were well ahead of those of May, when the set-back which began at the end of the first quarter was at its worst. The high rate of ingot production, noted last week, continues at the corporation's plants, and it is now turning out ingots at the rate of 77 per cent. of maximum capacity, according to trade authorities. This output is at the rate of 14,500,000 tons annually, which exceeds by 300,000 tons the best for any year in the corporation's history. It is not expected, however, that specifications against contracts will continue to demand just now a record rate of steel making. Trade authorities predict a slowing up with the current week.

RUTLAND RAILROAD ANSWERS

Admits Surrender of Control, but Denies Any Diversion of Property.

The Rutland Railroad Company filed yesterday in the United States Circuit Court answer to the suit brought against it and the New York Central Railroad Company in behalf of certain stockholders by James M. Hunnewell, who contends also as a stockholder. The company disputes the allegation that Mr. Hunnewell is a stockholder, admits certain facts relating to control, and denies the misuse of property.

It is declared that since 1901 eighty-three shares of preferred stock have stood on the books of the Rutland in the name of James F. Hunnewell, but it is denied that James M. Hunnewell is a stockholder of record. The ownership by the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company of the majority of the capital stocks of the corporations named in the complaint is admitted, except of the New York & Harlem Railroad Company, and the Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Railroad Companies. Moreover, it is conceded that the New York Central has voted this stock and controlled the corporations in such a manner as is customary by majority stockholders.

Further admissions are made with regard to the leasing of the other roads, which are generally known as the New York Central Lines, by the New York Central Railroad Company, and it is also conceded that, from time to time, the same persons have been concurrently Directors or officers of the New York Central and some of the other companies.

Before Jan. 18, 1905, the answer states, Chauncey M. Depew, William K. Vanderbilt, Frederick W. Vanderbilt, William H. Newman, J. Pierpont Morgan, William Rockefeller, James Stillman, and Hamilton McK. Twombly were a majority of the Board of Directors of the New York Central, and on the same date William Seward Webb owned a majority of the shares of the Rutland Company. On and about that date 47,041 shares, a majority of the capital stock of the Rutland, was conveyed to the New York Central, and half of these holdings, 23,350½ shares, were transferred about March 18 to Charles S. Mellen, Lewis Cass Ledyard, and William Skinner, Directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company. Whereupon Mr. Mellen, Mr. Ledyard, and Mr. Skinner took the places on the board of the Rutland of William K. Vanderbilt, Frederick W. Vanderbilt, and Chauncey M. Depew.

It is admitted that in November, 1905, the Rutland Company bought from the New York Central 76 out of 100 certificates representing stocks and bonds of the South Shore Railroad Company at a price upward of $354,323.

It is denied that the New York Central has diverted any property or funds of the Rutland, and that there is any just cause for a discovery or accounting as charged in the bill of complaint. It is likewise denied that there is any unlawful combination and confederacy as charged by Hunnewell.

Hall Signal Co. Seeks More Capital.

Stockholders of the Hall Signal Company, who have deposited their shares with the Readjustment Committee organized last year, have been circularized by Newman Erb, Vice Chairman, who explained that the committee desires to raise funds to supply the company with working capital. The stockholders are asked to empower the committee to borrow $100,000 to carry out its contracts and orders on hand.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

Stagnation Ruled in Most of the Markets of Other Stock Trading Centres.

LOCAL STOCKS ARE STRONG

Both in Chicago and Philadelphia Firmness of Local Issues Indicated Underlying Market Strength.

Stagnation characterized the markets of most of the out-of-town trading centres yesterday, though there was an underlying firm tone which was particularly notable in the local issues.

Trading was in small volume on the Chicago Exchange, and though there were few price changes of importance, fluctuations which did occur were mostly small advances. An exception was McCrum-Howell, which sold off more than a point. Sears-Roebuck, on the other hand, made a gain of a point, and there were fractional rises in Swift, Illinois Brick, Pneumatic Tool, American Can preferred, Chicago Railways, and People's Gas. Free offerings of Chicago Subway kept the market easy, and sales on the local Exchange were around 3¼. There appears to be a great deal of stock for sale with few buyers. One of the reports is that the reorganization plan will not provide anything for Subway stock unless the stockholders agree to pay in a liberal assessment. Some stories place the amount at not less than $10 a share.

Local stocks in Philadelphia closed dull but strong. For a time prices reacted after a moderate opening advance, but there seemed to be a fair amount of absorbing power to the market. Reading, Lehigh Valley, and United States Steel all advanced at the outset, and then fell back below last week's final figures on light offerings, only to harden again during the afternoon, despite a general state of stagnation which overcame the market after midday.

There was a better feeling noticeable in the Boston market yesterday, and prices made some gains. Amalgamated rose a point to 64¾. North Butte sold up to 31¼, while there was a fair demand in evidence for the general copper and industrial share list. The market closed steady at the advance.

Yesterday was the dullest session on the Baltimore Exchange for a long time. The generally accepted reason for the pronounced inactivity is the plausible explanation that there is a general disinclination to trade.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES were as follows:

COMMITTEE RUNS LINSEED OIL

President McGean Out and a New System of Management Inaugurated.

The American Linseed Company, which is closely identified with the Standard Oil interests, including among its Directors John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as well as Starr J. Murphy and F. T. Gates, the elder Rockefeller's almoner, has changed its executive organization. The Directors yesterday accepted the resignation of John A. McGean as President, Treasurer, and Director of the company and created a Committee of Management. This committee is composed of H. E. Cooper, Chairman; F. T. Gates, R. H. Adams, and the Chairman of the Board of Directors, Starr J. Murphy, ex officio, with power to add to their numbers.

The vacancy caused in the Directorate by the resignation of President McGean was filled by the election of Bayard Dominick, Jr.

The American Linseed Company was formed in 1898, about the same time as the present Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and has been known as the "Linseed Oil Trust." A year or so ago it obtained a listing on the Stock Exchange and suddenly changed from a policy of close secrecy of its affairs to one of openness, issuing annual reports. The practical failure of the flax crop last season and the consequent shortage of flaxseed put the price of linseed oil to heights which seriously curtailed consumption in the past year.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT closed at 1¼c. to 3c. advance, the greatest gain being in Winnipeg. American Northwestern markets showed gains of 2¼ to 2⅝c., while Winter wheat markets were up only about 1½c. The basis for the strength was the bad weather and the crop damage reports from the Northwest. There were numerous black rust reports from Canada, and although they have been strenuously denied as they have come in hitherto, the reports exerted a good deal of influence yesterday. There were also reports of serious delay in crop development as a result of the cold wet weather there. It has been unusually cold in Manitoba the past month, with a great deal of rain, and bright warm weather is urgently needed. In the American Northwest there were heavy rains over Sunday, making nearly a week of rainfall, which has not only delayed harvesting very seriously but has injured the quality of the grain where it has been cut. In Winter wheat markets the receipts were much less than last week. The Kansas State Report made the crop 10,000,000 bushels less than last year, but the Missouri report showed a yield of 2 bushels per acre more than last year, and the Michigan report was good. World's exports for the week were 10,923,000 bushels against 10,448,000 bushels the previous week, and 10,464,000 bushels last year. The visible supply increased 4,565,000 bushels in the United States, which was more than expected, and the grand total is 45,881,000 bushels, against only 14,978,000 bushels last year. The Canadian visible decreased 621,000 bushels. The amount afloat for Europe increased 1,128,000 bushels. Cash wheat was inactive but strong; No. 2 red was quoted at 97c. free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.17¼; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.02¼; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.09¼.

CORN.—In the face of the strength in wheat corn was heavy, and closed with a small net loss for the day. The selling was due to the very favorable weather conditions in the Missouri Valley. There were good rains in Nebraska and Kansas over Sunday, and now nearly every portion of the corn belt has received generous rainfall. The visible supply decreased 1,095,000 bushels, which caused some buying and prices late were influenced by the strength in wheat. World's corn exports for the week were 4,364,000 bushels against 3,416,000 bushels the previous week. Cash corn was quiet, with No. 2 quoted at 70½c. elevator domestic and 70c. free on board.

OATS.—The market was less active and easier. There was some selling in sympathy with the decline in corn and there was an absence of active support. The crop estimates from the West of a little over 800,000,000 bushels acted as a depressing factor. The visible supply increased 1,797,000 bushels, showing the results of the heavy new crop movement last week. Spot oats were quiet, with standards 46½c.; No. 2 white, 47c.; No. 3, 46c.

PROVISIONS.—The market advanced to new high levels, with fairly active trading. There was more buying on the strength of the live hog market, which was higher at nearly all points, and receipts were small, being less than 80,000 at interior markets. The close was with a little reaction.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market was active and higher on the early session, with good buying on the strength of lard and the sharp advance in cotton. Reports of crop damage in Arkansas had some effect. Later there was some reaction on the early and heavy movement of new cotton in Texas and on talk of an early movement of new seed. The close was rather quiet, with near positions showing advance for the day, while distant deliveries were lower. Future prices follow:

COTTON.

The cotton market after advancing 25 to 30 points closed at about 10 points under the best. There was very heavy buying during the morning by brokers said to be representing the bull party. These purchases amounted to about 100,000 bales and absorbed the early offerings, leaving the market comparatively bare and resulted in very active local covering of shorts. Prices showed some decline from this sharp advance on selling, owing to the heavy movement of new cotton in Texas. Prices were carried down about 10 points, but with renewal of active bull support in the afternoon, helped by a bullish circular from Mr. Price, the market advanced to the highest levels of the day. The tip which was out on Friday that the market was to be put to 12 cents was again in circulation, but the trade did not enthuse as much as it did over the first information. Reports that cotton was suffering in Arkansas on account of heavy rain and overflow of bottom land had some effect on the market during the morning. On the other hand this was in part offset by very optimistic reports of the crop condition in Georgia and Alabama and record crop estimates from Texas. The heavy movement of new cotton is arousing caution in the near deliveries, and there were reports of inside selling on the advance. Shipments from New York stocks have recently been liberal, but with the heavy new crop movement replenishment does not seem very far off. There were predictions of a record August movement of new crop cotton.

Southern spot markets were unchanged to ⅛c decline.

New York spot cotton quiet, unchanged; middling uplands, 12.75c.

Market barely steady at 2 points decline to 25 points advance.

COFFEE.

Coffee was fairly active, total sales being 68,000 bags on a steady undertone, and closing net unchanged to 9 points higher. Havre and Hamburg both gained ½ to ¾ points. Brazilian markets were also firm, showing gains of 50 to 75 reis, and cost and freight offers from Brazil were unchanged to 5 points higher. Trading has been particularly active in the September position, and the recent course of prices shows that the September premium over December has narrowed from a premium of 74 points during the last two weeks down to 57 points. Warehouse deliveries of Brazilian coffee at United States ports last week were 90,015 bags, against 59,880 the previous week and 87,263 last year.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Two Big Apartment Houses Figure in Trades—Deal on West Thirty-fourth Street—Builder Buys Washington Heights Corner—A $225,000 Investment Purchase in Brooklyn.

Apartment house trading was the feature of yesterday's realty market, which opened strong in all its branches and gave promise of an unusually active week.

On the upper west side the new six-story elevator apartment known as the Alexander Hamilton, at the northeast corner of 161st Street and Broadway, was sold by Isaac Brothers to Maurice B. Mendham. The structure stands on a plot 99.11 by 100. In part payment the buyer gives a plot on Teasdale Place, near Cauldwell Avenue, in the Bronx; a four-story residence, with garage, on plot 200 by 200, on Locust Hill Avenue, running through to North Broadway, Yonkers, and a five-story flat in Brooklyn.

The deal, which involves total considerations of about $400,000, was negotiated by Mrs. Lillian G. Johnson.

Another trade was negotiated by Jules Nehring and I. Dittenheimer & Co., who sold 57 West Tenth Street, an eight-story elevator studio apartment house on a plot 22 by 94. The buyer gave as part payment eight lots in Harrington Park, N. J., and six and a half acres in Rochelle Park, N. J. The transaction involves about $100,000.

Deal on West Thirty-fourth Street.

The Troy Realty Company has purchased from Robert M. Silverman 314 and 316 West Thirty-fourth Street, two old dwellings, on plot 33.4 by 98.9. The properties are about 200 feet west of Eighth Avenue, directly opposite the Manhattan Opera House, and will probably be improved by the buyer with a modern loft.

Buys Washington Heights Corner.

The Morris Simon construction Company has purchased from Robert M. Silverman a plot on the southeast corner of Audubon Avenue and 170th Street, 75 by 95.

Ground will be broken at once for the erection of a six-story elevator apartment house.

The Private Dwelling Market.

Joseph C. Levi has sold 50 West Ninety-first Street, a four-story dwelling, on lot 18 by 100.8, between Central Park West and Columbus Avenue.

Edward C. Williams & Co. have sold for William H. Linson to Israel Lebowitz, 135 West 136th Street, a four-story American basement dwelling on lot 15.6 by 100.

Bronx.

Edward C. Williams & Co. have sold for Mrs. Anna Schoen to John H. Leith, the plot 50 by 80, on the west side of Grand Concourse, 282 feet north of 184th Street.

Brooklyn.

Galitzka & Co. have sold for the Brown-Weiss Realty Company of New York to an investor the six-story elevator apartment house, known as Willow Court, on the northwest corner of Willow and Clark Streets, on a plot 101 by 101. It was held at $225,000.

The same firm also sold for Thomas F. Martin thirty-five lots on the south side of Fifty-sixth Street, 700 by 100, running from First to Second Avenue, near the Bush Terminal, for $150,000. This property will be improved with an up-to-date loft building.

Suburban.

J. W. Doolittle has sold for the Douglaston Realty Company at Douglaston Park, L. I., to William S. Boggs, a plot 80 by 100 on Virginia Road; to Walter J. Smith, a plot 80 by 100 on Harvard Road; to Emerson J. Paul, a plot 100 by 100 at the corner of the Boulevard and Princeton Road, and to George B. Kessler, a plot 60 by 156 on the Boulevard, near Broadway.

The James Jay Smith Company has sold at Groton Long Point, Conn., a plot fronting the Cove to Frank Collins; also, a plot on Beach Avenue to M. G. Porter and one to George Munroe.

Archibald C. Foss has sold to a client Matthew J. Smith's country home on the shore of Lake Mahopac, Putnam County, N. Y. The property is now occupied by Bird S. Coler, who rented it for the Summer. The purchaser will use the property as a Summer home.

New Shubert Music Hall Plans.

Plans for the new music hall to be erected by the Shuberts on property leased from the Astor estate, at 216 to 232 West Forty-fourth Street, just west of Broadway, were filed yesterday by W. Albert Swasey. It will be a two-story structure of stone, the cost of which is estimated at $250,000.

Lofts for Atlantic Garden Site.

George Finck has placed for various clients loans aggregating $477,000 at 4½ and 5 per cent. interest, including a two-hundred-thousand-dollar loan for the improvement of the Atlantic Garden site, on the Bowery, with an eight-story structure containing a theatre and lofts.

New Harlem Theatre.

Pease & Elliman have leased for a term of years for J. & C. Fischer to J. M. Goldstein, at an aggregate rental of $86,000, the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and 102d Street. This plot, 50 by 95, will be improved with a fireproof building for theatrical purposes.

Notes.

The Lewis H. May Company has opened an uptown branch office at the southeast corner of Broadway and Ninety-eighth Street, in the new Borchardt apartment house, and has been appointed renting agent of the building.

Rouse & Goldstone have completed plans for a twelve-story structure to be erected at 747 to 751 West End Avenue, 50 by 100, by the Marmac Construction Company.

Frederick Southack & Alwyn Ball, Jr., have leased for the Improved Property Holding Company of New York the store and basement 1,171 Broadway for a long term of years to Truly Warner, at an aggregate rental of over $75,000.

Six Prize House Plans Free
¶ These six plans received highest awards in the competition conducted by the Building Trades Employers' Association. More than 200 designs were submitted and there were 176 contestants. Three of the plans are for $2,500 detached houses and the other three for houses to cost $4,500. An estimate of cost is given with each. This Exhibition of Building Materials is open to the public, without charge, from 9 A. M. to 5:30 P. M. It has taken three years to prepare it—upwards of 200 exhibits are already installed—more than $200,000.00 have already been expended in bringing it to its present state. It is one of the sights of New York and you should plan to visit it without delay.

WESTCHESTER—SALE OR TO LET. | WESTCHESTER—SALE OR TO LET.

The Laugh's On You
Over five hundred families have purchased from us, modern 5, 6 and 7 room houses (on our easy payment system like rent) in the past few years, and have brought their families up in good, clean surroundings, amid fresh air and the hills of Westchester County, close to the shore, where they could enjoy all the pleasures of country, including boating, bathing, and fishing; plenty of fresh eggs, raising their little chickens and growing their own vegetables, in the Summer, and true home life in the Winter time—away from objectionable neighbors, and having the freedom which they could not have in city flats.
HAVE YOU DONE THIS?
IS THE LAUGH ON YOU?
Have you been one of the many who have been induced to purchase suburban real estate—LOTS—which you are still the owner of and paying taxes on—without benefits—waiting for them to increase in value, as hundreds of others who purchased the same time as you did, only to realize that if you tried to sell you would have to sacrifice? Your money is laying dead and losing the interest and the principal. Now, don't you think the laugh is on you? When you purchase a home from us, you buy a HOUSE ready to move in.
WRITE OR CALL to-day and let us explain to you how, with a small amount DOWN and the balance in MONTHLY PAYMENTS, you can own your own home. It will place you under no obligation—and will open up an opportunity to make an investment the success of which you can determine to your entire satisfaction before you "go in"—you can see homes occupied by people who secured them through this arrangement with us. And remember, as a special inducement during the month of August, only,

The BELNORD
BROADWAY TO AMSTERDAM AVENUE
Eighty-sixth to Eighty-seventh Street

EVERY ROOM IN THE BELNORD IS AN OUTSIDE ROOM. The building covers an entire city block and is 12 stories high. It is the largest apartment house in the world and encloses the largest court.

The inner rooms in The Belnord are unequalled for light and air. They look on to Belnord Court, which is a miniature park, with grass plots, shrubs, and walks, and playing fountains.

Apartments in The Belnord range in size from 7 to 11 rooms, at yearly rentals beginning at $2,400. Each suite contains well proportioned rooms and includes every modern device for comfort and convenience. The service, too, is ideal.

The absence of noise and virbation is an important feature of The Belnord. The location is quiet, and the engine rooms are located under the central court. Interested parties are welcome to inspect The Belnord.

Reservations can now be made for October 1st.

WESTWARD'S FIRST AMERICAN VICTORY

A. S. Cochran's Herreshoff Schooner Scores in New York Yacht Club's Cruise.

Special to The New York Times.

SAG HARBOR, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Alexander S. Cochran's schooner Westward came into her own to-day in the race from New London to this port in the third day's squadron run of the New York Yacht Club cruise. She led the big racing fleet across the Sound in a day that varied in airs from almost nothing to a fairly fresh breath from the southward when the first toot from the Regatta Committee's boat at the finish line indicated that Westward had crossed.

Incidentally the day was momentous for Mr. Cochran and his dandy craft, for it was the first victory she had gained in American waters. The prize turn-out of the Herreshoff shops last year has done all of her racing heretofore abroad, and only made her American bid for honors in the first day's run to Morris Cove. The little bit of sharp scrutiny she got in the New London harbor yesterday evidently was to some purpose, for the handsome craft showed a few new tricks to-day that benefited on every technical move she made.

It was not a day for big sailing yachts, and it was hardly expected that anything of the scrap between Capt. Dennis on the other big Herreshoff schooner Elena and ex-Commodore E. D. Morgan, sailing Westward, which has been on since the cruise started, would develop anything interesting. It was little boat weather all day, so that Westward's victory was all the more surprising, for, true to the dope, Atlantic, the biggest over-all boat in the fleet, was next to the last to cross the line to-night. It was no day for the big Emperor's Cup winner, and she lolled along all day, just staying to show that there were no hard feelings.

The special prizes for to-day's run were the Alumni Association of United States Navy Challenge Cups, and the winners were the schooner Westward and the sloop Adventuress. The order of the finish was Westward, Irolita, Istalena, Elena, Adventuress, Avenger, Enchantress, Ariel, Dorella, Sea Fox, Corinthian, Cara Mia, Windward, Irondequoit, Gardenia, Taormina, Katrina, Alera, Hermes, Emerald, Hester, Phryne, Intrepid, Cygnet, Dervish, Nepsi, Juanita, Rowdy, Banzai, Vagrant, Atlantic, and

There was so little of that very needful element in yacht racing—wind—at the scheduled time for the start, 10 o'clock, that the committee on the officials' tug off Sarah's Ledge, just outside of New London, was obliged to postpone the start, first for fifteen minutes and then for a few more fifteen minutes' postponements until 10:55 A. M. A mite of a breeze which came from the southward was the thing which made the committee act, and the Class P boats and the "thirties" were signaled for and sent away.

R. A. Monk's Windward, down at the lee end of the line and on the port tack, led the fleet across, and the twenty-one-mile race to Fort Pond Bay, at the end of Long Island, was on. After Windward got away, Cara Mia, Corinthian, Joyant, which was not racing, and Carmita floated over. Then the "thirties" went over this way: Juanita, Phryne, Banzai, Caprice, Nepsi, Dahinda, and Alera. At 11 o'clock George M. Pynchon's sloop Istalena headed her class over, about going to point as she got free of the line. Daniel Bacon, at the wheel of his Avenger, was somewhat brisker than the preceding racers, probably due to an extra slant of wind that had come along opportunely. Irondequoit was close under Avenger's lee beam; Dorello, a Vice Commodore Cup winner, with W. Barklie Henry at the wheel, then came along, closely followed by Adventuress, Hester, Gardenia, and Hermes. They went away in order and within the time limit set for the class. Their bigger sisters of the schooner class were not so lucky, for what little wind there was dropped further away and was so light that manoeuvring to get over with the tide setting was no cinch. Seneca crossed a bit previous and was called back. Before she could get straightened out all of her class except the Iris had sailed in this order: Katrina, Dervish, Miladi, Taormina, Cygnet, and Vagrant. Iris was nearly ten minutes late getting over.

Before the small class of schooners had crossed the line the signal, at 11:10 o'clock, for the big schooners was hung up. Elena at that time was surrounded by the small schooners. Ahead of her was Taormina; to port were Cygnet and Vagrant, all on the starboard tack. Westward had her wind clear and closed in the lead. Ariel then came along; then Elena, Sea Fox, Endymion, and Emerald in that order, using up nearly ten minutes instead of five to cross. Enchantress was not able to cross the line until long after her time. Endymion was also helped up, and so was the yawl Feu Follet. Intrepid, Atlantic, and Ariadne were to start at 11:15, but the wind was so light that it was nearly ten minutes later before they got straightened out.

In the extremely light air from the southwest the big schooners made the best of their way across the Sound toward Bay Harbor, at the west end of Fisher's Island, on the starboard tack. At 11:30 Irolita tacked to port, and soon after crossed the wakes of Westward and Elena. Westward tacked to port at 11:41, and stood to the westward, and when Elena went about, a minute later, she was placed a few lengths off the Westward's weather quarter. Enchantress was then three miles away to the northwest on the other side of the Sound. When Capt. Dennis, on Elena, had that schooner a little forward of the Westward's weather beam either the wind headed Elena off or he kept her off until he had blanketed the Westward.

When they straightened out Westward was a couple of lengths in the other's wake. In ten minutes Elena had gained nearly an eighth of a mile on the Cochran yacht, but at 12:20 Westward had overhauled and passed Elena to leeward, and from that time on Westward led Elena. But at 12:45 Irolita had passed them both and was leading Westward by about a quarter of a mile, and Westward led Elena by half a mile. The tide in the race was running to the east. Meanwhile the sloops Istalena, Avenger, and Adventuress had made for the Westward right after the start, with the result that Istalena was the first sloop to round Little Gull Light.

What little wind there was now came from the southeast, and it soon began to freshen. Westward set her balloon jibtopsail at 1 o'clock, and Elena followed suit, but she was unable to overhaul the international winner, which was footing remarkably fast. She luffed around the first turning mark—the buoy on Constellation Rock—at 1:50, leading the entire fleet. The others rounded it in this order and times:

	H.M.S.		H.M.S.
Adventuress	1:53:10	Dorello	1:59:50
Irolita	1:54:30	Irondequoit	2:02:00
Istalena	1:55:58	Taormina	2:05:00
Avenger	1:56:55	Enchantress	2:08:00
Elena	1:57:45	Sea Fox	2:09:00
Windward	1:59:00

With a good fresh southeasterly breeze they were all able to lay their course on the nine-mile close fetch to Cerebus Shoal whistling buoy, which they rounded in this order, the Westward increasing her lead all the way:

	H.M.S.		H.M.S.
Westward	3:00:00	Cara Mia	3:31:50
Irolita	3:10:50	Ariel	3:32:00
Istalena	3:10:55	Enchantress	3:32:30
Elena	3:11:20	Katrina	3:34:00
Adventuress	3:16:10	Corinthian	3:34:10
Avenger	3:21:50	Irondequoit	3:37:00
Dorello	3:30:10	Sea Fox	3:37:20
Taormina	3:30:45

From here to the finish it was close-hauled work on the port tack. The Elena made a three-minute hitch to get clear of the Irolita's back wind at 3:41; and the Irolita made a short one soon after. The Westward made a short hitch near the finish and she crossed the line at 3:56:49 and Elena at 4:11:18. Westward won by a little over fourteen minutes.

BUNDY VANQUISHES LITTLE.

Frederick C. Inman Also Defeated in New York State Tennis Singles.

Outspeeded and outgeneraled by the Californian, Thomas C. Bundy, the former international player, Raymond D. Little, yielded up his place in the New York State lawn tennis championship tournament yesterday on the turf courts of the Crescent Athletic Club at Bay Ridge. The score of the match, which was easily one of the best that Little has ever contested, was 6—8, 6—4, 6—3. The result of it was to advance Bundy to the semifinal round of the singles in the lower half, so that now the experts have figured that the final for the title appears likely to be the two players from the Pacific Coast, Bundy and Maurice E. McLoughlin.

The singles also held one other feature in that Lyle E. Mahan, the former Columbia champion, eliminated Frederick C. Inman, the holder of the New York State title, playing through at 6—4, 6—3. The outcome of this contest was considered an upset. Inman ranked on the National list as 15 for last season, while Mahan was 29. Mahan's towering six feet three inches of height spread over the court and all of Inman's best passing strokes were intercepted and returned with plenty of pace for aces. Another singles that contained the elements of a reversal was the defeat of Richard H. Palmer by Theodore Roosevelt Pell by the score 6—2, 6—4.

Interest in the doubles centred entirely upon the appearance of Frederick B. Alexander and Harold H. Hackett, the National and State champions. The two discounted all reports as to their being crippled or short on practice. They worked as smoothly together as of old. The rallies at the net were brought off with the same snapping surety, while no opening went unfilled by a pass.

They sailed through H. L. Westfall and Samuel A. Westfall to the one-sided score of 6—2, 6—love. Following this a default carried them into the third round. The summary:

New York State Championship, Men's Singles.—Third Round—Pell defeated H. Palmer, 6—2, 6—4.

Fourth Round—L. E. Mahan defeated F. C. Inman, 6—4, 6—3.

Fifth Round—T. C. Bundy defeated R. D. Little, 6—8, 6—4, 6—3.

Men's Championship Doubles.—First Round—H. H. Hackett and F. B. Alexander defeated S. A. Westfall and H. L. Westfall, 6—2, 6—0; R. W. Seabury and G. H. Middlebrook defeated G. I. Burr and H. Swain, 6—5, 10—8.

Second Round—G. M. Church and Dean Mathey defeated W. H. Y. Hackett and C. H. Leonard, 6—1, 7—5; C. M. Bull, Jr., and H. C. Martin defeated L. J. Grant and A. S. Ingersoll, 6—2, 6—2; H. H. Hackett and F. B. Alexander defeated F. H. Davis and L. du Pont Irving by default.

Third Round—G. N. Church and Dean Mathey defeated Dr. Ewing Taylor and G. Clark by default.

Germantown's Cricket Erratic.

CHATHAM, England, Aug. 7.—The Germantown Cricket Club of Philadelphia, Penn., to-day played a team of members of the Royal Engineers. Batting first, the visitors made a bad start, and were all out for 87 runs. The engineers replied with 167 in their innings. O'Neill bowled well, taking seven wickets for 45. The Germantown players in their second innings were in better form, and when stumps were drawn, had scored 118 runs for one wicket. J. R. Stewart made 41 runs, and R. I. Pierson 56, not out.

Steam Yacht Winchester's Fast Run.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 7.—Some remarkable figures of the run of the New York steam yacht Winchester from New York to this port Saturday, were made public to-day. The Winchester covered the 140 miles between the East river station of the New York Yacht Club to Brentons Reef off this port in a trifle less than five hours. This is said to be a record run between these two points. The Winchester is a turbine yacht owned by Peter W. Rouff.

Surgical Gut Strings Are Held Not "Parts of Musical Instruments."

It was decided yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers that gut strings intended for surgical use as ligatures, are not dutiable under the provision in the present tariff for "musical instruments." The importations in question were made for Eugene B. Baehr. Collector Loeb held that the gut fell under the tariff's designation for "strings for musical instruments" and accordingly exacted duty at the rate of 45 per cent. ad valorem.

The importer went before the board with the claim that the merchandise should be accorded free entry under the provision of the law for "catgut unmanufactured." This claim Judge Sharretts sustains. The decision says that from the official exhibits in the case the gut is in a condition with regard to quality and finish which indicates that it is commercially unfit for use as strings for musical instruments. The testimony shows that the strings are imported in coils of 100 feet in length; that they are designed for use as surgical ligatures, and that in tensile strength and finish they are so inferior to the strings suitable for use on musical instruments that their sole practical employment is as ligatures.

In this respect the present merchandise differs, the decision says, from the catgut strings passed upon by the board some time ago. It is held that the catgut in question is in a crude condition. The protest is sustained, and the Collector reversed.

Ordinary mantels of marble are not "sculptures" under the tariff it was decided yesterday by the board. The W. M. Jackson Company and others objected to the assessment imposed by Collector Loeb, which was 50 per cent. ad valorem under the provision for "manufactures of marble." The contention of the importers was that the articles should be allowed to enter as "sculptures" with duty at 15 per cent., or else as "antiques" free of duty. Judge Waite says in his decision that judging from the report of Appraiser Bird, the mantels are dutiable as assessed. The protests are overruled. Other importers affected by the decision include the Bradley Currier Company, and M. J. Corbett & Co.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—A disturbance that has moved from the Middle Plains States to the upper lake regions since Sunday night has caused showers in the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys and the lake region. Heavy local rains fell at divers points from Minnesota to Florida.

Temperatures are unseasonably low over the Northwest, and are relatively high over the Middle West and Southwest. The disturbance over the Great Lakes will advance eastward, attended by showers, reaching by Tuesday night or Wednesday into Northern New England and interior New York.

In the Middle Atlantic States the weather will be unsettled Tuesday and probably fair Wednesday.

Lower temperatures will overspread the Northwest Tuesday. Elsewhere throughout the country temperature changes will be unimportant.

Winds along the New England Coast will be light to moderate east to southeast; Middle Atlantic Coast, light to moderate south; South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate variable.

Steamships departing Tuesday for European ports will have moderate east to south winds and overcast weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York and New England—Overcast Tuesday, probably followed by local showers Tuesday night or on Wednesday in north portion, not much change in temperature; light to moderate east to south winds.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Unsettled Tuesday; Wednesday probably fair, not much change in temperature; light to moderate south winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1910.	1911.		1910.	1911.
3 A. M.	68	70	4 P. M.	79	74
6 A. M.	65	69	6 P. M.	78	73
9 A. M.	70	72	9 P. M.	75	70
12 M.	77	73	12 P. M.	73	69

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 72; for the corresponding date last year it was 72; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 73.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 70; at 8 P. M. it was 70. Maximum temperature, 76 degrees at 2:30 P. M.; minimum, 69 degrees at 6 A. M. Humidity, 86 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 81 per cent. at 8 P. M.

High Class Help.

The "Help Wanted" advertisements of The New York Times are the most carefully scrutinized and therefore the most exclusive published in any newspaper in New York.

People who know, employers and seekers for employment, realize this, and it is safe to say that "Help Wanted" advertisements published in The New Tork Times reach a greater per cent. of desirable people than do those of any newspaper.

Go to any advertising agency or telephone The New York Times, Bryant 1000.

NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS.
Commencing August 15th, 1911,
WE WILL PROVIDE IN OUR BUILDING AT 56 AND 58 COOPER SQUARE, (CORNER 7TH STREET AND 4TH AVE.), ONE ENTIRE FLOOR WHERE SKILLED WORKMEN OF ALL KINDS CAN CONGREGATE MORNINGS FOR THE PURPOSE OF BEING INTERVIEWED BY PROSPECTIVE EMPLOYERS. WE WILL ALSO PROVIDE ON ANOTHER FLOOR SPACE FOR UNSKILLED WORKMEN.

EMPLOYERS ARE RESPECTFULLY REQUESTED TO SEND THEIR REPRESENTATIVES TO THE ABOVE ADDRESS WHENEVER IT IS POSSIBLE TO DO SO IN PLACE OF TELEPHONING, SO AS TO PERSONALLY SELECT THE MEN NEEDED. THIS METHOD OF BRINGING EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE TOGETHER WILL NOT ONLY DO AWAY WITH THE BOTHER OF ADVERTISING, BUT WILL BE OF BENEFIT TO THE WORKING MEN AND ADVANTAGEOUS TO EMPLOYERS. AS IT IS NOW, IT IS IMPOSSIBLE FOR THE WORKING MAN TO CALL IN RESPONSE TO THE MANY ADVERTISEMENTS FOR HELP IN HIS LINE APPEARING IN THE DAILY PAPERS. AT THE PLACES HE IS ABLE TO CALL, HE FREQUENTLY IS NOT ACCEPTED, FOR ONE REASON OR ANOTHER, AND BY THE TIME HE ARRIVES AT OTHER PLACES HE IS TOO LATE. THIS CAUSES HIM TO BE OUT OF EMPLOYMENT DAYS AT A TIME, AND EMPLOYERS FREQUENTLY HAVE TO REPEAT THEIR ADVERTISEMENTS BEFORE THEY SECURE THE SUITABLE MEN, SO IT CAN READILY BE SEEN THAT BY HAVING ONE PLACE WHERE EMPLOYERS AND EMPLOYEES CAN MEET, IT WILL SAVE BOTH NOT ONLY TIME AND MONEY, BUT A GREAT DEAL OF TROUBLE.

EVERY MAN SEEKING EMPLOYMENT MAY HAVE THE BENEFIT OF OUR SERVICES FREE OF CHARGE UNTIL HE ACTUALLY SECURES EMPLOYMENT THROUGH US, WHEN A SMALL FEE WILL BE CHARGED.

NO MEN WILL BE FURNISHED WHERE THERE IS A STRIKE.

SURROGATE CITATION.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW York, by the grace of God free and independent.—To EDWARD FARLEY, SAMUEL A. THORP, JULIA V. THORP WALL, JENNIE A. THORP BOHEN, and WALTER R. THORP, CARRIE FOOTE, JOHN B. SEDORE, ELIZABETH BROWN, and all the other heirs and next of kin of MARY A. KING, late of the County of New York, deceased, if any there be, whose names and places of residence are unknown and cannot after diligent inquiry be ascertained by the petitioner herein:

Send greeting: Whereas, MARY F. THORP of the City of New York has lately applied to the Surrogate's Court of our County of New York, to have a certain instrument in writing, dated the eleventh day of August, 1904, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last will and testament of MARY A. KING, late of the County of New York, deceased, therefore, you and each of you are cited to appear before the Surrogate of our County of New York, at his office in the County of New York, on the second day of October, one thousand nine hundred and eleven, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend the probate of the said last will and testament.

And such of you as are hereby cited, as are under the age of twenty-one years, are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none, to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so, a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof we have caused the Seal of the Surrogate's Court of the said County of New York to be hereunto affixed.

[L. S.] Witness, Hon. ROBERT LUDLOW FOWLER, a Surrogate of our said County of New York, at said county, the 2d day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eleven.

JUSTIFIES GAMBIER'S DESERTION OF WIFE

Court Finds That Her Conduct Was Such That He Was Warranted in Leaving Her.

EVIDENCE AGAINST HER PLEA

Didn't Love Her Husband, the Justice Says, and Induced Him to Marry Her by False Representations.

Supreme Court Justice Pendleton, in a decision handed down yesterday, finds that Edward Victor Gambier, the cashier of the Exchange National Bank, is entitled to a separation from his wife, Edith Russell Gambier. His suit for an annulment of the marriage will be tried before a jury in the Fall.

The case attracted much attention when it was tried in June. Mrs. Gambier complained that her husband had abandoned her, and it was shown at the trial that Mrs. Gambier, who was a resident of Atlanta, Ga., first refused to marry Gambier, later wrote a letter to him saying that she would marry him, and after their marriage turned against him.

Justice Pendleton says that the abandonment was justifiable and that Mrs. Gambier induced her husband to marry her by false representations. He says:

"The couple were married in New York on April 30, 1910, and lived together until Aug. 10 of the same year, when the defendant left the plaintiff, intending never to live with her again. This is the desertion relied on. The affirmative matter relied on by way of defense is substantially that the plaintiff never loved the defendant—that before marriage she falsely represented that she loved him and then intended to live with him as his wife, when she in fact did not, and thereby induced him to marry her by false representations."

Justice Pendleton then goes on to explain the law relative to desertion and abandonment, and says that the fact that Gambier left his wife with the intent never to return to her is not enough to warrant a desertion within the meaning of the law if such action on Gambier's part was caused by his wife's wrongful acts.

In commenting on the fact that after the separation Mrs. Gambier wrote to her husband saying that she loved him and was willing to return to him and live as his wife, Justice Pendleton says:

"This letter was offered as a part of Mrs. Gambier's case to show the bona fides of her contentions that she entertained for the defendant a genuine love or affection, and had performed all her obligations, and that Gambier's object in leaving her was without cause or justification. And if at that very time she was conducting herself with another man, as testified by some of the witnesses, it could not have been, and can only be received as intended for the purpose of litigation. Such facts tend to throw suspicion on her whole case and all her protestations of love for her husband.

"It would be impossible to reconcile such conditions with the belief that she entertained a feeling of love for her husband or was willing in good faith to live with him."

During the trial it was testified that Mrs. Gambier was seen in the company of a man known as Mr. Sickler of 1 West Sixty-eighth Street, who was referred to as the "unknown" during the first days of the trial, as his name was not mentioned.

Speaking of Gambier's side of the case Justice Pendleton says:

"That the defendant loved the plaintiff, desired her as his wife, and married her with every intention of doing his duty by her, and after the marriage treated her with great consideration and attention, the evidence abundantly proves."

The letter referred to by Justice Pendleton, in speaking of her writing to Gambier and saying that she had changed her mind and was willing to marry him, was headed "My Dear Edward" and signed "Eda" It says that he could simplify matters by asking her to become "Mrs. E. V. Gambier." Most of the other letters sent to Gambier by Mrs. Gambier were headed "Dear Mr. Gambier," although there was one "Dearest Man." His letters to her were addressed "Dear A. C." which he explained stood for "Angel Child." Others were addressed "Dearest Ede" and "My Precious Girl."

SEA GIRT CAMPERS BUSY.

Infantry and Cavalry at Drill, Artillery Rest After Hike—Autoist Disciplined.

Special to The New York Times.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 7.—Hard work following a day of leisure made up the programme to-day for the men of the Fourth Regiment, First and Second Troops, and Battery B, N. G., N. J. The one topic of discussion in camp was the trip made by Battery B from Camden to Sea Girt, and the officers and men were congratulated upon the splendid condition in which both horses and men were upon their arrival.

The men of the Fourth Regiment were put through a course of instruction by Major Evan O. Johnson of the Sixth U. S. Artillery, using company formations entirely. Major George O. Cress, Tenth Cavalry, U. S. A., was the instructor of the two troops, and he gave them a strenuous ride for a couple of hours this morning, following which there was stable drill. The members of the battery had a comparatively easy day, as Lieut. Edwin St. J. Greble of the Third Field Artillery, regular army instructor, thought they needed rest.

Gov. Wilson hardly left his desk until this evening, when he was the host at his third and last military dinner. The guests included Gen. Robert K. Evans, Chief of the Division of Militia Affairs, U. S. A.; Major George O. Cress, and Lieut. Edward St. J. Greble of the regular service; Col. Henry H. Brinkerhoff, and Lieut. Col Arthur Steele and his Adjutant, Capt. John O. Van Slyke of the Fourth Regiment; Capt. Edwin Field of Troop B, Capt. Samuel B. Barnard of Battery B, Capt. William A. Bryant of Troop A, Col. Austen Colgate, who was personal Aid to Gov. Fort; Adjutant Gen. Wilbur F. Sadler, Jr., Col. Archibald Alexander, Lieut. Col. William Libbey, Capt. Ralph W. E. Donges of the Governor's staff, and Lieut. Col. William G. Schauffler.

Gen. Evans will leave here to-morrow for Camp Perry, Ohio, where he will be in charge of the rifle matches soon to take place there.

A story is told in camp of the way in which Gen. Sadler made an automobilist behave himself during the church service yesterday morning. Guards are stationed on the road leading past the Governor's cottage, and during the service no one is allowed to drive by. One man went past the first sentry with his machine, and Sadler saw him. The Adjutant General told the man not to go any further and the driver became very indignant, declaring it was a public highway and insinuating that the men stopping him were only "tin soldiers." Sadler turned to the sentry and directed him to put the bayonet on his gun and stick it through a tire if the machine moved a foot forward. The man turned back without another word.

STATUE OF HOPE RUINED.

Vandals Destroy Figure Sculptor Was Making for a Tomb.

Antonio Corbo, a sculptor of 15 Boyden Street, Newark, told the police yesterday that some one had destroyed a marble statue of Hope on which he was working and which was to adorn a tombstone. The figures was a draped female figure, and only needed a few finishing touches.

Corbo, who was almost overcome with grief, said the face was chipped beyond recognition. The fingers were broken off and the folds of the drapery hacked.

NUGENT DOES NOT RETRACT

Tells Committee Insult to Wilson Is His Private Affair.

James R. Nugent, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, announced yesterday in Newark that he had sent a reply to each of the members of the committee who, headed by Gen. Dennis F. Collins, requested the State Chairman to resign from the committee if it was true, as reported in the newspapers, that he had offered an insult to Gov. Wilson by "toasting" him an "ingrate and a liar" in a restaurant at Neptune Heights.

In his letter, Mr. Nugent says that the social gathering at the Neptune Heights restaurant two weeks ago was a private one and did not seem to him to come within the "purview" of the State Committee. He calls attention to the fact that he contemplates calling a meeting of the committee in the near future, according to custom, for the consideration of party matters, and adds that due notice of this meeting will be given to the members of the committee.

In his letter to the members of the committee, Mr. Nugent says:

> As, however, you and others believe that official notice should be taken of this purely personal incident, I would say that it may be brought before any regularly called meeting of the State Committee. At all times I am glad to answer for any political action of mine to the committee which honored me with the office of State Chairman.

This letter was mailed by Mr. Nugent before he received the one sent to him by Secretary William K. Devereux, in consequence of the Coleman House conference at Asbury Park on Saturday. He said that he would reply to that in another letter, in which the announcement of his first communication would be explained.

According to the letter received yesterday by Mr. Nugent, Secretary Devereux stated that he was directed by Messrs. Carrow, Platt, Davis (by Mr. Kraft, proxy,) Kearans, Hampton, Grosscup, Crater, Dungan, and Collins of the State Committee, to request Nugent to call a meeting next Thursday at noon at the Coleman House, "to consider the matter submitted to you by certain members of the State Committee in informal session at Sea Girt, July 27."

TEXAS STRONG FOR WILSON.

State Organization Representing All Democratic Factions Starts Presidential Boom.

Special to The New York Times.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 7.—More than 200 representative Democrats, speaking for every faction and every section of Texas, this afternoon organized the Woodrow Wilson State Democratic League of Texas. They elected officers and an Executive Committee, and arranged for carrying the organization into every voting precinct of the State, with the sole and avowed purpose of instructing the forty delegates Texas will send to the Democratic National Convention next year to vote for Woodrow Wilson from first roll call till his nomination.

Headquarters of the league will be at Dallas, and the real work is already in progress. These officers were chosen: President—Former Speaker and Banking Commissioner Thomas B. Love of Dallas; Vice Presidents—Thomas B. Gregory of Austin and O. T. Holt of Houston; Secretary—George D. Armistead of San Antonio; Treasurer—Roger Roberdeau of Austin.

Several hundred prominent men sent by wire and letter regrets at their inability to attend. Congressman Robert L. Henry, who has been booming Speaker Champ Clark, wired he is now for Wilson. Many editors of leading newspapers advised President Love that their publications either had or would formally indorse the Governor of New Jersey. Though Texas has been rent for months, politically, over the issue of Statewide prohibition, among the leaders who had part in to-day's proceedings were Chairman Thomas H. Ball of the Prohibitionists and Judge James H. Robertson, who is Chairman of the Anti-Prohibition State Convention. Twenty-four of thirty-one State Senators are Wilson adherents, and more than eighty of the 133 members of the House are for him. Gov. Wilson's friends believe that the organization begun to-day will sweep the State, and that organized opposition to Gov. Wilson will cease after his speech at the Dallas Fair on Oct. 28. Judge Cato Sellso, until recently a supporter of Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio, was made Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Wilson League.

WILSON SAYS HE'S SURPRISED

Governor Declares in Letter He Thought Hudspeth Wished to Retire.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP WILSON, Sea Girt, N. J., Aug. 7.—By making public a letter which he wrote Saturday to Col. William C. Liller of Indianapolis, Gov. Wilson replied to-day to the charges made by ex-Senator Robert S Hudspeth of Hudson County that the latter had been dropped by the Governor after election. Gov. Wilson says that the dropping of Hudspeth, as he termed it, had been of Hudspeth's own seeking, as the former Senator stated that he had had enough of active politics. The Governor also says that Hudspeth had frankly stated that he would like to be left out of the latter entirely in the fight for the election of James E. Martine as United States Senator, because of his lifelong friendship with former Senator James Smith, Jr.

When the statement made by Hudspeth in which he said that he had been dropped, and that it had been very disappointing to him, because he had devoted many years of his life to the attempt to aid in restoring New Jersey to the Democracy, was shown to Gov. Wilson, he expressed much surprise. He said that the first intimation he had of this came on Saturday last, when Mr. Liller sent him a copy of Judge Hudspeth's letter, and that the only way he knew in which to comment on the matter would be to make public the letter sent to Mr. Liller last Saturday, which is as follows:

> My Dear Col. Liller: Thank you for your letters of July 31 and Aug. 2, with their interesting inclosures.
>
> The letter from Judge Hudspeth really distresses me. I had no idea that he felt as he does, and wish very much that he understood better than he appears to understand my real feeling, which has always been one of genuine cordiality and friendship.
>
> I, of course, knew of and deeply appreciated the great service he rendered in the campaign last Autumn, but I distinctly remember getting the impression—I would have said from conversations with Judge Hudspeth himself—that he had had enough of active participation in politics after his long service as Chairman of the State Committee, which he rendered at a great sacrifice of personal profit and convenience. When the question of the election of a Senator arose Judge Hudspeth was perfectly frank, and I honored the position he took very much. He frankly said that he would like to be left out of the matter entirely because of his lifelong friendship with ex-Senator Smith, although his personal judgment was that Mr. Martine ought to be returned to the Senate. I interpreted this to mean that he would rather not appear, at any rate during that season, as a supporter of my administration. Certainly he was not by any act I was conscious of "dropped" or slighted. It distresses me that he should have received that impression. With kind regards, sincerely yours,
>
> WOODROW WILSON.

Secretary Joseph P. Tumulty said this morning that the occasion of Judge Hudspeth's refusal to take part in the Senatorial campaign had to do with a meeting held in Jersey City. Mr. Tumulty promoted the meeting, at which the Governor was a speaker, and he asked Hudspeth to be one of the Vice Presidents. He says that Hudspeth took no notice of the invitation until the night of the meeting, when he declined, giving as a reason his friendship for James Smith, Jr.

Individual Cups for Horses Needless.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Aug. 7.—Individual drinking cups for horses were pronounced unnecessary to-night by the Montclair Town Council, which decided that the drinking fountains for horses and dogs, which had been shut off at the suggestion of the State Board of Health, should again be put in commission. Local horse owners and veterinarians convinced the authorities that there was no danger of spread of disease through the horses using the fountains.

The Man in the Tower Reports a Sale

He sees many men running in and out of town who need to replenish their summer wardrobes.

He also observes that there is ONE clearing out sale of men's clothes every season worth while.

That is WHEN THE THINGS A MAN OF TASTE REALLY WANTS are reduced.

The welcome occasion is now here.

While other stores have been announcing reductions for a month, it has not been necessary at the Weber & Heilbroner stores.

These clothes have been given the preference at their regular values by men who demand apparel that practically duplicates the material and work of New York's prominent custom tailors.

But—the time comes. It HAS come.

There are no reservations about this sale—mental or otherwise.

Here are the reductions:
All suits that sold

At $25 reduced to $18.50
At $30 reduced to $22.50
At $35 reduced to $25.50
At $40 reduced to $27.50

The clothes are all hand tailored—made especially for this season's business.

They embrace the whole line that has offered New Yorkers relief from everything heretofore known as ready-to-wear clothes.
